Fishing Season To Open on Saturday

by Huck Olson
Times Sports Editor

The factor that will determine the success, or lack of success, of the opening of the walleyed pike and northern pike fishing season on Saturday will be the weather. The anglers who will be most anxious about the weather, and the wind velocities, will be the "big water" fishermen, the boys who plan on fishing such waters as Lake of the Woods, Upper Red Lake, and Lake Winnibogoshish.

Reports from Wheeler's Point and Morris Point indicate that the Rainy river and Four Mile Bay have been ice-free for some time. The Big Traverse section of Lake of the Woods carries a vast sheet of ice as of Sunday, but this may break up with brisk winds that have prevailed.

Cal Marvin at Warroad states that Muskeg Bay and the Warroad river have been open for a week or so, and with an off-shore wind, the anglers should be able to fish around the blinker and perhaps make a try at Buffalo Bay. Incidentally, a number of local anglers have obtained non-resident Manitoba fishing licenses, at $6.50. These anglers can fish in the Buffalo Bay waters and take a daily limit of eight walleyed pike.

Undoubtedly the greatest concentration of walleyed pike anglers will be, as it has been the past number of years, at Waskish and the Tamarac river. As was the case last year, fishing in the Tamarac river will be limited to the 3½ miles from the outlet and upstream. Beyond that 3½ mile point fishing and fishermen will be prohibited, and this prohibition is for the purpose of permitting the walleyes to complete their spawning. This season is rated as a couple of weeks behind normal years and the pike's spawning will not be complete for a couple of weeks.

As a final word, don't forget to have a valid license on your person. And be sure, too, to have adequate life vests or cushions, and bad weather clothes.

Prowlers Defeat Fosston Tuesday

Righthanders Jon Looker and Billy Dicken combined to pitch a one-hit and one-run game on Tuesday night as the Prowlers defeated the Fosston Greyhounds, 5 to 1, in an inter-district baseball game played on the fairgrounds diamond. The lone run tallied by Fosston, and scored in the second inning, was unearned. The Prowlers scored four unearned runs in the fourth inning to take command of the game.

The Prowlers, boasting a five-game winning streak, will play the Roseau Rams here this evening, Wednesday. On Friday evening the Bemidji umberjacks will invade the fairgrounds diamond; and on Saturday night the Fertile Falcons will play the Prowlers here. Game time for the three games will be at 7:30 p.m.

In the top of the second Fosston's Mike Lindberg was safe on an error, stole second base, and then, after Frank Jesness had grounded out, Howie Lind drove a double to the center-field fence to score Lindberg and give the Greyhounds an early lead.

The Prowlers knotted the game in the third when Looker led off with a double down the right field foul line. After Nicky Drees and Tommy Cummings had grounded out, Dale Erickson punched a ground single into center field, scoring Looker.

In the fourt, with two men out, Billy Poole gained life on a Fosston error, Merle Sampson drove out a ground single, and an error on Looker's ground ball tallied Poole. Drees drew a walk to load the bases, and then Cummings tagged one of Lindberg's southpaw slants for a base-clearing triple.

Looker had five strikeouts and doled out one walk. Dicken struck out six in his three-inning stint. Lindberg collected nine strikeouts and issued one walk.

The box score:

Not Too Promising

Operation walleye, with a few diversionary attacks on saugers and northerns, will open a minute after midnight on Friday. That is, at 12:01 on Saturday morning. But with the continued cold weather, and with reports of ice floes on Lake of the Woods, Red Lake and "Winni," the prospect of a "bonanza" fishing season opener isn't too promising.

While the Rainy and Tamarac rivers are open, and have been open for a couple of weeks, the spawning runs haven't been completed. It's probable that more success will be had on the smaller lakes, such as Blackduck lake, Andrusia, Grace, Campbell and others. But you can wager that the Tamarac river will be crammed with boats and fishermen.

By the way, it is reported that Pete Klungness, who has a cabin at Waskish, just to the west of the airport, will be having an "open house" for all of his friends. He will promise a walleyed pike dinner, if you bring the walleyes. Pete usually opens the season just after midnight on Friday, and usually has a mess of pike for the breakfast menu. That is his intention again this year. Last year there was so much boat traffic on the Tamarac river that the walleyes were "spooked", and the result was that Pete's breakfast menu featured side pork and scrambled eggs.

Cotton Langevin and Nicky Carlson will head the Elks Club contingent to the Rainy river area. This group will be leaving town in sections, and will perhaps return home the same way. Some of the boys open the "camp" at Riverview, and the others, including Glenn Carlson from St. Cloud, and perhaps Phil LeGault from Gladstone, can get away quite early and will will be arriving later. Stan Cockrell has been installed as the favorite to catch the most fish. And Laurel Bud Schuster, with a new set of sinkers, is a cinch to win the heaviest fish honors. Last year he won the heavy fish money with a walleye that weighed about two and half pounds, and over a pound of this weight was in lead sinkers that had been slipped into the pike. Better watch that man!

And there is considerable interest as to whether or not Sam and Don and Red will be able to get their tugboat, dubbed the "Driftwood", to the Lake of the Woods. And more interest as to whether or not the "boat" will hold water. It will hold water all right—most of Lake of the Woods!

Prowler Football Coach

Announcement was made by Lincoln high school officials on Tuesday that James Simms had accepted and signed a contract to become a member of the local faculty and to become varsity football coach.

James Sims is a native of Mahnomen, having been co-captain of the Mahnomen high school football squad in 1958. He is a graduate of Moorhead State college, and following his graduation from MSC he coached for a couple of years at Eagle Bend. The past two years, while doing graduate work at Moorhead State, Sims has been assistant coach to Dwayne Hoberg, the Dragons' varsity football coach.

According to Wendell Vlasin, editor of the Mahnomen Pioneer, and an authority on Pine-to-Prairie and Agassiz conference athletics, Sims was a quarterback during his high school and college days. And back in those days the Mahnomen Indians belonged to the Heart 'O Lakes conference.

Incidentally, Wendell added that all of the lakes in the Mahnomen area, and there are a number of fine fishing lakes east of Mahnomen, are ice-free. White Earth lake opened up last week. One advantage that those lakes down there have over the "big water" is that they are pretty well protected from the winds and an angler can nearly always find a secluded bay or two that can be fished regardless of the weather.

Prowler Track

Coach Roger Solheim's Prowler track squad turned in a creditable performance at the Dragon Relays last week, scoring 28½ points to earn fourth place. The powerful Moorhead Spuds, paced by Greg Lokken, totaled 98½ points for first place. East Grand Forks scored 29 points for third place, while Breckenridge, with 39 points, gained runner-up honors.

John Olson of the Prowlers had a second in the high hurdles, with a time of 15.8; and John gained a third in the low hurdles. East Side's Kim Krostue won the high hurdles, while Moorhead's Lokken won the lows, with Krostue the runner-up.

In the high jump event, the Prowlers' Dave Rodahl, a sophomore, won third place; and Sheldon Joppru, a freshman, tied for fifth place.

Dave Halvorson gained a fourth place in the pole vault, and Ward Johnson added a point by gaining fifth place in the low hurdles. The Prowlers 880-yard relay team — Rod Collver, John Olson, Larry Bjerken and Ward Johnson—scored a fourth place.

Coach Solheim's varsity squad will, weather meritting, engage in a meet at East Grand Forks on Thursday afternoon, And on Saturday the Prowlers will participate in the annual Beaver Relays at Bemidji State college.

Miscellany

Arlo Brunsberg, perhaps the finest all-round athlete to come out of Fertile high school, and who later was a football and basketball star at Concordia college, is now playing baseball with the Syracuse Chiefs of the International League. Arlo, who had been with the Detroit Tigers all spring, was just released to the Chiefs last week. The Detroit Tigers organization thinks highly of Arlo's prospects as a major league catcher. It is unfortunate for Brunsberg, though, that the Tigers have such a standout first-string catcher as Bill Freehan, for it is just about impossible to move Freehan out of the Detroit lineup . . . And the rumor mills continue to grind out grist about coaching changes. Al Santwire, who has been coaching at Twin Valley and who had been rumored as being headed for Dawson, is, at latest reports, being considered by the Ada officials. Al is a capable baseball man and it's probable that the Athletics would like to have his abilities available . . . Duane Ramstad, the all-round athlete with the Halstad Pirates last season, is pitching for the Moorhead State college Dragons. Duane, a chunky lefthander with a fine curve-ball, is doing all right with the Dragons, too. One of the highlights of Ramstad's high school career was when he pitched Halstad to a win over the Bemidji Lumberjacks in the Region Eight finals played at Warroad, with Halstad gaining a 2 to 1 win.

U of M Horticulturists Give Tips on Flowers, Fruit and Vegetables

As Minnesotans take an increasing interest in outdoor activity with the advent of warmer weather, University of Minnesota horticulturists provide information on production of vegetables, ornamentals and fruit. The following information is given by Orrin C. Turnquist, C. Gustav Hard and Neil W. Miles of the university.

Vegetables

1. After soil temperatures and air temperatures are warm, you may sow seeds of the warm-season crops. These include sweet corn, beans, cucumber, melons and squash.

2. Wait until Memorial Day before setting out plants of tomato, pepper or egg plant. If you set these plants out before that time, they may be damaged by late spring frosts.

3. If black plastic mulch is used, remember that temperatures at night are lower over the plastic than over adjoining soil. It is desirable to have white plastic or paper than over adjoining soil. It is desirable to have white plastic or paper available to cover these plants on cool nights.

4. Chemicals for weed control in the vegetable garden are generally not desirable. Most are specific for only a few crops. Dacthal may have some possibility, however. Be sure to read the label as to proper use.

5. Quality of melons and cucumbers is not affected by having plants growing close together in the same garden.

6. Fireball tomato seed may be planted directly in the garden in mid-May for a canning crop. The plants may either be thinned or transplanted, after the first true leaves appear. This variety is very early and has a compact bush growth habit. It is not good for staking.

Ornamentals

1. In most sections of the state it is not too late to use crabgrass control materials during May. Such materials as zytron, dacthal and the arsenicals which are used as pre-emergent type crabgrass killers can be applied. Follow the label for specific information on application. These materials may be used until the crabgrass seed begins to germinate.

2. Plant gladiolus this month. By staggering the plantings you can extend the period of bloom. The planting should be spaced about 10 to 14 days apart. Plant the large-flowered varieties about four to five inches deep and the smaller varieties more shallow. Since thrip is one of the principal pests of glads, a regular dusting with DDT is recomended.

3. Don't overlook container-grown nursery stock as a way of extending the planting season in the landscape. Evergreens and deciduous shrubs grown in containers should be planted about the same depth that they were growing in the container. Usually no pruning back of the shrub is necessary for this type of nursery stock.

4. May is a good time to treat the lawn for the broadleaved weeds. The chemical to use is the amine form of 2,4-D. Make the application on a still day and avoid as much drift as possible. Use large droplets rather than a pressurized fine spray. Also, when applying the 2, 4-D chemical, be sure to hold the sprayer close to the grass. This reduces the chance that wind will catch the spray and increase the possibility of drift. For chickweed, creeping Charlie and knotweed, apply silvex or 3 4, 5-T.

Fruits

1. A good pest control program is necessary if you expect to obtain clean fruit from your home orchard. May is the time to begin this spray program. Three ingredients for a successful spray program are the right chemicals, proper timing and complete and thorough coverage of fruit and foliage. Consult Extension Pamphlet 184, "The Home Fruit Spray Guide" for the information you need to conduct a home orchard spray program.

2. For the most strawberries from your garden, plant a new bed of everbearing strawberry plants every year. Young vigorous plants are more productive. Ogallala, Ozark Beauty and Luscious Red are three good varieties for the home gardener. Plant them as early as possible in the spring. They should be spaced about 18 inches apart in the row and all runners and blossoms that form should be removed. After the plants are well established (usually about July 10-15) the blossoms may be allowed to develop and ripe fruit will be produced from August until freezing time in autumn.

3. Check raspberry canes for winter injury before tying them to the wire trellis or stake. Healthy canes should have begun growth by now. The tips of the canes are often killed during the winter, so prune the tops of the canes back to good vigorous buds. Select five to eight vigorous, healthy canes and tie them firmly to a stake. Remove all other canes at the ground line since the best berries will be produced if the canes are not overcrowded. If you are growing your raspberries in a hedgerow system, tie the canes to the wire trellis but select only three to four vigorous canes per foot of row.

4. Fruit trees girdled by mice or rabbits must be repaired to prevent these trees from dying. Death of the tree is due to a slow starvation of the root system because the flow of carbohydrate food materials from the leaves to the roots is blocked. The injury is repaired by bridging the wound with scions (one-year-old shoots.) These scions are grafted onto the tree in such a manner that they connect the bark above the wound with the bark of the root system and provide a pathway for the flow of materials—thus the name "bridge grafting." Merely painting the wound, even with a wound dressing, will not keep a girdled tree from dying. More information on bridge grafting can be obtained in Extension Bulletin 273, "Grafting Fruit Trees."

5. The most important time to spray strawberries is just before the first flower buds open. Many home gardeners find that using a good all-purpose fruit spray at this time satisfactorily controls most insect and disease pests of strawberries.

On a national average the value of personal property items has jumped by 31 per cent in the past decade, while home construction costs have risen by 19 per cent in the same period.

Extension Service Reviews Several Current Topics

United States farmers received 39 cents of the consumer's food dollar spent during 1965, according to the U. S. department of agriculture. The farmer's share of the 1965 food dollar was up two cents from 1964. The 1965 increase was the largest since 1951 and the first rise since 1960. USDA reports the 1965 share equals that received from 1957-59, but is still below the 40 to 43 cents received from each food dollar spent from 1954-58.

Corn rootworms have now spread into most of Minnesota's corn producing areas. They can cut yields an average of eight to nine bushels per acre and heavy infestations can even kill corn plants.

John Lofgren, University of Minnesota extension entomologist, recommends three ways to combat the corn rootworms that are resistant to pesticides: Plant other crops rather than corn, on heavily-infested fields. Plant early to reduce the damage, and properly apply certain phosphate insecticides.

For details on the chemicals to use, see Entomology Fact Sheet No. 14, "Controlling Corn Rootworms". Ask your county agent for a copy, or write to the Bulletin Room, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minnesota. 55101.

Are you all set to apply weed control chemicals this spring? Gerald R. Miller, extension agronomist at the University of Minnesota, suggest some ways to cut down the chance of residues.

Apply only the recommended amount for your soil type. Use band applications over the crop row, instead of broadcast applications. Plow and till the soil well before planting. Rather than atrazine alone, use a recommended combination of chemicals, such as equal parts of atrazine and linuron as a preemergence treatment on corn.

4 Million People Hurt or Killed On Nation's Roads

More than 4,000,000 people were killed or injured on U. S. highways in 1965. This grim message is contained in the annual highway accident booklet, of a major insurance company which reports 48,500 deaths and 4,100,000 injured last year. Statistics in the booklet were compiled from reports by state motor vehicle departments.

The trail of death and destruction in 1965 marked the first time the casualty count has exceeded the 4,000,000 level. Fatalities increased by one per cent over 1964; injuries were up by seven per cent.

Young drivers—those under 25 years of age—again led the list of ofenders. Their collective record in 1965 was substantially worse than in any previous year.

Although these younger persons represent only about 18 pr cent of all licensed drivers, they were involved in more than 30 per cent of all fatal accidents and 28 per cent of all non-fatal mishaps.

"Sooner or later," says a company spokesman, "the traffic toll will reach proportions where the nation will no longer tolerate such destruction on the highways."

The company in 1965 announced it would sponsor a massive research program designed to study man and his environment. The first phase of this program will deal with man and the automobile and will include research on the interaction of the driver, the car and the environment.

Already $250,000 has been invested in this study and the firm expects to contribute thousands more as research continues.

House Committee To Study State's Doctor Shortage

A special study will be started immediately by the legislative committee to determine whether or not it is feasible to graduate more medical doctors each year in Minnesota to serve, primarily, as general practitioners in rural communities.

Representative Richard W. Fitzsimons, Argyle, chairman of the House appropriations committee, has announced the formation of a special 11-member sub-committee of the full appropriations committee to initiate the study.

Members of the sub-committee include Fitzsimons, chairman; Representatives Verne E. Long, Loren S. Rutter, Donald L. McLeod, William J. O'Brien, Vernon L. Sommerdorf, Joe Gimpl, George Mann, Sam R. Barr, Robert A. Mahowald and Rodney N. Searle.

"Many communities in Minnesota are in great need of medical service. In fact, the situation could well be called most critical in several areas of our state. This immediate need prompted the activation of the sub-committee," Rep. Fitzsimons said.

"As a starting point for our study, I have asked President Wilson of the University of Minnesota to supply us with answers to three specific questions:

"1. Is it feasible to expand the University of Minnesota Medical school so that it could graduate approximately 250 students per year? What would be the costs involved and how long would it take to accomplish this if money were at hand?

"2. Would it fill a need if state funds were made available, either as loans or stipends, to attract bright young people into medical careers? If so, do you have suggestions as to how this might best be handled?

"3. Do your medical people, in their best judgment, feel that it might be valuable to set up a post-graduate specialty training for "family physicians" or whatever the appropriate title might be? If so, what would such a program cost?

"It is our hope that we will have some basic information and suggestions on this problem to offer the next regular session of the legislature", Fitzsimons said.

"To be of no church is dangerous. Religion, of which the rewards are distant, and which is animated by faith and hope, will gilde by degrees out of mind unless it be invigorated and reimpressed by external ordinances, by stated calls to worship, and the salutary influence of example."

The following column by Margey Bruns appeared in the Murray County Herald at Slayton:

Some mighty queer things are happening right now. It's enough to send you into the nearest gopher hole.

For instance, we are fighting a fierce war in Vietnam. We are told that the reason we are fighting there is to give the Vietnam people a chance to vote in a free election for the kind of government they want and what happens? Our government officials are scared silly because these elections are scheduled in about three months and there is some talk over in Vietnam that a new government might ask us to go home and leave them alone. So where would that put us? Will we end up like the two young Boy Scouts who managed to push a little old lady safely across the busy intersection even though she didn't want to go Will? we stay over in Vietnam to save them from Communism even after they ask us to pull out? If that should happen, then no matter what we do, it will be wrong. Our government is balancing on a mighty precarious perch. What do you think we should do?

And then there's little Rhodesia. Maybe you have the idea that the United Nations is supposed to keep the peace in the world or at least to make resolutions against agressor nations. Well, that idea is now shot full of holes. Here is this tiny country of Rhodesia sitting there without firing a gun at anyone or pushing across another country's border, and yet the U. N. declared she was an aggressor and gave Britain the go ahead to use force against her. Leaving the race question out of it, this kind of sanction from the U. N. could be rough if enough U. N. members wanted to tear up a country for any reason they cooked up.

So what do we do about Rhodesia? Why, naturally, we jump right into the picture the minute Prime Minister Wilson cocks an eye at us, and we help blockade that tiny country. But curiously, our President doesn't know the right way to cock his eye, because Brintain keeps right on sending supplies to North Vietnam and Cuba.

Can you figure it out?

Government Cows

It is a well-known fact that farmers are efficient operators and manage their affairs well in order to be in business today. Although circumstances may vary widely, it is generally the good manager who makes a profitable business of farming.

Assuming the above to be true, it must then be assumed that the federal government is a poor manager. Witness the following report from Minnesota News Features:

"The government's own dairy farm at the U. S. Naval academy in Annapolis is a pretty expensive undertaking, according to the U. S. General Accounting office.

"It reported that milking government cows cost the taxpayers an unnecesary $84,000 a year. That's the difference between the cost of milking its own cows and what the government would have to pay for equal quality milk from a private dairy.

"The Naval academy has been doing this since 1911 because of a typhoid scare. Admitting that the "scare" long since has died out, the Navy said it plans to 'phase out' its dairy activities, but doesn't say when."

We could venture one comment as to the reason why the government keeps cows at Annapolis. It fits in with the federal program of "inverted economics", since most of the "bull" is concentrated in Washington.

Local Action Best

Although groups interested in better housing, like the Natonal Chamber of Commerce, have been saying for years that federal urban renewal programs injure the very persons they are designed to help, only recently has this fact been perceived officially by a federal agency.

This agency, the U. S. Civil Rights commission, studied the effects of urban renewal in Cleveland. It found that persons displaced by the program simply were crowded into existing slums.

The Commission issued a report, which said in part:

"The Commission's investigations in Cleveland indicate that slum and blight have accompanied the development of dense concentration of negroes in certain residential areas.

"Therefore, relocation of negroes into areas of high racial density contributes to the very conditions which it is the purpose of Urban Renewal to prevent.

"Similarly, such relocation operates to the detriment of relocated negroes."

The report was issued at a hearing in Cleveland at which one urban renewal official testified that he knew of nothing done by the city of Cleveland to expand housing opportunities for negroes.

The Civil Rights commission said that the problems in Cleveland were "Broadly representative of those which exist in other urban areas throughout the nation."

The commission's findings lead one to the shocking conclusion that residents of areas to be razed for urban renewal would be better off if the program were abolished entirely. Of course, to restore blighted areas, it is not necessary to trample the rights of the poor with hobnailed boots.

Many communities throughout the country have their own programs, free of federal controls and subsidies. Quite a few communities, 438 so far, have adopted a plan of the National Chamber for "Total Community Development". This program allows all the needs of a community to be taken into consideration.

Under the chamber's plan, members of a community get together, consider their problems, develop solutions, set priorities and tackle projects in order, one at a time. Experience shows that this type of approach works to the benefit of all concerned.

Where the Money Goes

Just a short time ago President Johnson sought to prevent an increase in the price of steel because he considered it to be inflationary. In so doing, and in pressing for government spending programs, he has placed himself in a position of "do as I say, not as I do".

Many people apparently believed the steel companies were guilty of being greedy in seeking the price increase. When one hears of the total profit in the steel industry, he tends to overlook the huge number of ways in which this profit must be divided. If the number of stockholders is considered, the individual profit is quite small. Price increases reflect rising costs, and the greatest of these is usually labor.

It is interesting to note that average hourly earnings of hourly production employees in the iron and steel industry rose 310 per cent from 1940 through 1965. The increase of consumer purchasing power of one hour's work was 120 per cent during this period. Figures were taken from the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U. S. Department of Labor.

Statistics such as these are incomplete for two reasons: (1) They are based on hours paid for, but do not reflect the payroll cost of hours paid for but not worked, due to holidays and vacations; and (2) They entirely omit the cost of non-payroll items such as pension, insurance, supplemental unemployment benefits, savings and vacation plan and payroll taxes (such as those paid by the companies to cover social security and unemployment compensation).

To business such as the iron and steel industry, labor includes much more than actual wages paid. That's where the money goes, and the President's pleas directed to management are aimed in the wrong directinon to accomplish price restraint.

Call of the Lake

Enthusiastic anglers are anxiously awaiting the opening of the 1966 fishing season Saturday and countless hours have already been spent in contemplation, preparation, expectation and deliberation. (Explanation comes after they arrive home with empty stringers!)

While fishermen from Thief River Falls fan out in several directions to ply their piscatorial pursuits, many will concentrate their efforts on the walleye waters of Lake of the Woods. Indications are that the fish should be in a mood for biting if the ice mass floating around the lake permits anglers to reach their favorite fishing haunts.

The March-April issue of the "Conservation Volunteer", published by the Minnesota Department of Conservation, contains some interesting information on this beautiful—if sometimes contrary—lake spanning the Minnesota-Canada boundary.

Lake of the Woods is taken from the French interpretation of the aboriginal Cree name "Lake DuBois or Les Isles"—Lake of the Woods or, Lake of the Islands. There are thousands of islands in the northern part of the lake which was formed by Glacial Lake Agassiz.

Lake of the Woods is 1,695 square miles in area, 72 miles in length, ranges to 69 feet in depth and is 1,060 feet above sea level. It is the 16th largest lake in North America and the 40th largest lake in the world. The shoreline in Minnesota alone, not including islands, is 106 miles long.

Drainage area of Lake of the Woods is 26,750 square miles of which 11,235 miles is in Minnesota—and this drainage area includes such Minnesota rivers as the Warroad, Rapid, Black, Rainy, Big Fork, Little Fork, Rat Root, Ash, Vermillion, Pike, Sioux, Kawishiwi and Isabella rivers. On the Canadian side are the Manomin, Bremmer, Manitou, Turtle, Seine, Pipestone, Quetico, Maligne, Cache and Wawing rivers. With the exception of about three, all of these rivers discharge into Rainy river which in tributary area swallows up over three-fourths of the drainage area of Lake of the Woods.

The lake has 37 species of fish, with muskellunge, smallmouth bass and walleye listed as the most important game fish. Bay areas and shallow waters offer good fishing for northerns.

This was not intended to be a commercial for the Lake of the Woods resort association, but the information answers several questions which this editor has heard asked without ever receiving the same answer twice.

Wherever the angler goes to open the fishing season, it will be answering the call of the lake that satisfies many of his longings. Whether the fish are cooperative or not, the opportunity to gain the comparative solitude of a boat, breathe fresh air, not be disturbed by the harsh jangle of the phone and let the sun make appointments for you is an opportunity not to be overlooked.

There are many people to whom the gentle art of fishing does not appeal, and fishermen are thankful for them. They are the ones who will man the shops while the ardent anglers answer the call of the lake this weekend and other days during the summer. There is a wealth of happy living behind the simple sign hanging in the window which simply proclaims, "Gone Fishing".

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

Barbara Bardely and Mary Ellen Paris went to a gypsy fortune teller in Marin who said she'd answer two questions for $50, take it or leave it. Barbara stunned: 'Is'nt that awfully high?'

Gypsy: 'Yes it is. Now what's your other question?' "

Spring Cleaning Time Good Time for Safety

Spring means housecleaning to the housewife, and spring cleaning and safety belong together. In many households, accidental injuries and even death occur because safety rules are ignored. The chances for an accident during spring cleaning are reduced if tools appropriate for the cleaning job are properly used and if the job is always done in the right way.

Spring cleaning is also a time to see that all potentially hazardous household items are in good condition and stored properly to prevent harm to children and other members of the family.

Clean-Up Week in Minnesota, to be observed May 15-21, provides a chance to thoroughly check for the eliminate unnecessary accident hazards. Clean-Up Week supports the annual sanitary inspection of Minnesota communities made each year in May by local health officers.

Falls are a special hazard in spring cleaning. To avoid falls while hanging curtains, washing windows, painting walls, or cleaning high cupboards use a step stool, not a chair. All ladders should be kept in good condition and should have non-slip supporting feet. Ladders should be angled properly. Their position should be changed often to avoid falls from leaning too far.

Short cuts in getting the job done can result in a bad fall, according to Dr. A. B. Rosenfield, director of the division of special services, Minnesota Department of Health. If housewives are in too much of a hurry while going up and down stairs, around disarranged furniture, or across freshly waxed floors, falls can occur. Scatter rugs used on waxed floors should have no-skid backings.

Fires and explosions of combustible materials and electricity are other causes of accidental deaths. Oily rags and those used with paints and cleaning solutions should be burned at once in small quantities in a safe receptacle. Power tools used outside for spring clean-up should be properly grounded. Electric cords and outlets should be checked for overloading, and frayed cords should be replaced.

Some cleaning agents are a potential hazard because of vapors and fumes. Carbon tetrachloride should never be used in the home. Although it is a nonflammable solution, it is potentially more dangerous than chloroform or ether. Other cleaning agents can get the same results with less risk. All household cleaning solutions should be used in rooms with adequate ventilation. Avoid breathing their vapors. Be sure to follow directions on the labels.

Empty containers for cleaning and polishing agents and empty medicine bottles should be rinsed out and disposed of so that children and pets cannot get at them. "Empty" containers are really never empty.

Spring cleaning should also include a check to see that hazardous household items are stored properly to avoid harm to others, particularly children. The medicine cabinet is a good place to start.

During spring cleaning, many persons spruce up their homes by remodeling. This is the time to remember to include safety. Safety glass for sliding glass doors, safety catches on medicine cabinet and other cabinet doors, extra grounding for electrical appliances, and sturdy handrails on stairways will provide built-in safety features.

Slogan Writing Contest on Dairy Offered to FFA

Minnesota's Future Farmers of America (FFA)—their distinctive blue corduroy jackets notwithstanding—are going to try their luck in the "grey flannel" pursuit of promotional slogan writing.

Some 2,000 delegates to the 37th annual FFA state meeting and leadership conference held on the University of Minnesota's St. Paul campus May 3 heard and approved a special FFA June Dairy Month slogan contest outlined for their organization by the American Dairy association (ADA) of Minnesota. The boys were invited to test their talents in coining bright new slogans, rhymes and jingles to promote the dairy industry and its products.

An ADA spokesman said the contest is being opened in an effort to "tap the grass roots creative thinking of the young men most vitally interested in the dairy industry and in the future of agriculture."

The dairy industry spokesman also said the project is in keeping with the FFA's own current national theme: "Agriculture Is More than Farming".

Top slogans submitted by the FFA members will be used during the 30th annual observance of June Dairy Month in Minnesota which will be kicked off June 1 with a "Dairy Night at the Met" program with the Minnesota Twins. The top three slogans in the statewide contest will get their first public exposure on a helicopter-powered "flying billboard" in the skies over Metropolitan stadium on Dairy Night.

Besides a state champion and two runners-up, 16 FFA district champions will be named in the competition along with individual chapter winners. District champions will receive special awards at the 11 ADA-sponsored regional Dairy Days held around the state during June Dairy Month.

The contest is open to all active FFA members. Entries must be mailed to ADA of Minnesota, 239 Carter Ave., St. Paul 55108. Deadline on receipt of entries will be May 25.

The honor of submitting the first slogan in the new contest went to Jerome Bunkowske of Perham, the Minnesota FFA's just-named State Star Dairy Farmer. It was a "fringe benefit" in the traditional cow-milking contest in which he competed with Princess Kay of the Milky Way, Mary Ann Titrud.

Bunkowske won the 11th annual event by out-squeezing Princess Kay by 2½ pounds to one pound in the three-minute duel. The score for the milking contest series now stands at seven to four in favor of the FFA boys. ADA of Minnesota Manager Cliff Markuson, who received the State FFA Honorary State Farmer Degree at the youth group's annual awards banquet May 2, emceed the cow-milking contest.

Beekeepers Will Hold Shortcourse

Minnesota beekeepers will "swarm" over the St. Paul campus of the University of Minnesota for a two-day short course sponsored by the University of Minnesota Institute of agriculture. The course begins Friday May 6 and runs through Saturday, May 7.

According to Professor Mykola H Haydak, entomologist at the University, who will be instructor for the short course, bees can be kept profitably by citydwellers as well as persons in rural areas.

The course is designed for the veteran apiarist and the person who has never raised bees but might like to start a colony.

Failure to get off on the right foot in an urban or suburban community may leave the aspiring apiarist with nothing but a case of hives.

Registration begins at 8:15 Friday morning in room 203 of Coffey hall, St. Paul campus. Fee is $5 for the full course. Considering the amount of information we have for the registrants, Haydak said, no one should get stung.

ALL THINGS
BRIGHT AND BEAUTIFUL

How wonderful to see God through the eyes of a child. The wonder of bright blue eggs in a nest of twigs, the path of the wind through tossing treetops, moonlight dancing on a lake. All these are to him the fingerprints of God.

Too often we are caught up in a world of worry and concern. Worrying how to make ends meet, we forget to stop and see God in the world around us. Jesus said, "Whosoever shall not receive the Kingdom of God as a little child shall in no wise enter therein."

Your church offers you moments of worship and inspiration, so that you may see all things bright and beautiful and find for yourself the Kingdom of God as He reveals it daily through the beauty of His earth

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Veteran Teachers To Be Honored at MEA Dinner

Two veteran teachers in the Thief River Falls school system, together with retired teachers still making their homes in the community, will be honored tonight at a dinner to be held at 6:30 p. in the American Legion club rooms. School board members will also be guests of the sponsoring local unit of the Minnesota Education association.

To be honored tonight will be Miss Thora Skomedal, English instructor, and Clarence W. Pope, carpentry instructor in the vocational-technical school. Supt. M. R. Hankerson will be master of ceremonies, several musical numbers will be presented and special awards will be made.

Pope Biography

Clarence Pope was born in Northern Illinois and moved with his parents to a farm near Thief River Falls in April of 1905. He began school here in the seventh grade and graduated in 1917. In his senior year he was assistant editor of the high school yearbook called the "Moccasin", the only one known by that name, since all others have been called the "Prowler", including the first one published in 1916.

In 1918 he attended a private trade school in southern Minnesota, taking courses in auto mechanics, steam engineering, auto electric and welding. He was married to Fern Baker in 1919, and the same year was hired by the local board of education to teach an all day Smith-Hughes course in auto mechanics. The course was offered for four years and wages were $100 per month—about double the academic teachers' wages.

In 1923 the manual training (industrial arts) instructor, Mathew A. Schmitt, left the local district and Pope was invited to fill the position. For 20 years he taught metalwork, electricity, architectural drafting, household mechanics for girls, welding, furniture upholstery and related subjects.

After 24 years in the school system, he accepted a position with Northwest Airlines as assistant supervisor of trade testing. After two years he was promoted to supervisor of trade testing for the system, his work taking him to all parts of the United States, Canada, Alaska and the Aleutian chain.

Two years later he returned to Thief River Falls and entered the building and construction field. Vocational education came into the picture for the local area at that time, and two years later Pope was invited to assist in formation of a vocational school here and began this work in September of 1949.

The vocational-technical school opened in October of the same year with about 40 veterans taking auto mechanics and house wiring

Greenbush Given $254,000 Grant For Sewer Work

Approval of a $254,000 grant to Greenbush to aid in the installation of a sewage system and improvement of the water system to serve industrial sites was announced today by Eugene P. Foley, assistant secretary of commerce for economic development.

The funds are from the Economic Development administration in the Department of Commerce. The village of Greenbush will provide matching funds for the $508,000 project.

The project will include the installation of a sewage collection and disposal system which will permit the re-opening of a turkey processing plant.

Greenbush is seeking to develop a basis for industrial expansion. The area suffers from unemployment and out-migration, the commerce department states.

Greenbush expects the public works to make it more attractive to small industries seeking plant locations. The facilities will serve existing industrial sites and domestic requirements. Completion of the project is expected in 12 months after construction starts.

The Economic Development administration was created by the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965 to assist areas of the nation with lagging economies. Greenbush and Roseau county are qualified for assistance under terms of the act.

ARC Activity Center Is Help to Retarded

A meeting of the Pennington-Red Lake Association for Retarded Children (ARC) is scheduled for Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the meeting room of the city auditorium. Mrs. K. L. Duskam, a member of the board of directors of the Minnesota ARC, will speak on governmental aid to the mentally retarded. The public is invited.

The Pennington-Red Lake ARC activity center in Thief River Falls has been operating without governmental aid, thriving on con from individuals and organizations in the community. The association is taking plans for expansion under consideration, however.

The activity center is open from 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday and on Monday, Wednesday and Friday during the summer months. The six retarded children and one adult who regularly attend the center, together with the staff and volunteer helpers conduct their activities in the somewhat cramped quarters of the Redeemer Lutheran church parsonage. Space will be at more of a premium if participation in the center's activities increases, which is the hope of the association.

The activity center opened in 1962 with Mrs. Melvin Grinde as teacher in charge. She held the position until September of 1965 when she was succeeded by Mrs. Melvin Molden. Mrs. Donald D. Olson takes over direction of the center during the summer months, and throughout the year provides Girl Scouts from Troop 87, Trinity Lutheran church, as helpers. Mrs. Grinde is currently teaching the mentally retarded in the local school system.

Children attending the center are classified as "trainable." They are supervised in art work and recreational activity, indoors and in the backyard of the parsonage, which contains swings and a picnic table. The youngsters show a surprising amount of artistic ability, and plan to set up a display of textile painting match crosses and plaster of paris figurines, all made by them, at the county fair this year.

This community project is financed by contributions from the Mrs. Jaycees, whose charity ball fund was augmented this year by a contribution from the Jaycees; and also from birthday clubs, ladies aids, church groups, circles and fraternal and community organizations. Gifts and memorials are also received from individuals.

Directorship of the center is being turned over to a group of interested citizens, with hope that the center will grow in activities

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

MRS. NORTON NELSON

Are you an experimental cook that is always improvising, trying a little of this instead of a little of that, in hopes of finding a new flavor combination to perk up the family's appetite? If you are fortunate to have a family that enjoys the flavor of rhubarb, the various methods of preparation seem unlimited. We are grateful to Mrs. Norton Nelson for contributing this unusual recipe.

FRESH RHUBARB DESSERT

4 cups fresh rhubarb
2 cups sugar
2 cups miniature marshmallows
1 package strawberry gelatin
1 cup whipping cream

Method: Pour sugar over rhubarb and let stand until juice has formed. Cook over low heat until tender; add gelatin and marshmallows while rhubarb is hot and stir until dissolved. Cool. When mixture begins to set, fold in cream that has been whipped. Pour into pan over two cups of crushed graham cracker crumbs. Top with whipped cream and refrigerate until firm. Mrs. Nelson stated that by gently folding in the whipped cream the dessert will have a marbelized effect. For variation, she adds fresh or frozen strawberries to the dessert after the marshmallows have been added. Frozen rhubarb may be substituted for the fresh rhubarb without changing the quality of the dessert.

The Nelsons live in Smiley township on a farm located eight miles southeast of Thief River Falls. Of their five children, four are married and have children of their own. They are Mrs. Robert Brondon, who has three children and lives at Madison Wis.; Mrs. Phil Busch and Mrs. Lowell Carpenter, each has one child and lives in Minneapolis and Dennis, who resides in rural Thief River Falls, has two children. A daughter, Lois, resides at home with the Nelsons.

Since Mrs. Nelson enjoys flowers, gardening and refinishing old furniture, she finds that her membership in the Moccasin garden club and the Smiley Homemakers club of great value.

The Nelsons are members of the Trinity Lutheran church in this city.

Skomedal Biography

Thora Skomedal graduated from Thief River Falls high school and the teacher training department in 1915. She taught rural school in Marshall county for three years from 1915 through 1918, attended summer school at Moorhead State Teacher's college and served as principal of semi-graded school in Hendrum from 1918 through 1920.

She was principal of the consolidated school at Fernhill, 1920-1921 —a post she considered particularly good since her salary increased from $640 to $1,250—and that means for a year.

Taking advantage of each opportunity to increase her education, she interspersed teaching and attending Bemidji State Teachers college and the University of North Dakota for the next several years, teaching rural school in Pennington county for one year.

From 1923 to 1927 she was principal of Winsor Consolidated school at Gonvick. In regard to this position, she states:

"This was one of my most interesting jobs. I taught grades six seven and eight. From 7:30 to 9 a.m. I taught three high school subjects and from 4 to 5 p.m. I taught two high school subjects. My students did not have to be in school. They wanted to be there; they knew they had to pass state board examinations to get their credits so they worked hard. During the time I was there, 21 students went away just one year (senior year) and graduated. Several went on to college."

In 1927 and 1928 Miss Skomedal attended Bemidji State Teachers college, then became principal and high school teacher at Nary Consolidated school. After another year at Bemidji State Teachers college, she received her bachelor of education degree in 1930, then became principal and high school teacher at Harrigan Consolidated school in Koochiching county for three years.

After two years at home she taught elementary school at Pinewood in 1936 and 1939, then taught for two years for the Indian service at Walker. From 1938 to 1947 she served as Marshall county superintendent of schools at Warren.

While at Warren, she took advanced courses by mail and on Saturdays from the University of North Dakota. She was also co-author of the language arts curriculum used in Minnesota's rural schools. She also served as president of the Warren Federated Women's club and one year as district president.

After serving as superintendent of the Rutland school at Rutland, N D., she joined the Thief River Falls faculty and has taught English and speech since that time. She has continued to take Saturday courses at the University of North Dakota and extension work from the University of Minnesota.

She was a delegate to a National Education association convention in Portland, Ore., and attended another national convention in Milwaukee, Wis. She also attended a convention in Des Moines, Ia.

Miss Skomedal served as secretary of the local MEA for one year, president of the local Business and Professional Women's club, and president of the Bemidji League of Women Voters.

Prowlers Add 6 and 7 To Season Win Skein

The baseball Prowlers added victories number six and number se- streak during the weekend. On Friday evening the Prowlers, behind the one-hit shutout pitching of Tommy Cummings, defeated the Bemidji Lumberjacks, 4-0, on the fairgrounds diamond. And on Saturday evening, in a game played on the fairgrounds diamond, the locals defeated the Fertile Falcons, 6-4, with Wayne Smith's two-run home run capping a five-run fifth inning for coach Ralph Skay's squad.

The Prowlers will face a heavy schedule this week. On Monday night, at 7:30 p.m. at the fairgrounds, the Prowlers will meet the Warren Ponies in a district conference game. On Tuesday evening, also on the fairgrounds diamond, the Prowler will meet coach Ray Kavanagh's Roseau Rams. On Wednesday afternoon, with game time at 5 p.m., the Prowlers will play a return game against the Rams on Roseau's Gilbertson field. On Friday evening coach Linton Lehrer will bring his Crookston Central Pirates here for a 7:30 p.m. game, and on Saturday evening the Prowlers will face the Erskine squad of District 30 on the fairgrounds diamond.

Against Bemidji on Friday the Prowlers scored a pair of runs in the first inning and another pair in the third frame. In the first, Rocky Wilson led off with a walk, Dave Erickson singled, and a wild pitch moved the runners to third and second. A walk to Cummings loaded the bases. Smith forced Wilson at the plate, with the play being pitcher John Melhus to catcher John Boyer, but Boyer, attempting to double Smith at first, heaved the ball into right field, and when the ball eluded right fielder Jeff Glime, two Prowler runs scored.

Cummings gave up but one hit to the 'Jacks, with Boyer slicing a single into right field in the fifth inning. Boyer was the lone Lumberjack to reach base as Cummings whiffed 11 in going the route and his mates played errorless ball.

The Prowlers erupted for five runs in the fifth inning against Fertile on Saturday night, with Wayne Smith's two-run home run being the blow that provided the locals with their game-winning margin, and which drove Fertile's righthander Jon Lindberg off the mound.

Fertile, outhitting the Prowlers by an eight to six margin, rallied for three runs in the sixth inning, and Jon Looker had to come on in relief of starter Nicky Drees to preserve the lead and rack up the locals' seventh win.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

It's Wide Open

The five-team Northwest Conference track and field tournament will be held at East Grand Forks on Tuesday, May 17. The meet will begin at 10 a.m.

In last year's conference meet, coach Don Thompson's Bemidji Lumberjacks edged out the Prowlers, scoring 51 points to the locals' 50 points. In third place were the Roseau Rams with 49 points. The Crookston Pirates tallied 43 points, and the East Grand Forks Green Wave had 22 points.

And this year's meet appears to be as evenly matched as last season's tournament. About the only certainty is that coach Ron Thompson and his East Grand Forks squad will tally more than the 22 points they collected last season.

Coach Ambrose Kramer's Roseau Rams, who won the Class B honors at the Beaver Relays on Saturday, will make a strong bid for the conference title. And so will coach Thompson's Bemidji squad. But East Grand Forks, paced by hurdler Kim Krostue and sprinter Darrell Fore, believes that they have enough first-place winners to offset the greater depth and distance strength of such squads as Crookston, Roseau and Bemidji.

The Prowlers, who scored 12 points in the Class A competition at the Beaver Relays on Saturday, with John Olson winning the high hurdles in 16.5, and Dan Bacon winning the broad jump event with leap of 20 feet 4½ inches, appear too young and inexperienced to be a definite threat on Tuesday. The Moorhead Spuds won the Class A honors at the Beaver Relays, rolling up a total of 53½ points.

Following the Spuds was International Falls with 40½ points; Detroit Lakes with 29 points; Crookston Central with 16 points; Grand Rapids with 15 points; Bemidji with 14 points, and the Prowlers with 12 points. In addition to the firsts tallied by Olson and Bacon, the Prowlers picked up points on John Olson's fifth in the low hurdles, and a fifth by the Prowlers's spring medley team of Larry Bjerken, Ken Ose, Jerome Engen and Steve Nabben.

While it is probable that Tuesday's conference meet will provide plenty of excitement it's doubtful if it will match, from a Prowler viewpoint, the conference meet held in Crookston in 1961. The Prowlers trailed the Roseau Rams as the meet's final event, the broad jump, got under way. But in this event Paul and Gary Klungness finished one-two and the Prowlers had won their first Northwest conference track title, outpointing Roseau, 55 to 49¾.

Incidentally, the conference meet on Tuesday is the tenth annual to be held.

Just So-So

The season is two or three weeks tardy and the weather was too cold. That appeared to be the consensus of the anglers who opened the walleyed pike and northern pike fishing season this past weekend.

Art Johnson and I spent most of the day in driving around the vast Red Lake area, and noting the results of the fishermen who were on the lake or fishing the inlets and the outlet. The outlet, where the Red Lake river begins its trek out of Lower Red Lake, produced very few fish. The water appeared in near flood stage and river did not give much action to the anglers. There were a few anglers, with Indian guides, fishing the Blackduck river, but during the time that we were there the few fishermen that were in action did not bring in any pike.

Moving over to Dryhaug's and Rogers on the Upper Red Lake, there were fishermen who were preparing walleyed pike dinners. Shotley brook had produced some fair fishing early in the morning, but as the boats began to churn up the water, the fishing slackened off. And the boats that were out in the lake were bringing in few fish.

As usual, though, most of the fishing action was at Waskish. And it was in the Tamarac river that the limit catches, of small walleyes, were being made. The fishermen who were out in the lake reported that the fishing was slow. The river, which was crammed by fishermen, produced plenty of pike. Most of the fishermen used minnow-and-spinner combinations.

An employee at the state fisheries station at Waskish stated that he didn't think that there were vast numbers of fishermen as in previous years. And the reason was that many down-state fishermen were doubtful that the ice had "gone out". The ice did "go out" on Thursday, but that was a late opening and the walleyes were still up the river and busy with their spawning.

Lake of the Woods, around the Warroad and Springsteel Island area, was ice-bound by the ice floes that had come in on Friday night's east-by-south wind. Morris Point, Wheeler's Point and the Rainy river proved to be the best fishing spots on Lake of the Woods on Saturday, mostly early in the day. Sunday's strong winds and general rain made for unpleasant fishing conditions.

A Six-team League

At Wednesday evening's softball organization meeting, it was decided that the league, which will play a two-round schedule, will begin league competition on June 6.

Six teams will participate in the play—Bridgemans', Hamm's Beer, Schmidt's Beer, Hartz Stores, Ben's Food Market, and the V. F. W. —this season, the same lineup of clubs that participated last year.

The team managers, Bob Carlson of Bridgemans', Duane Glass of Hamm's, Kerm Malberg of Schmidt's, Lowell Halvorson of Hartz, Dean Hams of Ben's and Pat Poole of the Vets, will hold a meeting this week to draw up the 1966 schedule.

And on Sunday, June 26, the annual invitational softball tournament will be held here with 16 teams participating. The East Side Merchants with big Jack Herlihy doing the pitching, will be on hand to defend the title won last season.

So it's on to the fairgrounds diamond and the start of another softball season.

Change of Pace

Just as a "change of pace" I'll report an item that was told me by Elmer Poole. Elmer asked me if I had heard about the young boy here in town who had swallowed one of these new twenty-five cent pieces. According to Elmer an X-ray was taken, and this X-ray revealed that there was "no change" in the lad! End of Elmer's item.

Trap Club Opens League Shooting Here Wednesday

Marksmen of the Thief River Falls Trap club will shoot their league opener for the 1966 season Wednesday starting at 5 p.m. Lunch will be served. Two new teams, sponsored by Hartz Wholesale of Thief River Falls and the Jensen fur farm of Oklee, will be appearing on the firing line this year.

Anyone interested in joining the club may do so Wednesday night. Dues are $3 per year. League shooting will be conducted each Wednesday night, and the trap will be open Thursday night for practice shooting.

Trophies for the 1965 season were presented at the annual trap club banquet April 27 at the Golf club. The team trophy was awarded to the Times team for the second consecutive year, and individual trophies were presented to the Times team members: Bob Mattson, Clarence Mattson, George Mostue, Jim Wills, Marv Lundin, Leif Erickson and Lewis Helfner. Sandy Wilson was awarded the trophies for highest singles average and highest doubles average.

Lower Blood-Alcohol Standards Could Save Lives in Minnesota

More than 100 lives could be saved in Minnesota every year if recommended minimum blood-alcohol standards were lowered to a more realistic level and enforcement of the law regarding the drinking driver were stepped up, according to Minnesota Highway Commissioner John R. Jamieson.

"The drinking driver is a major traffic problem," he said. "Numerous studies in recent years indicate the drinking driver is involved in about half of all the fatal traffic accidents, and may in fact be the major contributing cause of those accidents."

At least 5,000 and perhaps as many as 20,000 deaths in the nation could be avoided each year if states would adopt recommendations contained in a new section of the action program of the President's Committee for Traffic Safety, according to Dr. George M. Wheatley, chairman of the medical committee of the President's committee.

The uniform code, which is a set of vehicle laws designed as a comprehensive guide by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, recommends that a person be presumed under the influence of intoxicating liquor if there is .10 per cent or more alcohol by weight in his blood. The American Mdical association also has urged that blood-alcohol of .10 per cent be accepted as prima facie evidence of intoxication.

In Minnesota, the intoxication level is placed at .15 per cent if shown in a blood test, but at 0.18 per cent if a breath, salvia or urine test is given. Only when the alcohol level is at either .15 or at the higher 0.18 per cent it is considered prima facie evidence that the person is under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Commissioner Jamieson agreeing with the recommendation of the uniform code, believes the persent Minnesota law should be amended to conform with it. He said that accepting .10 per cent or more of alcohol in the blood as legal evidence of intoxication is more realistic than the higher level.

It takes only small amounts of alochol to affect judgment, self-control and skill adversely, and this occurs long before symptoms of intoxication, studies show. The studies indicate that alcohol is not a stimulant to heighten the senses, but is classified medically as a depressant. The human brain acts like a sponge, soaking up materials fed into the blood stream. Alcohol blocks the passage of oxygen to the brain, and the brain just isn't able to function properly.

Drinking two highballs raises the blood-alcohol level to about .05 per cent, enough to take the sharpness off the functioning of the nervous system, including driving ability. With four or five drinks, the blood-alochol level jumps to .10 per cent. No one, according to medical opinion, can do a good job of driving at that level.

Coffee or other stimulants will not offset the effects of alcohol. Only time can eliminate alcohol from the blood stream.

The same amount of alochol makes the experienced drinker just as drunk as the novice drinker, according to the National Safety council. The experienced one may be able to control himself better and not show the effects so readily, but behind the wheel, both are in bad condition to drive.

Freezing Foods Aids In Party Preparation

Graduation parties, family reunions, showers and weddings during May and June are special occasions that pose the problem of last-minute food preparaton. But it's a problem that can be solved, by freezing many of the foods ahead of time.

Fancy sandwiches, cookies, cake-type bars, cream puffs and ice cream balls are some of the foods that can be prepared in advance and frozen, according to Mrs. Shirley Munson, in charge of the University of Minnesota's food processing laboratory.

Mrs. Munson gives these suggestins on freezing special-occasion foods:

It's best to freeze sandwiches that are rolled or made in layers and not sliced until they are ready to serve. These types have less tendency to dry out and present fewer problems in packaging. Spread the bread well with butter to prevent the filling from soaking into the bread. Work quickly so the bread does not dry out. Sandwich loaves should not be frosted before freezing.

Use salad dressing sparingly in sandwich fillings to prevent weeping. Egg salad sandwiches will not freeze satisfactorily unless the hard-cooked egg is put through a food grinder. Otherwise feezing will make the egg white rubbery and the yolk hard.

A good wrap is essential to prevent sandwiches from drying out. Line shallow boxes with foil, put the cover on and overwrap with foil or a saran-type film. Package open-face sandwiches only one layer deep. Package all sandwiches of one kind together. Flavors may transfer from one to another if several kinds are stored together.

When ready to use the sandwiches, let them thaw out in the package in the refrigerator before unwrapping them.

Most cookies and bars freeze well, but it is better not to frost them since frosting tends to dry out. For that reason, petit fours have a short storage life. Use good packaging materials for petit fours and do not keep them longer than six weeks.

Cream puff shells and eclairs should be frozen without the filling.

Use saran-type film or foil between layers of cookies and bars to prevent drying out.

Ice cream will be easier to serve if it is scooped into balls in advance and stored in muffin tins, cake liners or paper dixie cups in the freezer. You may wish to roll the balls in cocoanut or chopped nuts and freeze them on a tray or cookie sheet until they are firm. Be sure to wrap the ice cream balls for freezer storage.

Chiffon pies and other chiffon-type desserts freeze well but have a short storage life. Do not keep them in the freeze more than about six weeks. After that length of time they lose their airiness and toughen.

Do not freeze main-dish salads because the dressing may separate and some of the ingredients like celery are not adapted to freezing. A fruit salad prepared with whipped cream will freeze well.

Gelatin salads are not the most desirable product when frozen but will have less tendency to weep if you use 1½ cups of liquid instead of two cups in preparing them. Whipped gelatin salads to which whipped cream has been added will freeze satisfactorily.

Several fish production records were broken in 1965. Total production amounted to 4,747,984 pounds compared to 4,158,876 in 1964. Cost per pound of fish reduced from $1.36 in 1964 to $1.28 in 1965.

"A horse that is hitched with others to a wagon is not free not to walk in front of the wagon; and if it will not draw, the wagon will strike its legs, and it will go whither the wagon goes, and will pull it involuntarily. But, in spite of this limited freedom, it is free itself to pull the wagon, or be dragged along by it. The same is true of man."

Happy Retirement

This evening, at the American Legion club rooms, two teachers will be honored at a special dinner sponsored by the local chapter of the Minnesota Education association. Clarence Pope and Thora Skomedal, both of whom have made great contributions to education in Thief River Falls, will retire after the completion of this school term.

We would like to join the education association in expressing to Clarence and Thora our appreciation for their service in our community, and add our best wishes for a happy retirement.

None can assess the value of their role in Thief River Falls education, for such worth is incalculable. Experience does not always make a better teacher, but Clarence and Thora have profited by their experience and have been better able to pass on their knowledge to their students.

What more can be said in tribute than that they have been good teachers?

Inflation Is Here

For years a number of experts has agreed that the United States is on the verge of inflation. Let us not kid ourselves any longer—inflation is here. It may not be crippling inflation, but the situation is nearing the critical stage. Give consideration to the following facts:

In 1965, the overall cost of living advanced more than 2.0 per cent, the highest increase in seven years; most economists expect the increase to be even higher this year.

The food that a housewife bought early in 1965 at a supermarket for $10 cost her $10.45 a year later, and prices are still going up.

Wholesale prices were up 3.4 per cent last year, after virtual stability since 1957, and were advancing at an even more rapid rate early in 1966.

In 1965, the United States lost $1.7 billion of its gold supply to foreign countries, and its international balance of payments was in deficit by $.3 billion.

The federal budget has not been balanced since 1960, under President Eisenhower; since then, Democratic Administrations have produced deficits totaling $34 billion, and a further substantial deficit is planned for 1967.

In the last four years, the supply of money (including time deposits) has been allowed to grow excessively, at almost double the rate of increase in production of goods and services.

The total debt in the United States—government, corporate and individual—increased 7.5 per cent in 1965, again significantly greater than the increase in physical production.

The war in Vietnam is increasingly costly; the 1967 budget forecasts expenditures of $10.5 billion for that purpose, and there is no way of knowing how much more money may be required.

No Patriotism, Please

The following editorial appeared in the Chicago Tribune:

Two former state department security officers who were demoted and subjected to petty persecution because of their loyalty to their former chief, Otto F. Otepka, have won their battle for reinstatement. A hearing officer found that they were improperly dismissed. The men waited only long enough for vindication to hand in their resignations. They've had all of this administration and of Secretary Rusk's department that they can take.

The security officers, John R. Norpel Jr. and Howard J. Shea, charged that they were demoted and ordered transferred to distant jobs in reprisal for their support of Otepka. He was chief of evaluations in the department's bureau of security before he was dismissed in the fall of 1963 because he testified frankly before the Senate internal security subcommittee about sloppy security clearances in the department. Otepka has filed an appeal but is still awaiting a hearing. He remains on the payroll but is restricted to useless busy work.

Norpel and Shea were among six of Otepka's subordinates who announced that they would testify in his behalf. All six were demoted and transferred. Norpel was first ordered to New York City to assist in protecting the Yugoslav communist dictator, Marshal Tito, who was here on visit. During a decade of service with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Norpel had incurred a 40 per cent loss of hearing—now risen to 60 per cent—because of exposure to gunfire.

He had sought the state department job because he would not have to carry or fire a revolver. The Tito mission required him to be armed, and he was ordered to engage in target practice. He was later notified that he would be "exiled" to El Paso, Tex., where he again would be required to bear firearms. His physicians warned him that continued firing practice would destroy what remained of his hearing. When he refused the El Paso assignment, he was fired.

Shea was ordered to Denver and given a routine assignment which would also require him to bear arms. He had never fired a gun in his life. He refused the transfer and was fired.

So deep is the prejudice in the state department against patriots who have no use for Communists and security risks that the department made the implicit confession that it could not give Norpel and Shea an objective hearing. A professional hearing officer, Edgar A. Buttle, was brought in from the Federal Trade commission to hear the pleas of the pair for reinstatement. He had no difficulty finding in their favor.

It came to a sorry pass in Washington when loyal Americans are so disillusioned with a government that abuses them that they cannot, in conscience, continue to work for it. A patriot doesn't stand a chance in this kinky environment.

Space for Sale

During the past several weeks we have had a number of requests for "news stories" in regard to profit-making events sponsored by private organizations. These events include rummage and bake sales, church suppers, a car wash and several other projects.

In declining to run these items as "news" we have tried to explain to the person making the request just why he or she is being refused. The large number of recent requests has prompted us to comment on our position here.

Events mentioned have very little, if any, actual news value. Organizations requesting the items fully expect to realize a profit from conducting the sale or service for which they are soliciting public support. In most cases, they are of very restricted interest, appealing to only a few of the more than 5,000 households which receive each of our issues.

Subscription fees and newspaper sales provide the newspaper with little more than paper and printer's ink. To continue to provide service as a reporter and recorder of community and area events, we must sell advertising space to those who have products to services to sell. Advertising is the lifeblood of any newspaper, and any newspaper would soon die without it.

If an organization or person hopes to profit by what appears in the paper, that organization or person should expect the paper to profit from the publication of such items. There are exceptions to this rule, of course, in the instances of charitable items, news of general interest or public events.

In most cases, however, the rules relating to advertising would apply. A classified advertisement could cost the organization or individual as little as 60 cents—a modest investment in an attempt to reach more than 5,000 homes with their message.

News is our business, to be sure, but advertising is the fuel that keeps the news business going. As the once popular song used to state, "You can't have one without the other."

Running Out of Friends

People in this agricultural area would certainly agree with this editorial from the Murray County Herald at Slayton:

"American agriculture is apparently running out of friends in high places—particularly Washington, D. C. Even the secretary of agriculture has been making some ominous noises lately.

"If Lyndon Johnson's administration made any friends last week in the farm belt, it would have to be among school teachers; not farmers. LBJ didn't exactly endear himself to the nation's farmers when he inferred that the cost of food and fiber was a major contributor to inflation. Nor did he find many friendly faces in the construction field when he solemly told the public that he is abandoning plans to add a modest four rooms to his Texas home because of increasing building costs. But he's a showman from the word go. He said it all without even smiling.

"LBJ had no sooner finished his remarks than our fearless leader in the department of agriculture informs us that milk prices are too high. As a result, he favors elimination of current controls which bar the importation of dairy products. In our humble opinion Mr. Freeman should be secretary of something other than agriculture. His attitude as farm secretary could be compared to a secretary of labor who lobbyed for lower minimum wage laws. It just doesn't add up.

"The attitude of both the president and the secretary of agriculture is downright amazing. These two men have both pointed out in the past that American agriculture does not now and has not in many years received its fair share of the national income when labor and investment are taken into consideration. Now, however, when farm prices actually reach level where the American farmer is making a decent living these two fearless leaders condemn them for contributing to the national inflation. The president can try to make a whipping boy of the farmer if he wants to, but he isn't fooling anyone. It isn't agriculture that is causing the current inflationary spiral. It is the Johnson administration — an administration that has heaped so much in the line of increased costs on business, both big and small, that it has no choice but to increase prices or go under."

What amazes us is that the farmers and those dependent on farming in this area continue to pledge allegiance to the DFL party in spite of the economic beating they have been given by the party bosses. The romance of embracing even the most attractive girl should soon lose its lustre if she repeatedly kicked your shins while purring sweet nothings in your ear.

Your Minnesota Hostess

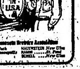
Age certainly didn't keep this little lady from leading a full life. Alice Arnold of Orlando, Florida, took a trip to Mexico after her 100th birthday. On her 101st birthday she had an appendectomy. She could still touch her toes when she was 104 and her favorite bedtime snack consisted of cucumber sandwiches with a glass of beer! This sprightly oldster lived to be nearly 105 years old!

Brooklyn Block Party

Now that the baseball season is back upon us, those still-optimistic fans of the New York Mets are wondering if one Eastern brewer will repeat last year's offer. He promised, during the '65 season, to put on a huge block party—with any fan invited who cared to come to Brooklyn for the occasion—the first time the Mets won six straight games.

Beer-Honey Barbecue

Just as we were polishing up the outdoor grill, a note arrived asking me to repeat this recipe. Combine 1 bottle or can of beer, 1 cup of honey and ½ cup lemon juice with the seasonings that please your family. Marinate chicken, chops or ribs in the mixture at least two hours, turning frequently. Then broil the meat, basting often with the sauce. Serve with glasses of cold beer . . . and send for "Minnesota Hostess' Favorite Recipes", 333 WCCO Bldg., Minneapolis 55402. It's free for the asking!



BREWED IN U.S.A.

IT'S A FACT: MANY A MAN CONSIDERS HIMSELF A CONNOISSEUR WHEN HE SPEAKS OF IMPORTED BEERS...BUT MOST AMERICANS SEEM TO PREFER THOSE BREWED RIGHT HERE. OUT OF THE 97,897,798 BARRELS OF BEER CONSUMED IN THE U.S. IN 1964, 99.3% WAS BREWED IN AMERICA—AND ONLY 0.7% BREWED OVERSEAS.

MANAGER of the Northwest Pellet association plant at Thief River Falls will be A. G. (Art) Ramage, pictured at left in the above photo with Art Stenberg, chairman of the board of directors of the cooperative, and Roy Wiseth, Goodridge, secretary. Ramage has been in the feed business for 20 years, primarily at Perham and at Fargo, N. D., and for the past year was assistant manager of the West Fargo alalfa pelleting plant.

Ramage Is Named Alfalfa Pelleting Plant Manager

A. G. (Art) Ramage, assistant manager of the West Fargo alfalfa pelleting plant for the past year, began work Monday as manager of the Northwest Pellet association plant now nearing completion at Thief River Falls. Ramage has been in the feed business for 20 years, primarily at Fargo, N. D., and Perham.

The new manager was with the McCabe company's feed division in sales, supervision and plant management for 12 years at Fargo. He served as plant manager for the Farmers Union Grain Terminal association at Perham for eight years before accepting the assistant manager post at Fargo's pelleting plant.

Ramage expressed the opinion that this is an excellent area for production of alfalfa and that farmers and others in the community should welcome another cash crop for the area. He said production is expected to begin at the plant in early June, with 1965 crop hay being used until the 1966 crop is available.

Farmers having 1965 crop alfalfa hay and who would like to sell to the plant may contact Ramage next week by calling the plant (681-4023). He is currently attending a conference on agricultural exports at the University of Minnesota's department of agriculture.

At present construction is taking place on a 60 x 108 pole building which is to be located southeast of the processing plant and used for hay storage. Pellets produced at the plant will be used for both export and the domestic market.

Real Estate Tax In County Will Total $1,131,726

Real estate tax bills of Minnesota property owners will total nearly $520,000,000 this year up $30,900,000 or 6.3 per cent from a year ago, the Minnesota Taxpayers association reported today.

The real estate tax levy payable in Pennington county this year is $1,131,726, up $43,650 from last year. The average tax rate was 280.57 mills last year, and is 286.77 mills this year. Marshall county levy is $1,700,891 (255.52 mills) and Red Lake county levy is $479,057 (260.95 mills), increases from $1,609,709 and $459,044.

The statewide average tax rate climbed from 244.80 mills to 254.74 mills, according to Charles P. Stone, executive director of the taxpayer group, with the average rate in individual counties ranging from 174.08 mills in Cook county to 444.91 mills in Koochiching county. Stone cited figures from the county abstracts of tax lists which form the basis of the state auditor's annual abstracts of real and personal property taxes, payable in 1965 an 1963.

"The total tax levy against real estate was up in 84 counties, down in only three—Hubbard, Lake and Wilkin," Stone said.

"The plight of property owners grew more serious each year as the upward spiral of real estate taxes continues. The only hope for relief is for legislative action on a sound program of tax reform."

Council Conducts Street Hearing, Buys Radar Unit

Meeting in special session Tuesday night, the Thief River Falls city council voted to purchase a Dominator portable radar unit for use by the police department in traffic control. The unit was purchased from the Police Equipment store in Minneapolis at a cost of $925.

The original bid was $850. The added cost is for an inner calibration unit which by the instrument can be checked for accuracy.

Held the same evening was a hearing on the 1966 street improvement project for First street. After hearing a number of opinions expressed by property owners affected by the proposed project, the council postponed action to allow for further study and consideration.

Name Mehlhoff To C of C Board

Appointment of Rudy Mehlhoff to succeed Sid Lieberman on the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce in Thief River Falls was announced this week by Donovan Narverud, president of the organization. Lieberman had resigned his position at a previous meeting. Mehlhoff's term will be for the remainder of this year and next year, and he will take office at the June meeting of the board of directors.

Oen, Olson, Achenbach Named to School Board

VETERAN teachers in the Thief River Falls school system, who will retire at the close of the present school term, were honored at a dinner at the American Legion club Monday night, sponsored by the Thief River Falls Education association. They are Miss Thora Skomedal, English instructor, and Clarence W. Pope, carpentry instructor in the area vocational-technical school. They gave a brief farewell address to the large crowd in attendance, and were presented with gifts by Art Welter, science teacher and president of the local MEA unit. Together they have a total of 91 years of teaching.

Two incumbents were reelected and a new member named to the Thief River Falls board of education at the annual school election held Tuesday. Each of the men elected will serve three-year terms and will begin their terms at the July metting of the board.

With 320 votes cast in the election, Harry Oen polled 262 votes, Rufus Olson received 197 votes and Dr. H. R. Achenbach gained 183 votes to gain positions on the board. Oen, appointed by the board to fill a post left vacant by the resignation of John Burhess, and Olson, currently serving as chairman of the board, are both incumbents. Dr. Achenbach defeated Maynard Wedul (151 votes) and Bernard Myers (105 votes) for the position vacated by Lloyd Howick who declined to seek reelection.

A review of the past several school elections in Thief River Falls shows a wide variety in the number of votes cast, with school district plans playing a large role in the turnout of voters. Considering the five-man race for board positions, the total of 320 ballots cast would be considered small.

In 1964, however, only 163 votes were cast in an uncontested election as Robert Bredeson and Morris Owen were reelected. The year previous, in 1963, with a large bond issue for school construction fresh in the minds of the voters, there were 1,941 voters who swarmed to the polls. Olson, Howick and Burhess were reelected that year.

Last year, 1965, a total of 850 ballots were cast. Dr. George Martin and D. H. Stewart polled 504 and 347 votes respectively last year to unseat incumbents Howard Hoel (279 votes) and K. Russell Anderson (157 votes). Hoel and Anderson had been elected in 1962, unseating incumbents during a bond proposal for the new elementary and junior high school.

Members of the board of education met following the election Tuesday to canvass the ballots, and the vote totals given above are official.

Other Area Elections

At St. Hilaire there were 142 ballots cast with Harry Sjulson (49 votes) and Kenneth Schroeder (42 votes) being elected to three-year terms. Earl Peterson, incumbent board member, received 40 votes and W. A. Corbett gained 11 votes.

Truman Hemmestvedt with 139 votes and Orlin Hanson with 92 votes were elected to the Goodridge board of education with Donald Horachek receiving 82 votes and Oldrich Hoffman getting 15 write-in votes. Hanson was appointed to the board a year ago but did not file for the election and was elected on write-in ballots. Hoffman did not seek reelection after 15 years on the board. Horachek and Hemmestvedt had filed for election.

Bicycle Testing Slated Saturday

Testing of youthful bicycle riders and licensing of bycycles in the city of Thief River Falls will take place Saturday beginning at 9 a.m. in the Thief River Falls city arena. The bicycle safety check is sponsored by the local Jaycees in cooperation with the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2793 and local law enforcement authorities.

Gordon Anderson, chairman of the project for the Jaycees, noted that the testing will be held on one day only this year and that only the one location will be used for all areas of the city. In the event of rain, arrangements will be made to have youngsters waiting to take the tests sheltered in the areana.

Children attending the safety check are asked to bring their bicycles to the rear (south) door of the arena. They should bring with them a fee of 35 cents for each bicycle to be licensed. Local police officers will be present to collect the fees and issue license stickers for 1966.

Members of the VFW post will attach reflectorized tape to bicycles as a safety project. Jaycees and law enforcement officials will register the youngsters, inspect the bicycles for safety hazards and conduct a series of tests which indicate the rider's knowledge of traffic laws and signals and his ability to handle the bicycle.

Last year a total of 1,200 bicycles were reigstered in the city. The police department, which issued a number of licenses after the bike check last year, is encouraging all youngsters to have their bicycles tested and licensed on Saturday.

Community Meth. Church Groups Note Anniversary

The 25th anniversary of the organization of the Woman's Society of Christian Service and the Wesleyan Service Guild of the Community Methodist church of Thief River Falls was observed Wednesday, May 11, at the local church. A combined celebration, the event was also in honor of the Community Methodist girls, who are graduating at Lincoln high school this spring, and also included the postponed annual birthday party. A large number were in attendance.

Honor guests who were presented with corsages by Mrs. Claude Davidson were past presidents of the WSCS and the Wesleyan Service guild, charter members and senior girls.

A program was given with Mrs. Orville Kruschke, chairman of the reading and prayer based on Isaiah 6:8 and Mark 12:28-33. Mrs. Milton Relerson welcomed the guests and Mrs. Fred Monroe reminisced regarding past events of the organizations. Minutes of the organizational meeting and the first session of the WSCS were read by Mrs. G. H. Mayer-Oakes, who also read the names of the 143 charter members. This group was to meet once a month with Miss Margaret Odell as president and Marie Hunt as secretary. Four years later this group became known as the Wesleyan service guild.

Several impressive ceremonies were also included in the program. They were the "In Memoriam" ceremony, the installation of officers and the dedication of the 25th anniversary goals.

Lighted candles were placed on the communion table during the dedication of the 25th anniversary goals by Mrs. Bill Duke and Mrs. Fred Monroe. These goals included the future plans of the organizations.

Vocal selections on the program were a duet, "My Task" by Emily Hoel and Linda Reeve and a solo, "The Lord Is My Shepherd" by Emily Hoel.

The closing prayer was given by Mrs. Merrll Harris. She also led the group in the table prayer at the annual birthday party that followed the program. For this part of the celebration, 12 tables were decorated to represent the 12 months of the year with the guests seated at the table representing the month of their birthdays. EGF Ties Bemidji for NW Conference Crown

Three record-breaking performances by East Grand Forks athletes, and the disqualification of the Bemidji team in the mile relay event, shuffled the point standings in the Northwest conference track and field meet at East Grand Forks on Tuesday into a two-way deadlock between the defending champion Bemidji Lumberjacks and the East Grand Forks Green Wave, with each squad scoring 54 points. Other team totals were Crookston, 50½; Roseau, 35; and Thief River Falls, 29½.

Bemidji appeared to have made a successful defense of the conference title when the Lumberjack mile relay team finished in second place in the meet's final event, giving Bemidji a total of 58 points. But it was discovered that a member of the Bemidji team had participated in too many events on the program, and the mile relay team was disqualified.

Kim Krostue, a junior, paced coach Ron Thompson's East Grand Forks squad to their conference title tie. Krostue won the 120-yard high hurdles in 15.4; and set a new record of 20.1 in winning the 180-yard low hurdles; and he ran the second leg in the mile relay event, which found a new mark being set.

Dan Beck of East Grand Forks accounted for the third new record when he ran the 440-yard dash in 52.8. Beck was also a member of the Green Wave's mile relay squad, running the anchor leg as the East Siders turned in a sparkling 3:36.6.

John Olson led the Prowler scorers, having a second in the high hurdles event, and a third place in the low hurdles. Other point winners for the locals were Larry Bjerken with a second in the 440-yard dash; Dave Halvorson with a third in the pole vault event; and Joe Fuller with a fourth place tie in the pole vault. Ward Johnson scored a fifth in the 100-yard dash; Steve Nabben had a fifth in the 880-yard run; Dan Bacon scored a fourth in the broad jump; Dave Rodahl earned a fifth in the high hurdles; and Ross Hanson had a fourth in the discus throw. The Prowlers gained a second place in the 880-yard relay event.

Roseau Falls to Prowler Nine

The baseball Prowlers increased their win streak to nine games on Tuesday evening when they scored a 7-1 win over the Roseau Rams on the fairgrounds diamond. For the reason the Prowlers have nine wins and no losses.

On Wednesday afternoon, with a 5 p.m. start, the Prowlers will play a return game against the Rams at Roseau. On Friday, on the fairgrounds diamond, a doubleheader will be played with the Ada Vikings meeting the Prowlers at 5 p.m., and the Crookston Central Pirates playing the locals at 7:30 p.m. On Saturday night the Erskine squad will play the Prowlers on the fairgrounds diamond at 7:30 p.m.

In Tuesday evening's game the Prowlers rapped out six hits and, with a pair of walks and a wild pitch, scored six runs to take command of the game. In the high-scoring first inning, Keith Hendrickson drove out a two-run single and Bob Brodin poled out a two-run double.

Righthander Tom Cummings hurled the first three innings for the Prowlers, pitching no-hit and no-run ball. Billy Dicken hurled the final four innings and gave up one hit, that a fourth inning single by Arlen Erickson.

Lefty Mike Baumgartner, after surviving that first inning outburst, pitched steady ball for the Rams. The southpaw collected 11 strikeouts during the six innings that he pitched.

Old Mill Park Sets Open House Sunday Afternoon

Sunday afternoon, May 22, has been designated as "Open House" or "Visitor's Day" at all of the Minnesota state parks. The public is invited to tour the Old Mill state park, ask questions and look over the facilities, according to Glen L. Jenson, park manager.

Park permits have been a requirement for park entrance into any state park since 1953. The first permits cost $1. per car. In 1963 the park permit was increased in price to $2 with an opportunity to purchase a short term permit for 50 cents. These charges remain the same for the present.

The above charges have been waived for this "Visitor's Day" celebration, Jensen said. A short program on Sunday is planned.

Another Coaching Change

When the Warren Ponies came over here on Monday evening for a baseball game against the Prowlers, they confirmed the rummor that Warren's athletic director and varsity basketball coach, Irv St. John, had resigned.

Irv, a native of Bemidji and graduate of Bemidji State college, has been at Warren for the past six or seven years, having moved over to Warren after a stint at Baudette. Irv will be moving over to Duluth East where he will be assistant to Joe Mrkonich in basketball. Joe, you recall will, is a former Prowler football and basketball coach, being head coach in football here and an assistant in basketball.

With Joe handling both football and basketball at Duluth there is always the possibility that Joe will decide that the coaching of two major sports is a bit too heavy a burden, and Irv will be available.

I'm sorry to see Irv leave District 31 and Region Eight, but he will have all the best wishes of the fans in this area.

Finally Ended

The hockey season in Canada finally came to end this week, and the honors that were decided went to the province of Alberta.

On Sunday afternoon the Edmonton Oil Kings defeated the Oshawa Generals, 2-1, to win the Memorial Cup. This is the trophy that is emblematic of Canada's Junior A hockey championship. And it is from this Junior A program that the National Hockey league gets its finest players.

It was the Oil Kings' second cup victory in three years, although Edmonton has been in the finals for the last seven years. The Kings beat the Niagara Falls Flyers in the 1963 finals at Edmonton. The win by Edmonton marked the first time since 1948 that a western team has won the championship playing on an eastern rink.

And on Monday night the Drumheller Miners defeated the Sherbrooke Beavers, 5-0, to win the Allan Cup. This trophy represents the finest in Canadian senior hockey. The Drumheller team, with such veterans as goalie Al Rollins and forward Sid Finney, eliminated the Selkirk Fishermen in the western Canada finals. And the Selkirk Fishermen were the representatives of the Manitoba Senior Hockey league.

But it is a relief to have ice hockey, Canadian style, over for the season. Do you realize that the Canadians, and this includes the juniors, begin play in September. That figures out to an eight-month season. And you wonder why the Canadians are such superb hockey players!

Man of the Year

Clearbrook is booming its favorite native son, Wes Westrum, for Minnesota's "Man of the Year" honors. And the popular Wes, and standout defensive catcher with the New York Giants back in the days of Leo Durocher's managership, is now the manager of the New York Mets.

Wes learned his baseball on the sandlots of Clearbrook, and the Clearwater county town is getting reams of publicity on the success of Westrum's first year as a manager of the colorful Mets.

I can recall the days when Wes was catcher for the Plummer Red Sox, and he was the pride and joy of Plummer's Gust Krueger. Wes didn't stay long with Plummer, but then joined the Crookston Pirates of the Northern league. Then he was at Eau Claire for a spell, and then to the Minneapolis Millers, at that time a New York Giants farm team, and from the Millers Wes advanced to the New York Giants for a ten-year career in the majors. The 43-year old Westrum is rightly proud of the .999 fielding average that he posted in 1950. That mark remains unbeaten in National League records.

Wes is a cousin of Ardell Robinson of this city. And he is a cousin, too, of the baseball-playing Robinsons of Oslo, Smokey and Bunty. And, of course, younger brother Lyle, now an insurance man in Erskine, was a top-flight catcher with Fergus Falls when Fergus won the Class A title. Lyle finished out his active baseball by playing with the Erskine Merchants of the Northern Minny league.

Yes, baseball-wise, Wes is entitled to Minnesota's "man of the year" honors.

Safety Program Aids Safe Use of Chemicals

Recently in California, a 21-year-old man fell ill after applying phosphate ester and sulfer to strawberries. He was carried to the hospital and the pesticide label was given to the doctor. But the doctor was confused by the large dose of antidote called for on the label.

So the doctor, not having seen a case like this and not convinced that such an antidote was called for, gave him instead a prescription for a much smaller dose of first-aid antidote and sent him home. Early the next morning the man was dead.

A physician can easily practice for 30 years and never see a man poisoned by agricultural chemicals. Consequently and understandably, a doctor may be unable to provide the proper treatment.

Recognizing this, the staff at California State Polytechnic college, (San Luis Obispo, Calif.) has developed a farm chemical safety program that goes far beyond the general rules of following label directions, wearing protective clothing and disposing of containers. Information on this enlightening program was published in the Spring issue of the Farm Quarterly magazine in an article titled "A Cool Approach to Hot Chemicals". Among points brought out by this article are four basic procedures that every farmer handling chemicals should follow:

1. First and most important the farmer should visit his doctor at the beginning of the farming year. He should list with his doctor the exact pesticides that will be used on his farm, and he should provide a label for each. He should ask the doctor to acquire additional information on these pesticides and the treatment of persons affected by them.

2. Next, if the farm uses many different chemicals a master chart should be posted in a location known and readily available to all employees and family members. There should be a strict rule that any person on the farm handling or applying pesticides must first list on the chart the pesticide and the time of its use.

3. At the first sign of an illness or any unusual reaction, the farmer should be taken to his doctor and with him should go the information from the master chart of what pesticide he had been using at the time.

4. If the farmer uses organic phosphates, he should have periodic blood samples taken to check his cholinesterase level. (Cholinesterase controls the nervous system.) Usually these should be taken once a week while these pesticides are being used extensively and less often when used intermittently. (These tests are important, not only because they guard against a gradual buildup of organic phosphates, but because susceptibility to these chemicals varies among individuals. A dose of pesticides that would hardly affect one man might kill another man of the same weight but with with a different body chemistry.)

A farmer who understands the characteristics of his pesticides fully and who takes the added precautions as listed above can look forward to the productivity available through the use of agricultural chemicals without a worry.

Patrolmen Tell Experience With Using Seat Belts

How can you tell an expert driver? One way is to note whether or not he is wearing his safety belt snugly fastened over his hips to give him maximum security, according to the Minnesota highway department.

One group of experts who always wear safety belts are the members of the Minnesota highway patrol. These highly trained officers drive over 11 million miles every year patrolling the trunk highways of the state.

Despite their skillful driving, they do become involved in collisions and from this experience make it a rule to always wear their safety belts. A look at some of their experiences shows why.

Sergeant Norris K. Sletten tells of this experience: "South of Redwood Falls I turned to pursue a speeder. Cresting a small hill I found the suspect vehicle starting from a stopped position in the left lane and headed directly into my path. In an effort to avoid him I applied the brakes and headed for the right hand ditch. However, there was a collision and my door was thrown open upon impact.

"The right front wheel was torn loose as the car continued skidding from side to side many times. After calling for assistance by radio, I unlatched the safety belt and stepped out unscratched. Had I not been wearing a safety belt I might have been thrown out when the door was torn open, or pitched through the windshield when the car hit the ditch."

Another officer reports: "My wife and I were heading back to Marshall when we met a car towing another. The tow bar broke loose and the towed vehicle went out of control and skidded sideways right into our lane. I had barely time to apply the brakes before we collided. Although both vehicles were a total loss, I feel that either of us may have been killed or severely injured had it not been for our safety belts and padded dash. If we had had shoulder belts in addition to the lap belt, there may have been no injuries at all."

No one wants to be involved in a collision with another vehicle, animal or an immovable object, but it does happen even to the best drivers through no fault of their own.

When it happens, safety belts save lives. In a study of actual crashes by Cornell university, people who were wearing safety belts had 35 per cent fewer serious and fatal injuries than people without them.

Always wear your safety belts whenever you are in an automobile. Use them in town at slow speeds, because most crash injuries occur in urban areas and almost half of fatal accidents happen at speeds under 40 miles per hour. Wear them on the highway, where high speeds are normal and crashes, blowouts and skids are all too common and dangerous.

Power Play

In vetoing the reapportionment bill presented to him by the special session of the Legislature, Gov. Karl Rolvaag has executed a power play which should be the envy of every football coach in the nation. The governor has carried out his task as a chore-boy for the DFL with a certain degree of perfection.

The governor talks compromise, but he means compromise only on his own terms—a yielding of legislative power by a large number of legislators to the veto power of an individual. He might just as well say, "If you will compromise to give me everything I want in this bill, I will compromise and sign it for you."

"The judgment of the governor cannot be based on partisan or personal considerations" Gov. Rolvaag said in his veto message. "Regardless of the fact that my decision may prove to be politically unpopular in many circles, my responsibility clearly is to insure fairness to all our citizens. As part of the legislative process, it is my duty to exercise my independent judgment of the merits of this legislation."

We do not doubt that there were some poor provisions in the bill and that county lines were in some part ignored in the shuffling required to come within the population tolerance required by law. Neither do we doubt that some political considerations were given to current legislators.

By the same token, however, we know that the liberals in the legislature—if they had the balance of power—would have weighted the scale heavily in the other direction. They did so at the last reapportionment of the state. And we have no question in our mind at all as to how the governor would have reacted to the bill with "partisan gerrymandering" aimed toward the liberal cause. Such action would suddenly become "fair and equitable" in the governor's view.

We suggest that the governor read his own news release; especially the part that states, "We carry a sacred trust to the people of our state and to the philosophy of a democratic society."

Men are Essential

In spite of the furor occasionally aroused by the use of computers and other time and work-saving equipment being developed, man must continue to play a vital role in industry today. From the smallest firm to the largest corporation, machines can tackle the tedius but men must make the decisions.

We liked the statement made in the annual report of The Southern company, a large utility firm serving several states in the southeastern part of the nation. It said, "One machine can do the work of 50 ordinary men. No machine can do the work of one extraordinary man."

A man need not be a corporation president, a financial genius, a scientist or an electronics wizard to be an extraordinary man. The annual report notes:

"There is no record of an electric generator or an automated billing machine or a central power dispatch computer ever: Staying awake nights trying to figure ways to ren der better service; courageously facing the tough decisions which involve human motivation and response; becoming involved in civic affairs; stopping its work to listen to a customer's complaint; telling a neighbor of the virtues of the free enterprise system."

Millions of people like these, working in countless thousands of private enterprises, make the United States the industrious, productive country which it is. And all men have the opportunity to become the extraordinary man if they will use their vision, develop their personalities and give consideration to their abilities rather than seeking an easy life, security and positions where others can do their providing for them.

Wages of Politics

This business of politics is a wonderful one. After all, where else can one find such variety in opinion as there is in the political field. We don't only mean variety in opinion among politicans, but variety in opinions expressed by politicans—depending upon who they are talking to, what they are talking about and how long it is before the next election.

Election time is—like the end of a western movie—when the showdown finally comes. Most of the time it is the guy in the white hat who wears the hero's crown—even if he is the poorest actor on the set. The "white hat" image is important to a politician, and he often uses many methods of protect his image.

Like President Johnson wanted to show the country how economy-minded he was, so he offered to cut back government expense —in the departments which were most tried and worthy and in the highest public favor. Many of the wasteful and unnecessary spending plans were continued or expanded, including several untried and highly speculative ones.

With the President showing his deep and sincere interest in economy, the Congressional majority was now free to move. They rushed to the aid of their constituency, restored the cut-backs (before any actually took place) and proved to the voters back home that they really had the home folks' welfare at heart. It was a grandiose display of maintaining the status quo while making political hay—sort of like being busy running hay through a baler but letting it drop, untied, back on the field.

The President also showed his concern about inflation by asking housewives to cut back their spending and industry to hold the line on prices. Now before Congress is a bill to increase the minimum wage law to $1.60 per hour and extend the coverage. Proponents say it would help the poor—but little is being said in government handouts about the fact that it should also increase income tax payments into the vacuum of the federal treasury.

Congressman Dave Martin of Nebraska has the right slant on what increase of minimum wages would do. He says they would: Aggravate unemployment for the flood of teenagers now entering the labor force, close more small businesses, bring agricultural workers under the law and create an army of investigators to check compliance.

"Congress does not create more jobs through legislative action," he correctly states. "Additional jobs are created only by private enterprise working through our free enterprise system. The net result of this legislation could be fewer jobs and it would accelerate the demise of our small business man and our small towns throughout the country."

Cost of Defense

Huge sums of money poured into national defense stagger the imagination. Few will argue that defense is all-important to our way of life, for it is by far easier and less costly to avert a war than it is to fight one —assuming that such a war would result in victory for our side, and not even considering the loser's position.

When one considers national defense, the first thing that comes to mind is a large military force—men in uniform bearing arms in defense of their country. Times have changed, however, and now the U. S. defense department employs 4,186,000 people—1,093,000 of them out of uniform—and is the nation's biggest employer.

In relatively peaceful times the department is responsible for about 10 per cent of the nation's total employment. Some 6.7 million people are engaged in defense work either directly by the federal government or by private contractors who make goods which are sold to the government.

It does make a person wonder what the economy of the United States would be like if the threat of war was forever erased from the earth. There would be no need for military personnel, for weapons of all types and descriptions, for fuel, ammunition and supplies expended in military training, for war ships and airplanes and missiles and nuclear weapons, and for all the related parts that funnel into the defense effort.

There is little doubt that "defense" is providing the spur that keeps our economy running, and the upkeep is terrific.

Navy Is Needed

A milestone in the history of Western civilization has passed with scant notice. The British publication, "Navy", of April, 1966, carried an editorial entitled "Britannia Throws Away Her Trident." It comments on the British government's recent decision to rely on land-based strategy in military matters involving Britain. The editorial stated simply that: ". . .to rely on a land-based strategy means the end of this country as a world power."

The final demise of British sea power became a certainty in the opinion of Navy's editorial, when the British government decided to write off the aircraft carrier program. A superior Navy is indispensable to any nation that wishes to remain a first-rate power. The U. S. should heed the lesson that is so self-evident in the decline of British naval superiority.

Sea power, spearheaded by a strong Navy, provides mobility to move wherever we are needed, flexibility to tackle a wide variety of jobs when we get there, and political freedom to move around without let or hindrance. Again, in the words of Navy, "All these are especial qualities of a seaborne force, qualities that have across the centuries applied to sea power and have, as a corollary, placed those tied to the land at a disadvantage."

America must never throw away her trident. Right at this moment, 98 per cent of the food, fuel and fire power for the U. S. military in Viet Nam is moving by sea. In the light of this, it should not be necessary to point out that the life of the United States depends on sea power and the best Navy in the world.

Auto Safety Belts Prevent Fatal Impact

Forty-three percent of fatal accidents occur under survivable conditions.

This means that in many collisions the passenger compartment of a car is not essentially damaged; but the victim is thrown about so violently that he dies from impact with something beyond his normal riding area, according to safety education officer Obert Lillo of the Minnesota highway patrol.

This also means that in the 43 per cent of all fatal accidents that occur under survivable conditions, the one factor between the motorist and death is the safety belt. It is the only thing that can keep the motorist from being thrown against an object inside the car or ejected out of the car.

The safety belt serves another equally important purpose, he said. In case of a skid or sideswipe, the safety belt holds the driver in place and helps him keep control of the vehicle. Without the belt, the driver can be thrown from his normal position and be unable to hold the steering wheel or reach the brake.

Safety belts do save lives, and they do reduce injuries, Officer Lillo said.

One of the ways this is accomplished is by preventing the body from being ejected from the car in a collision. Many persons, uninjured in the first impact, are often severely injured or killed when thrown from the car against an object outside, such as a tree or the pavement. Also, many fatalities are reported where the victim thrown from the car is run over by another vehicle.

Wear seat belts faithfully, whenever traveling in the car, he advised.

The claims commission office is located at 12 State Capitol, St. Paul.

The commission is composed of six members of the legislature; three from the senate and three from the house, whose duty is it to hear and adjudicate claims against the state. The chairman of the present commission is Rep. Walter K. Klaus of Farmington. The other members are Sen. Norman W. Hanson, Cromwell; Sen. Keith Hughes, St. Cloud; Sen. Glen W. Swenson, Buffalo; Rep. Victor L. Johnson, Lake Bronson; and Rep. F. Gordon Wright, Minneapolis.

Driver Clinic Director Named

Appointment of Francis B. Dunnigan as driver improvement clinic director has been announced by Commissioner John R. Jamieson of the Minnesota Highway department. Dunnigan will assist in setting up and approving clinics throughout the state to assist persons convicted of traffic violations in correcting improper driving habits and in understanding traffic laws.

The 1965 legislature authorized any court, municipality, or regularly established safety organization to establish and conduct a driver improvement clinic subject to standards prescribed by the highway commissioner. Courts may order convicted traffic violaters to complete a course of study at an approved clinic, and the highway commissioner may require attendance at a clinic before re-issuing a license that has been revoked or suspended.

Clinics may charge tuition fees up to $15, but not to exceed the actual cost of the course. The course of study is not to exceed a total of nine hours, with no single session lasting more than three hours.

Initial assignment of the director will be to contact the courts that are now requesting the establishment of driver improvement clinics in their areas and to establish new clinics outside the metropolitan area in order to have them available to as many courts as possible.

Christmas Seal Group Has Annual Meeting

How clean should the air be? "Clean enough for breathing", said Dr. Harry Heimann, speaking on "Community Air Pollution and Human Health" at the joint annual meeting of the Minnesota Tuberculosis and Health association and the Minnesota Thoracic society at the Curtis Hotel, Minneapolis, May 6. "Yet, in many of our more populous and industrialized areas we appear to be running out of clean air," he said.

Awards for long-time volunteer service to the Christmas Seal organization were presented to Mrs. Esther Weaver, Anoka; Judge Herman Kjos, Thief River Falls; Mrs. H. A. Strand, Elbow Lake; Mrs. Donald Alsop, New Ulm; Leo Kroll, Little Falls; Dr. E. A. Kilbride, Worthington; and Mrs. Howard Klug, Zumbrota.

Dr. Heimann, formerly with the air pollution division of the U. S. Public Health service, is now senior research associate, Harvard University school of public health, Boston, Mass.

Air pollution in many communities contributes significantly to acute upper respiratory disease, and major chronic respiratory diseases such as bronchitis, emphysema, bronchial asthma and lung cancer, said Dr. Heimann.

One pollutant, sulfur dioxide, 23 million tons of which are currently being discharged into the country's air, has been implicated in most of the famous air-pollution disasters, including the 14-day smog episode in New York City, early in 1963, in which 400 "excess deaths" were recorded. If recent trends continue, he said, the emission of sulfur dioxide from electric power stations—the largest single source —will increase sixfold by the year 2000.

Some air contaminants are relatively uncontrollable, he said. These include pollens, micro-organisms and the residue of forest fires, dust storms and the like. But, human activities, he pointed out, responsible for the ever-increasing air pollution. Five pollutants that account for most of the over-all destruction come from transportation, manufacturing, electric power generation, space heating and burning of refuse.

"We have begun to fight this menace," said Dr. Heimann. The Clean Air Act of 1963 makes matching federal grants available for state and local control programs, and the amendments in 1965 aim to abate automotive air pollution. An aroused public insists that air pollution be abated, he said. Industry, too, is spending millions per year on installation and operation of special equipment and on research.

Expansion of the Tuberculosis and Health association program in the field of respiratory diseases and related areas of smoking education and air pollution abatement is essential, said Dr. David T. Carr of the Mayo clinic, Rochester. In his talk, "New Horizons in Christmas Seal Work," he told how tuberculosis cases and deaths have dropped drastically in the last 40 years, while deaths from lung cancer, chronic bronchitis and emphysema have risen steadily over the last five years.

Christmas Seal volunteers, physicians and nurses attending the meeting also heard Dr. James Lillehei, University of Minnesota, speak on "Pulmonary Disease Education at the University of Minnesota." and Dr. Edward Strem, St. Paul pediatrician, speak on "The Asthmatic Child."

Dr. E.P.K. Fenger, state director of tuberculosis services, explained the Tuberculosis and Health association's new case finding policies, and staff members of the state association and its affiliates reported on what has been done in tuberculosis case finding and health education during the past year.

Dr. Arthur M. Olsen, Mayo clinic, Rochester, and president of the state association presided.

Thomas F. Mulrooney, St. Paul, who retired May 1 as case finding program director of the state association, was given a special award for outstanding service. Highest honor, the Kleinman award, given only for distinguished service in the control of tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases, went to Dr. Mario M. Fischer, Duluth.

Income Tax Questions Are Answered by IRS

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the Office of the District Director of Internal revenue, St. Paul.

Q—I am a waitress and receive cash tip income. Since January, I have been reporting these earnings from tips to my employer, but have been unable to pay any of the tax owing on these amounts. What about this uncollected tax?

A—Your tip income is subject to both social security and income withholding taxes. If your employer is unable to collect the social security tax on your tip income, and you do not voluntarily pay this tax due to him, you will be required to pay the uncollected tax to the revenue service when you file your income tax return for 1966. Your employer is required to show the amount of the social security tax on tip income which was uncollected on Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement.

Q—With my income tax return filed in April, I submitted a declaration of estimated tax and paid the first installment owing. Now I find that the new withholding rates will take care of my 1966 tax liability. What shall I do about the second installment of estimated tax due June 15?

A—If the new withholding rates are sufficient to satisfy your tax liability, no further payment should be made on your 1966 estimated tax. File an amended declaration by June 15. You can use the reverse side of the June 15 billing, Form 1124, and indicate the balance to be paid in 1966 is zero.

Q—Last spring, we held a card party to raise funds for our local garden club. We had to collect a 10 per cent admissions tax on each ticket sold. Do we have to collect this tax again for the party this year?

A—No. The admissions tax was repealed as of Dec. 31, 1965. It is no longer applicable.

Q—I received my tax refund recently, and it was less than I expected based on the return I filed. How did this happen?

A—You could have made a mathematical error on your return. Within the next few days, you will receive an explanation indicating why the amount refunded is different from the overpayment shown on your return.

Q—I have taken a second job. Can I advise my employer not to deduct social security tax since my principal work will make me subject to the maximum tax deduction?

A—No. Each employer is required by law to withhold social security on the first $6,600 in wages paid to each employee. Your second employer must deduct social security tax from wages he pays to you. If, as a result of working for two employers in 1966, more than $277.20 is taken from your wages for social secility tax, you may claim the excess as a credit on your tax return. This credit will reduce the amount of tax owing, or increase the amount of your refund check.

Q—I am inquiring about my tax refund. How long should I wait before writing in about it?

A—Please wait until the end of June before writing on your refund. You should have received it by that time. Normally, refund checks are mailed within eight weeks after the return is received, unless your return was selected for examination before the refund is issued, or it is incomplete. In either case, you will hear from our office on the examination or requesting supplemental information to complete the processing.

GOD'S WORD for a NEW AGE

An old man in Australia holds his Bible with shaking hands. Painstakingly his pointing finger follows along a well-loved passage. In a village in Guatemala an Indian lad reads joyfully from a New Testament written in elementary Spanish. In a rural area of Japan a lively youth group discusses the Scriptures using Bibles printed in their mother tongue.

People like these, and thousands more in every corner of the earth, read Bibles today because of the work of the American Bible Society. Founded on May 8, 1816, the Society's sole object is the widespread circulation of the Scriptures. Now, faced with a worldwide population explosion and mounting literacy, the Society sees an exciting challenge in rededicating itself to its goal: that no matter what his language, whether rich or poor, or where he lives — no man, woman, or literate child should be without the Scriptures.

In our space age of confusion and change, the Bible remains constant. Read and study the Bible faithfully, and attend your church regularly. Hear there the word of God — His greatest gift, so freely given.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Pre-School Roundup Held

Wednesday afternoon, May 11, proved to be an interesting afternoon for all of the children who will be enrolling in the first grade in the fall. This was the day they had been looking forward to. The Viking PTA board members have charge of this annual event. During the course of the afternoon the children had the opportunity to become acquainted with classmates, games were played, the county nurse, Mrs. Rud, was present to examine eyes and give a hearing test to each child. Health charts and dental cards were distributed to each pre-schooler. These charts are to filled in by the parents, family doctor and dentist and returned to school this fall, so that a permanent health record may be kept for each student. At the close of the afternoon a lunch was served in the school dining area to the mothers, fathers and children in attendance. Serving as centerpieces on each table was a vase set on a doily and filled with colorful pinwheels. Each parent received a rainscarf. Favors of lifesavers were given to each child. The door prize a flower arrangement, was given to Mrs. Meal Knutson, who had the lucky number. Each child also received a pinwheel to take home at the close of the afternoon. Attending the roundup were: Mrs. Kenneth Dunrud and Craig, Mrs. Clyde Swenson and Todd, Mrs. Carpenter and Tammy, Mrs. Duane Krohn and Marnorie, Mrs. Neal Knutson and Rodney, Mrs. Ronald Shern and Jeffrey, Mrs. Andy Kvamme and Gloriann, Mrs. Donald Lubarski and David, Mrs. Donald Peters and Vance, Tom Yutzrenka and Pat, Mrs. Elmer Anderson and Jeffrey, Mrs. Gerald Oberg and Ione and Mrs. Gene Halvorson and Tammie Lynn.

FEEDING TIME for seven young cottontail rabbits at the Larry Shetler home comes every two hours. Discovered when a dog dug up the shallow nest near the Shetler home at 413 Red Lake Blvd., the rabbits were taken into the home. They have thrived on a mixture of two parts of milk to one part of water, and had doubled in size by the time this photo was taken. Since rabbits are protected by Minnesota game laws, the cottontails must be released in the wild as soon as they are old enough to care for themselves. They cannot be kept as pets.

Christensen Herd Tops Pennington DHIA in March

Orville Peters, supervisor of the Pennington County Dairy Herd Improvement association, lists the following herds as the top 10 in the association for the month of March:

	Average Milk	Average Fat
Clyde Christensen	1,201	46.4
Wallace Relerson	1,151	41.5
Carl and Kermit Finstad	1,160	41.3
Darrow Lundeen	1,074	40.2
Myron and Mylo Carlson	1,030	41.0
Donald Erickson	1,080	41.0

Martin Hanson	1,087	39.3
Dale Svendsgaard	1,116	38.9
John Burtness	1,010	38.5

Herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butterfat produced is averaged out over all the cows, giving the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month.

If many dry cows are included in the herd, the average for that month may be low even though the cows which are milking produce a lot of milk.

There were 24 herds on test with the total of 674 cows and a average of 28 cows per herd during March with the Pennington association; 82 per cent of which were milking. Average amount of milk produced per cow was 925, which tested 3.7 per cent fat. This amounted to 34.4 pounds of butterfat per cow.

Fourteen cows finished with over 500 pounds of fat during the testing year, in a 365-day or less lactation. They were as follows:

	Lbs. Milk	Lbs. Fat
Mehrkens Farm Inc.	14,170	603
Mehrkens Farm Inc.	13,400	577
Mehrkens Farm Inc.	16,780	587

Thursday and Friday have been declared Poppy Days in Thief River Falls by Mayor Orin Green at the request of the American Legion auxiliary, according to Mrs. Chester Swanson, poppy sale chairman.

"The hearts of all our citizens in the Thief River Falls area will be with this commendable effort this year as a means of paying tribute to our war dead," Mayor Green said. "This community is fully cognizant of the great contributions and great sacrifices made by the members of the armed forces and on this day each year we have an opportunity of paying our humble respects to those gallant Americans who laid down their lives in order that we may continue to enjoy the blessing of freedom.

"It is also an opportunity for all of us to pay tribute to those brave men and women who still ive as victims of the wars," Mayor Green added. "The funds collected by the American Legion auxiliary and all other volunteers are used to aid the many veterans still in hospitals and to assist the fatherless children and the widows of the war dead."

Efforts of our fighting men in Viet Nam and the resulting losses and casualties focuses the attention of all patriotic Americans upon the annual observance of Poppy Day this year, according to Mrs. Walter H. Glynn, national president of the American Legion auxiliary.

"Americans have always given generous support to the Poppy Day program," she said, "and this year's observance provides all of us with a timely opportunity for reaffirming our heartfelt appreciation for the sacrifices made by our armed forces in the defense of America's freedoms."

Mrs. Swanson, in noting that a number of American Legion auxiliary volunteers will be conducting the poppy sale, stated: "We invite all citizens of Thief River Falls to join with us on Thursday and Friday by supporting Poppy Days—our time of remembrance.

Bank Debits Up 8 Per Cent from April of 1965

Bank debits in Thief River Falls during April showed an increase of 8 per cent from the same period a year ago, according to statistics released by the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis. In dollars, the city's bank debits volume during April was $9,051,000. In the same month of 1965, the total figure was $8,343,000. During the first four months of 1966 bank debits amounted to $35,621,000, an increase of five per cent from last year.

For Minnesota the April volume of bank debits for reporting cities increased 14 per cent from April of last year. Debits for the first four months of 1966 increased 18 per cent from the same period in 1965.

The volume of bank debits reported by the total sample of Ninth Federal Reserve district cities for April increased 13 per cent from a year ago. The cumulative total for the first four months of 1966 indicated a 16 per cent increase from the comparable 1965 period.

They do not include debits to the accounts of other banks, the United States government and savings accounts.

Land O'Lakes Has Dropped Action Against Producers

Federal court action brought by Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., Minneapolis, against a group of milk producers who had rescinded their marketing contracts was dismissed today by an order of U.S. District Judge Ronald N. Davies.

On May 9, Land O'Lakes had filed with the court a motion to dismiss the suit. The company said that it sought the dismissal because court action had not been completed before a forthcoming hearing on a proposed milk marketing order for this area.

Land O'Lakes stated that on Sept. 12, 1965, it had drawn up and presented to the Secretary of Agriculture a proposal for a federal milk marketing order for the Red River Valley area, including certain counties in western Minnesota and eastern North Dakota.

Notification has now been received that the Secretary has set the dates of June 20-24 for the hearing on the proposed marketing order for this arae. For the order to be put into effect, 66 and two-thirds per cent of the producers must

Ramage Attends Conference on Foreign Trade

U.S. agriculture stands to gain from liberalizing and expanding international trade, even if it means importing some food and fiber products produced more efficiently in other countries.

Nevertheless, liberal agricultural trade has some rough roads to travel, according to Dean Sherwood O. Berg of the University of Minnesota's institute of agriculture.

Berg told the Upper Midwest Conference on Agricultural Export trade at the Capp Towers hotel that preferential trading blocs, such as the European Common Market and those of lesser developed nations, are major impediments to international trade negotiations in agriculture. A. G. (Art) Ramage, manager of the Northwest Pellet plant in Thief River Falls attended the conference.

The U. S., Dean Berg said, exports nearly a fourth of its harvested agriculture output.

He pointed to several benefits from liberalized trade, particularly in the principle of comparative advantage. It contributes, he said, "to increased consumer welfare through product prices based upon worldwide competitive efficiency and to world economic growth through savings of resources for new investment."

In spite of the economic soundness of liberalized trade and arguments against "farm protectionism" in Europe, Berg suggested that extensive loosening up of world agricultural trade is still in the future.

He said liberalized international trade should be easiest to negotiate reciprocally among nations with fully employed industrial economies, particularly when these nations such as those in Europe—also need sharp adjustments in agriculture.

The principal obstruction to reciprocal liberalized agricultural ciprocal liberalized agricultural said Berg, "remains the unwillingness of governments to commit their farmers and rural communities to structural and production adjustments clearly foreseen through broader market competition.

"Thus, while the U. S. government may be politically able to extend liberalized agricultural trade direct reciprocity with Western Europe agriculture appears somewhat distant."

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kohler and family spent the opening of the fishing season at Detroit Lakes. They also visited at their parental homes, the Joe Kohlers and the John Daubenspecks.

Fitzsimons Explains Area Reapportionment

MAYOR Orin J. Green has proclaimed May 27 as the date for the annual Jaycee vehicle safety check to be held between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. on the 100 block of West First st. between Main and Knight avenues. He is shown signing the proclamation while Anthony Kozojed, Jaycee chairman of the project, looks on. Theme for this year's check is "Join the Circle of Safety: Check Your Car—Check Your Driving—Check Accidents."

Reapportionment of the Minnesota legislature was accomplished last week when Gov. Rolvaag signed a reapportionment bill presented to him by the legislative body. The governor's signature came after he had vetoed two previous bills—the first during the regular session last year and the second during the special session which he called on the reapportionment question.

Rep. Richard Fitzsimons of Argyle, chairman of the House appropriations committee, comments on the reapportionment bill as it pertains to the 67th legislative district, now involving Pennington county.

"Since the conclusion of the special session of the Leislature on Thursday of this week I have had numerous requests for an explanation of just what happened to our district in reapportionment," Rep Fitzsimons said.

"The reapportionment bill that was signed into law by Governor Rolvaag differed little from the one that he vetoed almost a year ago as far as the west district of District 67.

"At present the 67th District is composed of the counties of Marshall, Roseau and Kittson. Each county has a House member and Senator Sinclair represents all three counties in the Senate.

"Under the bill that was signed into law by Governor Rolvaag, Pennington county was added to the district for a Senate District of our counties instead of three and a population in excess of 47,000 to reach the mandate of the federal court.

"The four-county Senate District was divided along lines as suggested by the bi-partisan committee set up by Governor Rolvaag to advice the Legislature. This division is along north-south lines and divides Marshall county along a line bounded on the East by Alde, East Valley Cedar and Como townships.

"Unfortunately, Roseau county was also divided in order to get enough population in the west district to satisfy the federal court mandate," Fitzsimons said. "This put the west eight townships and unorganized territory together with all of Kittson county in the west District of 67. This is the District I become a part of.

"The East part of this district will include most of Roseau except for eight townships and the village of Greenbush, 12 townships and un-organized territory in eastern Marshall county and all of Pennington county. This district will also be entitled to one House member.

"Reapportionment is never easy and this time was one of the hardest ever attempted," Fitzsions noted. "The bargaining that resulted from the attempts to draw a bill acceptable to the legislature, and the governor came after some of the hardest bargaining I have ever seen during my 14 years in the legislature. The people of the state can be proud, however, that both the executive and the legislative branches of government rose to the challenge and a bill with new districts for the state was the result.

"During the time of the special session of the legislature, I appointed a special sub-committee with myself as chairman to explore the growing problem of a doctor shortage and make suggestions to the next session. Since the appointment I have had more correspondence on this subject than any other during my years in the legislature. Our sub-committee will hold our first hearing on June 23 with the University."

Youth Cleared on Stolen Property Possession Charge

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Several weeks ago the Times published information in regard to a number of young people as a result of investigations conducted by the Thief River Falls police department into shoplifting and possession of stolen property. A total of 14 young people were implicated in varying degrees and appeared in Thief River Falls municipal court where sentencing was made.

Since that time, five of the youths who had been sentenced in municipal court for possession of stolen property entered pleas of not guilty and their cases were scheduled on the spring calendar of district court. Only one of the cases was tried—that of Keith Johnson who was found not guilty by the jury. Cases against the other four young men on the same charge were dropped.

News coverage on the district court trial and verdict was included in a story on district court proceedings, and this article was not given equal prominence with the original story on the 14 cases in municipal court. As a result, it is likely that many of our readers who were aware of the charges were not made aware that the youths were cleared by the higher court.

It is neither normal nor proper to go into details of the situation in regard to the case. Under the legal system in the United States which provides that an individual is innocent until proved guilty, it should be sufficient to note that an independent jury found that the youths were not guilty.

While the Times makes no apology for its news coverage of either the municipal court or district court proceedings since they were in compliance with sound journalistic practice and based on facts available at the time they were published we also believe it is only fair that we publish the following letter:

Mr. Marvin Lundin
Editor, Thief River Falls Times
Dear Mr. Lundin:

Many people feel that considerable damage was done to our son's reputation by an article you published in a February issue of your

1½ pound ground beef
¾ cup quick oatmeal (uncooked)

¼ teaspoon pepper
1 egg (beaten)
¾ cup milk

Method: Combine all ingredients and mix thoroughly. Pack firmly into a loaf pan.

SAUCE FOR TOPPING

Pennington NFO Met Recently

Monthly meeting of the Pennington county chapter of the National Farmers organization was held recently at the Highlanding hall, according to Mrs. Edward Stucy, publicity chairman.

George Horachek, grain committee chairman, reported on the timothy program stating that marketing arrangements would affect only timothy seed that is not certified or registered and only that seed not already under contract. A meeting will be held at a later date to give more information and to sign contracts with interested producers.

Alton Carlson reported on the collection point at Winger. Hauling arrangements may be made by calling Alton Carlson or Albert Kotrba.

Next meeting of the NFO will be held June 9 at the Highlanding hall.

215 Board North Central Flights Here in April

North Central airlines set a new company record for April when it boarded 157,453 passengers, according to Frank N. Buttomer, vice president of traffic and sales. Thief River Falls boarding totaled 215 for the month, according to unofficial local records.

The April traffic represented a 27 per cent increase over last year. A new single day boarding mark was also achieved when 6,493 passengers boarded on April 11. At Thief River Falls the April 11 boardings totaled, 11, while the daily high was 14 on April 6.

"These records reflect the public's increasing preference for air transportation. It is unusual for April to have such heavy traffic," commented Buttomer, "and single day, records ordinarily coming during peak summer vacation months".

While carrying record traffic, North Central completed 99.4 per cent of its 1,305,379 scheduled miles in April. Passenger miles flown rose 24 per cent to a new April high of 25,524,832.

During the first four months of this year, North Central boarded 576,844 passengers, for an increase of 26 per cent over the same period last year.

Middle River FFA Adopts Improved Crops Activity

Twenty members of the Middle River Future Farmers of America Chapter started an improved crops growing activity this spring, according to Mervin Milsten, vocational agricultural instructor and FFA advisor.

This program will include growing one or more acres of certified or registered seed, exhibiting grain samples at county fair and returning two bushels of harvested grain for the fall FFA show for each bushel of seed obtained.

To promote this crops activity is the FFA crops committee of Elmer Peterson, Richard Filpula, Roger Kvaale and Gary Simmons. Gary Hill of Warren Grain and Seed company will assist the committee along with Milsten.

FFA memers growing improved crop varieties are Roger Ryba, Lee Carriere, Michael Anderson, Eddie Lien, Richard Filpula, Ronnie Rasmussen, Roger Kvaale, Gary Simmons, Harold Beito and Elmer Peterson, Lodi oats; Earl Berg, Jeff Walton, Elroy Aune and Elmer Peterson, Chris wheat; Gary Pearson, Richard Lunsetter and Dennis Sparby, Summit flax, Robert Engelstad, Timothy; Paul English, Roger Kvaale and Ronnie Rasmussen, sweet corn. Conquest barley will also be grown by Robert Engelstad.

"It is the desire of the FFA committee and the advisor, that this worthwhile activity can become another revolving fund project similar to the FFA revolving livestock project now in operation," Milsten said.

Freight Car Bill Expected To Aid Boxcar Shortage

"We have moved one step closer to solving the growing national freight car shortage," Congressman Odin Langen said as the House of Representatives passed a railroad boxcar bill that gives the Interstate Commerce commission additional rate-setting powers.

"This bill, similar to legislation I previously suggested, gives the ICC an important tool with which to effectively move boxcars into the areas of greatest need, and to encourage a speed-up in the construction of new boxcars," he said.

"With the national supply of plain freight cars decreasing by over 190,000 during the past 10 years, the ICC needs the rate-setting powers that can lead to a reversal of this dangerous trend," Langen said, "These plain boxcars are the workhorses of the boxcar fleet and are the cars that move our harvests from the Midwest to the rest of the nation and a hungry world. In other words, our war on hunger, both at home and abroad, is threatened by the boxcar shortage".

Congressman Langen, in remarks to the House of Representatives, noted that the boxcar shortage is now nation-wide, and that the Midwest was as critical an area as any. "Our greatest difficulty over the years has been during the harvest season, but we now experience shortages during the other months as well."

A similar freight car bill passed the Senate last year, and the bill now goes to a conference committee to iron out minor differences.

Christine Giefer of this city returned recently after spending five days in St. Paul. While there she was delegate to the Women's Catholic Order of Forresters at the state convention held at the Lowry hotel. She was accompanied by Barbara Votava.

ASCS Chairman Gives Comment on Support Program

Reporting on the operation of the 1965 price-support program Winton Knutson, Pennington county ASCS chairman, said that in Pennington county farmers put 27,325 bushels of 1965 wheat crop under loan, but as of May 18, 1966, 11,245 bushels of this amount had been redeemed.

Other redemptions of 1965 crops include 73,510 bushels of oats out of 589,100 bushels put under loan; 8,643 bushels of barley out of 13,170 bushels put under loan; 2,991 bushels of flax out of 28,600 bushels put under loan; and 855 bushels of rye out of 10,170 bushels put under loan.

Nationally, loan repayments had been made through March on 100.2 million bushels of 1965-crop wheat out of 168.8 million put under loan; on 7.1 million bushels of barley out of 16.2 million under loan; on 41.6 million bushels of soybeans out of 86.4 million under loan; and on 5.2 million hundredweight of rice out of 9.8 million put under loan.

Lesser percentages of loan totals had been redeemed for flaxseed, oats, grain, sorghum and dry edible beans. Corn put under loan through March totaled 205.3 million bushels and redemptions amounted to 17.6 million bushels. However, the maturity date for corn loans does not occur until July 31, and further redemptions are expected.

The chairman gave much of the credit for the currently more manageable stock totals to the voluntary crop diversion programs of recent years. By participating in such programs, farmers have been better able to tailor the production of important crops closer to the amounts needed for national and export requirements. At the same time, the availability of crop loans has insured fair farm prices.

Freeman Tells Farmers 1966 Is 'Best Year'

The year 1966 will be the best year in nearly two decades for the American farmer, and the progress begun in 1960 toward parity of income will continue and accelerate, stated Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman recently.

The Secretary reported that:

•Net farm income in 1966 will exceed $15 billion, according to latest estimates. This is about a billion dollars higher than 1965 and more than $3.4 billion higher than in 1960.

•Net income per farm will be at a record level of around $4,600, or about 55 per cent higher than in 1960.

Disposable personal income per person on the farm will be about $1,600, or 44 per cent higher than in 1960. (Nonfarm income per capita has increased about 25 per cent over the same period.)

•The farmer today earns about 65 per cent as much as other people; in 1960 he earned about 55 per cent as much. While the progress we have made is good, the farmer still is seriously underpaid as compared with what others in our society receive in the nonfarm segment of the economy.

•More farmers are earning parity of income than ever before – estimates are that in 1966 nearly half a million farmers will earn as much as they could expect from the same skill and investment applied in other kinds of work. Another half million are getting close to this level. In 1960, it was difficult to find many farmers in this position.

•Incomes of most farmers will reflect the expected increases in 1966, although weather conditions and other regional or local factors may prevent some farmers from sharing in the improved national farm income.

"Low farm income will not keep the capital and manpower resources in agriculture necessary for efficient production and fair consumer prices," Freeman said. "Without efficient production, supply will drop and consumer prices skyrocket. This we must avoid in the national interest.

"If that common sence continues and the consumer recognizes that abundance deserves an adequate reward," Secretary Freeman concluded, "Then we will continue to enjoy the abundance of food and fiber which has contributed so much to the growth of the nation's economy these past years, and the adequate-sized family farm will reach the target of parity of income by 1970.

New High Mark Of 86 Degrees Recorded Sat.

Thief River Falls and the surrounding area got its first taste of summer weather of the season last weekend as a new high mark for the year of 86 was recorded Saturday at the municipal airport. Lake of the Woods fishermen, while glad of the warmth and sunshine, were stymied Sunday by a south wind that reached a peak of 40 miles per hour.

Turbulent weather has resulted from the sudden heat wave, however. Hail and tornadoes occurred in some of the plains states, and northern Minnesota experienced thundershowers. Forecast calls for considerable cloudiness and cooler today with rain showers expected to end tomorrow morning. Highs today will range from 58 to 70; lows tonight from 38 to 48.

Temperature and precipitation readings recorded at the airport are as follows: 60, 39 and .12 inch on Wednesday; 53, 38 and .18 on Thursday; 63 and 37 on Friday; 86 and 41 on Saturday; 81 and 60 on Sunday; and a low this morning of 51 with .17 inch of rain recorded.

Price Support Maturity Dates Set for 1966

Further improvements are being made in the operation of the price-support commodity loan program which should tend to encourage redemptions of loans and thereby reduce program costs, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

Most recent changes—effective in 1967 for 1966 crops—are the elimination of advance applications for price-support loans and the establishment of later loan maturity dates for most crops.

The chairman explained that, instead of having to apply for a commodity loan by a certain deadline, farmers in the future will be able to obtain a loan on an eligible crop up until one month before the applicable loan maturity date. Commodities not placed under loan may be purchased by the Commodity Credit corporation upon timely notification by the producer to his ASCS county office.

The maturity dates for 1966-crop corn and soybeans are unchanged from those for the 1965, crops, but for other crops the dates range from one to four months later. This will give producers maximum opportunity to take advantage of seasonal price increases. The 1967 loan maturity dates for 1966-crop commodities placed under price support are:

Barley, May 31; oats, May 31; rye, April 30; wheat, May 31; dry edible beans, June 30; and flaxseed, May 31. Loan availability dates are one month prior to loan maturity dates.

paper.

On April 28 and 29 our son faced a trial by jury in Pennington county district court and was found innocent. Twelve people of repute listened to the evidence and agreed unanimously that he had done nothing wrong. We as parents did not say one word during that trial in our son's defense, but let the evidence be presented regardless of the consequences.

We harbor no ill will toward you as an editor, nor toward the police and radio station, but we feel that if you do not give these facts equal head lining and prominence in your paper with your original article your integrity is nil. You are not giving the public the truth and attempting to give back to a young man his most precious possession; a good name.

I want to take this opportunity to again thank the jury and those who came forward and testified in Kieth's behalf.

Respectfully,
Mrs. Henfred Johnson

Fungicide Use Will Help Save Strawberry Crop

Strawberries will be developing during June and at this stage it's important to save the potential crop that is being produced, according to Herbert G. Johnson, University of Minnesota extension plant pathologist.

Johnson says fungus infection is just one of many possible causes of damage to the strawberry crop, but the time and expense spent to produce a good strawberry crop can be lost shortly before harvest if a fungus infection developes.

Fungus infection can kill the blossoms, causing them to turn brown or black and produce no fruit, or fungus can infect the fruit directly, leaving berries partially or entirely rotted.

Johnson gives some effective fungicides and the number of days that the last application must be made before harvest: Captan, no time limitations; Phaltan, no time limitations; Thylate, three days; Zineb, seven days; and Cyprex, 14 days.

A good treatment schedule would include an application per week up to harvest, Johnson said. Make the first one or two applications before bloom. During bloom, apply fungicides weekly.

However, don't apply insecticides during bloom because of danger to bees and other pollinating insects, warns Johnson. Proper insecticides should be used in the applications before bloom and, in some cases, after bloom.

Fungicides can be applied in spray or dust form, but thorough coverage of all plant parts is essential. Johnson points out that disease control alone will not insure a maximum strawberry yield, but it should be part of a complete program to protect the crop.

Minimum Tillage Plans Listed by Soils Scientist

Minimum tillage has been used in Minnesota corn-producing areas for more than 10 years. While most farmers have heard about it, much confusion exists, partly because minimum tillage means different things to different persons.

To many Minnesota farmers, minimum tillage means eliminating an extra disking or harrowing. This does minimize tillage somewhat, but minimum tillage also includes other "short cut" methods - most methods eliminate even more tillage operations than the first example.

James Swan, University of Minnesota extension soils specialist, says yields from adapted types of minimum tillage in Minnesota and surrounding states have been comparable to those from conventional tillage that includes plowing, usually two diskings, harrowing and then planting.

Swan mentions several minimum tillage systems available as alternatives to conventional tillage. A large number of different minimum tillage systems are in use, so this list is not complete.

The combined cultivator or disk-planting system can be used on fall plowing with no additional preparation. A special hitch connects a planter directly to a disk or field cultivator, or rear or front mounted cultivator.

It can be used on fall or spring plowing and is suited to heavier soils where fall plowing is commonly practiced. The soil surface is smoother than with plow-planting or wheel-track planting methods, but rougher than conventional tillage. Thus, erosion control is somewhat better than with conventional tillage.

If clods cause problems on spring plowing, a spring tooth or field cultivator with packer wheels is a possible answer. A harrow attached behind a plow to break up clods is another possibility on spring plowing.

Revised Book on Unemployment Is Issued by State

"Employers should be fully aware of their rights, as well as their obligatons, under the unemployment security program," Brown said. "The department hopes employers will become familiar with the new provisions explained in the booklet to help assure the efficient and equitable administration of the law."

LHS Edges Ponies On 3 Double Plays

The Prowlers clicked off three double plays here Monday evening to snuf out Warren scoring threats and give coach Ralph Sisay's squad a 3-1 win over the Ponies in a district conference baseball game played on the fairgrounds diamond.

The Prowlers will play a 5 p.m. game at Roseau today, Wednesday; and on Friday a doubleheader is on tap for the fairgrounds with the Ada Vikings playing the Prowlers at 5 p.m. and the Crookston Pirates meeting the locals in a district conference game at 7:30 p.m. On Saturday evening the Prowlers will close out their week's activities with a game here against Erskine.

In Monday evening's game against the Ponies, the Prowlers tallied all of their runs in the first inning. Rocky Wilson led off with a single to left-center; Dale Erickson lined a double to right field; and on a wild pitch by Dick Engelstad, Wilson scored the opening run. Tommy Cummings drew a walk. Wayne Smith poled a drive into right field scoring Erickson and Cummings, but Smith was erased at second trying to stretch the hit into a double. Bob Holmstrom came in from third base to take over the pitching duties for the Ponies, replacing starter Dick Engelstad and the righthander hurled no-hit and no-run ball for the 4 and two-third innings that he pitched.

Meanwhile the Prowlers were playing strong defensive ball to support righthander Billy Poole. In the first inning Warren's Brad Johnson opened with a single, and on an attempted scarifice by Les Landon, Poole made a high throw to first base, and the Ponies had runners on first and second and none out. Jim Jorgenson sent a ground ball to shortstop, and a double play ensued, Cummings to Erickson to Hendrickson. Larry Olson flied out to center to end the inning.

In the fourth, with one out, Jorgenson singled to left, but a double play, Bob Brodin to Erickson to Hendrickson, ended that threat. And in the seventh, with Warren trailing 3-1, having scored an unearned run in the sixth, Olson led off with a walk. Pete Gilbert sent a line drive to center field; and Wilson, on a shoe-top catch, made the putout, and then, on a throw to Erickson and relay to Karl Poppenhagen at first base, Olson was doubled. Holmstrom was called out on strikes to end the game.

Warren scored their lone run in the sixth inning when, with one out, Al Peterson was safe when Hendrickson dropped a throw from Erickson. Brad Johnson was out, third to first, but Peterson, who had stolen second base, advanced to third on the play and scored when Landon singled to right field. Jorgenson whiffed to end the rally.

GATZKE . . .

Tuesday evening visitors at the John Loven home were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Eastby, Mr. and Mrs. Thorfin Ostby and Roy Ness.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Monson and Gust Monson visited at the Ervin Bredeson home Wednesday. They were also visitors at the Roy Anderson home one evening last week.

Mrs. Hollis Thygeson and Mrs. Carroll Curtiss were visitors with Mrs. Herman Severts last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Engevik and David were dinner guests Mother's Day at the Glen Espe home in Middle River.

Mr. and Mrs. Mylan Abrahamson visited at the Glendon Abrahamson home in New York Mills last Sunday enroute home from St. Paul where they had visited since Saturday morning.

The athletes of Middle River high school and their fathers were entertained at a banquet at the Middle River school Tuesday evening. Awards were distributed that evening.

The Gatzke Busy Beavers 4-H club winners in the Share-the-Fun festival held at Grygla last week participated in the final county Share the Fun Festival at Newfolden Tuesday evening. There were no winners from the Gatzke club that evening, we're sorry to say as they played their parts very well, but as the judges stated it was very hard to choose the winners from so much good talent as was shown that evening by the many clubs participating. Juell Aase served as bus driver for the Gatzke club members and their leaders.

The acts participating from Gatzke were a musical duet by Bobbie and Bonnie Ruud, a novelty number featuring Nancy Engevik, David Sparby, Lyle Aune, Bryce Abrahamson, Donovan Rud, Jean Ann Scramstad, Delray Ruud, Russell Engevik, Lorri Aase, Arlyne Johnson, Marcene and Renelle Nilson and Michael Peterson in "I'm a Lovely Little Petunia", a musical number featuring Lowell Larson, Diane Rud, Connie Aune, Susan Larson and Robert Rud and a folk dance which included Anella, Elaine and Elroy Aune, Gary Pearson, Wayne Rud, Leland and Lynette Larson and Baryth Abrahamson.

Mrs. Willie Tale and Mrs. Gertie Abrahamson visited their sister, Mrs. Ellen Gramstad in Roseau Tuesday afternoon.

At the annual school election of officers in Dist. 438 Gatzke Tuesday evening, Arthur Peterson and Leo Orpen were re-elected by a big margin.

Public Notices

In memory of Monti, who passed away May 24, 1965.

His sunny smile, his carefree ways
The sun would shine on darkest days
But tho his smile and laughter's gone
His dearest memories linger on.
Your place is here, tho empty still
God called you home, that was His will,
Tho we wonder, but know not why.
You wait beyond the bluest sky.
If we could look back thru the years
We'd see your smile thru many tears
But 'tis the price we have to pay
Until we meet on Judgement Day.

Sadly missed by his parents, Henle and DeLores Miramontes; sisters, Danile and Monica, and brothers, Vince and Paul 1t41p

After Two Shutouts....

Prowlers Lose First Baseball Game 8-7

The baseball Prowlers, after winning game number ten on a 5 to 0 win over Crookston in late afternoon game on Friday, and winning game number eleven on a 10 to 0 shutout of the Ada Vikings on Friday night, had their winning streak snapped by the Erskine squad on Saturday evening, losing by an 8-7 score on the fairgrounds diamond.

The Prowlers will close out their pre-tournament schedule early this week with games at Warren and Crookston in District 31 conference play. The Prowlers meet the Warren Ponies on Monday evening, at 7:30 p.m.; and then play the Crookston Pirates in a 4:30 p.m. contest at Crookston.

The District 31 meeting will be held at Crookston on Wednesday, May 25, with the tournament pairings being made at this gathering. The District 31 tournament will be played at Warren on June 7-8.

It was a pair of home run blasts that provided Erskine with its game-winning margin over the Prowlers on Saturday night. In the third inning, with the Prowlers holding a 1-0 lead, Erskine's Ron Ostby, with Dave Tranby and Duane Talge on base, poled a Jon Looker pitch over the center-field fence and Erskine had a 3-1 lead. The Prowlers picked up a tally in their half of the third, but Erskine notched three runs in the fourth for a 6-2 lead.

Dave Talge opened with a walk, and Harvey Johnson drove out a double. Tommy Tunberg, a southpaw, came on in relief for the Prowlers. Dale Peterson's drive into right field went for a triple when Billy Poole failed on a shoe-top catch.

In the fifth, with two men out, an error put Erskine's Tom Ledding on base, and Dave Talge followed with a home run onto the scoreboard in center field and Erskine had their eight runs.

The Prowlers picked up two runs in the fourth, and another two-run cluster in the fifth. And the locals made a threat in the seventh when Rocky Wilson, who scored three runs for the Prowlers, led off with a walk, stole second, and after Dale Eriskson and Tom Cummings had struck out, scored on Wayne Smith's blow to left-center. Billy Dicken grounded, third to first, to end the game.

In the opening game on Friday's doubleheader, the Prowlers, behind the steady pitching of Billy Poole, who scattered four hits, defeated Crookston, 5-0. Smith, with a single and double, drove in a pair of Prowler runs.

In the evening game on Friday, righthander Tommy Cummings had a no-hit and no-run game until the seventh inning against the Ada Vikings. With one out of the seventh Dean Vilmo singled to Center, and Jim Stadum followed with a double. Cummings nicked Cal Paulson with a pitch to load the bases. Storsteen struck out and Skalsky grounded to first to end the game and give the Prowlers a 10-0 win.

The Prowlers garnered but four hits off the three Ada pitchers, but five Viking errors and ten bases on balls provided coach Ralph Skay's squad with numerous scoring opportunities.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

End of a Streak

It was inevitable that the baseball Prowlers winning streak, which had reached 11 games, should be broken. But it was surprising that it should have been snapped in an 8-7 loss to Erskine. Previous to Saturday night's loss the Prowlers had given up but 11 runs in winning their 11 games, having four shutouts. The highest score yielded by the Prowlers, prior to the Erskine game, was the 6-4 win over Fertile. And the only other team to tally more than one run against the locals was coach Glen Peters' Goodridge squad, which lost an 8-2 decision here three weeks ago.

Incidentally, that 11-game winning streak came within one game of tying the school record. It was back in 1953, during Ralph Skay's first year as baseball coach, that the Prowlers racked up a 12-game winning streak. That Prowler team won its first 12 games and reached the Region Eight finals unbeaten. In the finals the Prowlers dropped a 7-3 decision to Cass Lake.

And here's a roll-call of the squad members of that 1953 squad: co-captains Mike Hajostek and Jack Hoppe, Larry Gilbertson, Cal and Sid Vran, Joey and Jack Poole, Bob Helgeland, Duane Rafteseth, Harlan Hallstrom, Daryrl Durgin, LeRoy Ausland, Evan Jones, Red Collins, Lee Kjos and Lee Bakke. The team had a 12 wins and one loss record.

And if comparative scores are any criterion, the high school baseball in the past dozen or so years has improved plenty. For instance, checking my records, I find that the 1953 team rolled up scores like this: 14 to 0 over Alvarado; 23 to 2 over Fertile; 20 to 1 over Crookston; 16 to 5 over Warren; 17 to 4 over Crookston in district tourney play; and 26 to 1 over Oslo in district tournament semi-finals.

Of course, I believe that coach Skay's teams back in the 1950's had better hitters in the lineup than the 1966 squad. Defensively this 1966 club is as good as any and perhaps better than most, but the boys have trouble with good pitching.

Rules are Rules

A rule issued by the office of the executive of the State High School league stripped the Bemidji Lumberjacks of 16 points earned in the Northwest conference track and field meet at East Grand Forks a week ago. And as a result of losing those 16 points, coach Don Thompson's Bemidji squad dropped into third place in the final standings. East Grand Forks, with 55 points, won the conference title; Crookston, with 51½ points, was runnerup; Bemidji had 45 points; Roseau scored 38 points; and Thief River Falls tallied 32½ points.

Here are the provisions as stated in the handbook of the State High School league, and which it was ruled that Bemidji violated: "1) A contestant may participate in a total of four events (track and field) but not in excess of three track or three field events in arriving at the combination of four. 2) A contestant may compete in only one track event of 440 yards or more. He may in addition compete in two other track events of 220 yards or less except that a 440-yard leg of a relay may be one of these events."

In the Northwest Conference meet, Bemidji's Dave Bublitz ran in the 100-yard dash, winning second place; competed in the 180-yard low hurdles, where he scored a fourth; ran a 220-yard leg in the 880-yard relay, which Bemidji won; and then ran a 440-yard leg in the mile relay, which found Bemidji gaining a second place. This mile relay was the final event on the program.

When it was learned that the Lumberjack athlete had participated in four running events, the committee of coaches decided that Bemidji should be disqualified in the mile relay event, which was the event in which Bublitz was in violation of the State High School league rules. On that basis East Grand Forks and Bemidji finished in a tie for the conference title, with each squad posting 54 points.

But a telephone call was made to the office of the executive secretary of the State High School league, and the ruling was that Bemidji would lose all of the points gained in the events in which Bublitz participated. The result was that the Jacks were shorn of 16 points.

It seems somewhat harsh that Bemidji should lose the points that Bublitz had earned while he was eligible. It was understandable that the Lumberjacks should default the points gained in the event in which Bublitz was in violation of the rules.

But the State High School league is a stickler in the interpretation of its rules, and it was not surprising that this ruling was made.

The Season's First Stag

The spring season has apparently arrived, and the golfers are ready and anxious. The first stag night affair at the local golf club will be held on Wednesday, May 25.

And the golfers when they are on their way to the club, should stop for a minute or two and watch the trapshooters in action. The Times squad, league champions last season, will be in action. And, of course, it is always worthwhile to watch Sandy Wilson shoot. Sandy was state trapshooting champion a year ago. And too it is always interesting to watch the duel between Plummer's Stub Pahlen and his 20-gauge shooting against Ray Thyren and his 12-gauge.

CO-CAPTAINS of coach Ralph Skay's 1966 Prowlers baseball squad are Tommy Cummings, left, and Wayne Smith. The two players have been teammates, and battery mates, for the past three years. Cummings, a righthanded pitcher, and Smith, a catcher, are rated as one of the finest pitching-catching combinations in Region Eight.

The 28-day harness meeting will close on Tuesday, September 27.

The lighting plant will be the most modern in Canada and with the various expenditures that go into an installation of this kind, it will entail the spending in the neighborhood of a quarter of a million dollars, Hardy said.

'Operation Hindsight' Launched by MORRC

"Operation Hindsight", a review of natural resource fund appropriations made in 1965, is now under way as background for the 1967 session, according to Richard W. Fitzsimons, Argyle, a member of the Minnesota Outdoor Recreation Resources commission.

"Members of the commission have asked the governmental agency representatives serving on its advisory council and the 50 members of the citizens' committee of advisors to review appropriations made in 1965 to see if, looking back, they would have recommended any changes," Fitzsimons said.

MORRC, a bipartisan legislative unit, is charged and was created in the 1963 natural resource fund law to review natural and recreational resourse program needs before each regular session of the legislature and recommend how some $7.5 million should be spent every two years.

"In making the appropriation recommendations in 1965, MORRC was faced with requests from various governmental agencies totaling over $20 million, with only slightly more than a third of this amount available.

"As a result," the law-maker explains, "the appropriations made were based on our best judgment and as a result of the data and studies prepared by the MORRC staff. It should be noted however, that the stated intent of the natural resources law was to provided new funds to accelerate the preservation and development of our natural resources and not to provide operating funds, which is a general revenue responsibility".

The commission member points out initial response from the various agencies requesting appropriations from the natural resourses fund in 1967 indicate MORRC and the legislature will again find requests far out-numbering the dollars available.

"For this reason we are beginning the preparation of our recommendations by looking to the past.

"The effectiveness of MORRC, is, in a large part, due to the views the legislature has received from the commission's two advisory units, one reflecting the values of the professionals carrying out the program in various agencies and the other giving the citizen view. These opinions were very helpful in making the final appropriation recommendations before the last session.

"There is an old saying, however," Fitzsimons points out, "that hindsight is 20-20 vision. MORRC feels that a look at the conclusions made in 1965 will be very helpful. The results of the survey will be analyzed and tabulated to reflect any differences in approach suggested."

The survey questionnaire sent to the members of MORRC's advisory units list the appropriations in both 1963 and 1965 and provides space for each person being surveyed to indicate any changes he would have made in the amount of appropriations in 1965, as well as room for comments on any changes suggested.

Centennial Year Celebrated At Costume Luncheon

To celebrate the Centennial year of the Minnesota State Horticultural Society, the Campanula Garden club members had a luncheon Wednesday, May 11, at the Pennington county court house meeting room having as their guests members of the Town and Country garden club of Viking and the Moccasin garden club of Goodridge. The women all wore costumes designed like those worn several decades ago.

Mrs. Walter Fischer, president of the Campanula club, wecomed the guests and then turned the meeting over to Mrs. L. A. Meyer who anounced the numbers on the program.

During the social hour, lunch was served at tables decorated in the authentic style of the 1800's with red checked table clothes, old-time lamps, castor sets and large sugar bowls and creamers. Many family heirlooms were displayed throughout the room. An attractive feature of the luncheon was that each table was centered with a tall coconut frosted cake on a glass pedestal stand.

Credit was given to Mrs. Anna Magnuson for her generous help and thoughtful planning of the costumes and luncheon.

April Employment In State Highest Since 1953 Level

Nonagricultural job level in Minnesota, at 1,094,800 in April, was 51,400 (or 4.9 per cent) over last year, and 23,800 (or 2.2 per cent) above comparable employment last month, according to Robert J. Brown, state commissioner of employment security.

At the same time, Brown reported, unemployment in the state in April dipped to 54,800, or 3.5 per cent of the work force, the lowest April rate since 1953. In March the unemployment rate was 4.2 per cent, with 62,100 persons unemployed. A year ago the rate was 5.1 per cent, with 78,200 unemployed.

Manufacturing employment was held to a relatively small increase of 1,000 by a combination of events: a strike in nonelectrical machinery; a plant shutdown in fabricated metals; unexpected losses in other durables; and an unusual March-to-April decline of 200 in food processing, which normally advances about 300 from March to April.

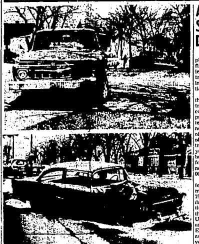
Favorable weather in some areas helped construction activity to a good spring start, with an employment increase of 7,200. The normal March-to-April gain is about 6,000. Other increases in employment brought the total gain in nonmanufacturing to 22,800 over March, according to Brown.

Reopening of drive-in eating places contributed substantially to a rise of 5,600 over March in retail trade—to a total of 191,600. Mining and quarrying firms also reported an upswing of 700, of whom 400 were in mining. All of the over-the-year increase of 400 in this category occurred in taconite mining, which registered an April employment level of 12,800.

Gains were also recorded in services (4,300); government (3,400); transportaton, communications and public utilities (1,000); wholesale trade (300); and finance, insurance and real estate (300).

Manufacturing production worker earnings rose slightly in April to $116.01 per week, compared to $116.01 in March. Average hourly earnings were $2.81, up two cents from March, and the average work-week was 41.5 compared to 41.6 hours in March.

A year ago weekly earnings were $110.59 for 40.7 hours of work at $2.72 per hour.



EXTENSIVE damage was done to a car and pickup truck in an intersection crash about 3:19 p.m. Monday in Thief River Falls. The collision occurred at the corner of Arnold avenue and Fourth street, one block north of Washington elementary school. The pickup truck (top photo) was owned by the city of Thief River Falls and driven east on Fourth street by Oscar Bakke with Gary (Doc) Carlson and Elmer Poole as passengers. Colliding with the pickup was the car driven by William Simpson, 19, Plummer, which was traveling south on Arnold avenue. Passengers in the Simpson car were Howard Dalager, 19, St. Hilaire, and Alan Newton, 19, Thief River Falls. None of the people were hospitalized. The Simpson car was a total loss and the city truck—which had slightly over 500 miles on the odometer—was extensively damaged.

Applications for Sewage Grants Due by July 5

Deadline for subission of applications for federal grants for financial assistance to communities for construction of sewage treatment works is July 5, according to the Minnesota Water Pollution Control commission.

Administration of grants under the Federal Water Pollution Control act is through the Minnesota commission. Grants are based on priority ratings established on water pollution control and financial needs. Federal aid is 30 per cent of the eligible construction costs of interceptor sewers and sewage treatment works. Congress has not yet appropriated funds for 1966-67 but the President's budget provides for a $2,743,250 allocation to Minnesota out of the allotment of $150,000,000 for the country.

Communities may also request federal grants for sewage treatment works construction under 1965 amendments to the Consolidated Farmers Home Administration act of 1961, administered by the Farmers Home administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture and under the Public Works and Economic Development act of 1965, administered by the Economic Development administration, U. S. Department of Commerce.

Communities requesting funds under these two programs must also submit applications for a grant under the Federal Water Pollution Control act, the basic federal program for construction of sewage treatment facilities. If a municipality is also in a federally designated distressed area, a supplemental grant from the Economic Development administration may then be requested to increase federal participation beyond the limits established by the Water Pollution Control act.

Communities which made applications in the past and did not receive a grant offer must submit a new request for a grant from this year's funds.

Under the terms of the grant program, applications must be accompanied by an up-to-date engineering report and a resolution by the governing body that the community will construct the facilities if a grant is offered. The engineering report should include the type, size, capacity, location and estimated cost of the project.

The commission will rate applications according to the priority criteria and certify a list of the communities to the Federal Water Pollution Control administration in September. Grant offers by the federal administration will probably be made in October or November.

Foul Weather Plagues Farmers And Fishermen

Minnesota fishermen had cause to cuss the weather on the opening weekend again this year. Cloudy and windy weather prevailed Saturday, and anglers awoke to the sound of rain and thunder Sunday morning. In Thief River Falls the rain Sunday totaled .42 inch. Due to unseasonably cool weather, fishermen in Lake of the Woods are still confronted with the winter's ice sheet in most areas, and most walleyes were still in their spawning grounds in rivers and creeks last weekend.

Fishermen are not the only people troubled by the cool, wet weather. The crop preport issued May 4 by the Soo Line states that northern Minnesota, upper Michigan and northern Wisconsin are all about three days behind average with spring work. Farmers in the Red River Valley area, were flooding occurred, are 10 days later than average. A few warm days will permit farmers to catch up to their regular schedule, the report states. An increase in fertilizer use seems to be indicated for these areas.

Forecast for the immediate area calls for partly cloudy to occasionally cloudy skies today and tonight with slightly cooler temperatures tonight but not much temperature change tomorrow. Highs today will be in the 50's; lows tonight from 36 to 44.

Temperature and precipitation readings recorded during the past week by North Central Airlines at the municipal airport are as follows: 44, 37 and .07 inch on Wednesday; 51 and 35 on Thursday; 47 and 37 on Friday; 53 and 32 on Saturday; 52, 41 and .42 inch on Sunday; 68 and 33 on Monday; 70 45 and a trace on Tuesday; and a low this morning of 41.

"To win true peace, a man needs to feel himself directed, pardoned and sustained by a supreme power, to feel himself in the right road, at the point where God would have him be—in order with God and the universe. This faith gives strength and calm. I have not got it." —Frederic Amiel

It's Your Life

Two traffic accidents within the city of Thief River Falls last week caused shudders up and down this editor's spine after viewing the wreckage and considering what might have happened. With the Memorial Day weekend fast approaching, all drivers should have some serious thoughts about driving safely.

The first of the two accidents last week was an intersection crash. Although damage was extensive, there were no serious injuries. One of the vehicle involved came to rest in a battered condition across the public sidewalk.

When we first received the call on the accident, the immediate impulse was to check the time. The accident scene was only a block from Washington elementary school, and only a few minutes later school would be dismissed for the day. How tragic this accident could have been if it had happened as youngsters were crowding the sidewalk on their way home from school.

The second accident, about midnight, involved a car crossing a curve in the highway and crashing into a tree. Again, if the normally legal lane of travel had been occupied, entirely innocent and unsuspecting people could have been exposed to serious injury or death.

Anyone who operates a motor vehicle should realize that it is a privilege, and that this privilege requires responsible action. If an individual or a group of individuals enjoys living dangerously, let that individual or group practice its actions where innocent people are not endangered by it.

One more thought for the coming holiday. More than 50 per cent of all highway deaths in 1965 occurred during the weekend from Friday through Sunday with Saturday the most dangerous with 21.9 per cent of all fatal accidents. A total of 48,500 people were killed and more than four million men, women and children injured in accidents last year on our nation's highways. Drive carefully—you only have one life.

The Votes Are Counted

Annual school election in Thief River Falls has been completed for another year. This year's event may be considered a quiet one, with no real issues in question, although there were five candidates for the three positions on the board of education.

We do not believe that one portion of the election—or rather, absence from the election—should be overlooked. That is the termination of service on the board by Lloyd Howick, who chose not to seek reelection. Lloyd had served several terms on the board, had served as its chairman and had worked through several periods which might be termed critical to the Thief River Falls education system.

Of particular recollection is the period several years ago when the district voters, after two earlier refusals, voted a bond issue of $1,495,000 for new school construction and remodeling and improvement of existing buildings and sites. There was a definite opinion split among board members, and feeling was high, but board meetings were generally conducted on a plane above such differences. Much credit for this must be given to Howick's leadership, and the public should be aware of his service to the district.

To incumbents Rufus Olson and Harry Oen, and to newcomer Dr. H. R. Achenbach, go the blessings of the community as they continue to help shape educational policy for Thief River Falls. There will be difficult days ahead, with sticky problems to be solved, but they will be solved and progress will be made.

We admire the school board members for their interest in education, but we do not envy them the task of making the decisions which will affect the futures of hundreds of comunity and area children.

Pampering Evil

The followinig editorial appeared in the Waseca Herald and was attributed to the Charles A. Magill family:

"It used to be that when you wanted something, you worked to earn it. Now you stage a riot to get it given to you at someone else's expense.

"If your father or grandfather lost his job, he took whatever work he could get, and he went (probably walked miles) to where there was work—any honest work—being done. Now hordes of relief "clients" refuse a job unless it is to their liking, and they demand the job be brought to them in their community.

"This nation was built by immigrants (beginning in the 1600's and earlier) who struggled here for opportunity, and would have scored the false idea of "something for nothing". Now it seems to be an almost universal (and all-too-often the only) ambition.

"It used to take a lifetime of gruelling work and skimping for a family or a country to earn a little surplus, a taste of security. Now mobs of stupid "students" and whole "emerging nations" demand they be given it, out of your earnings and with no effort on their part.

" 'Minority groups' all over the earth seem to think the world owes them everything they want. So vicious-destructiveness makes necessary higher taxes to pay for more police to protect decent citizens; higher taxes for playgrounds and parks which hoodlums promptly make unsafe; higher taxes for schooling for gangs who don't seem to want or are unable to be educated. The minority groups whose rights no one seems to consider are the taxpayers and decent citizens—who may have been pampering evil too long."

Starting Now

Th following editorial was taken from the Oklee Herald:

MR. PRESIDENT: This is either the fifth or sixth draft of this brief comment. The first written in instantaneous anger a couple of weeks ago was, after overnight reflection, discarded as too furious. In the intervening days, there's been a mighty struggle going on to temper our fury down to rage, and then to indigation, that seems to be as far as the emotion can be distilled.

There's noting partisan about what follows. We're blessed with some pretty vigorous partisans of both political parties in this community, and we take our politics seriously and zealously. But when a neighbor is ill or injured, or when a barn burns, partisanship ends and we all pitch in. When one of us is attacked all of us are attacked, be the attacker the elements, beast or man, or government.

In this community we grow some of the crops and raise some of the animals which feed and clothe our country. And we have a pretty well-fixed idea of Who makes these crops grow and causes the animals to be born. Nobody hands us a pay envelope on Saturday night when we wash the dirt from under our fingernails. We have to wait out the season of growth, and sell what we have tended, be it plant or beast.

When you and your appointed aides announce that you are going to control inflation by making war on farm prices, you've set a grass-fire, Mr. President. For the fact is, war is never waged against an abstraction, like prices. War is waged against people. In this case, us.

The dumping of government owned grain, restricting exports of hides, raising sugar imports, cutting government purchasing of dairy and pork products—these are acts of war already committed. Yet 61 per cent of the cost of food in the housewives' shopping basket is added after that food leaves our farms. That suggests that 61 percent of the war on inflation ought to be centered elsewhere, instead of 100 percent against us.

Your war may succeed. You may roll back our prices, without ever attacking any of those many other better-organized voter blocs. You may, indeed, hold back inflation with that roll-back. But any farmer in this community—and anywhere else—will tell you that when you roll back a wire fence, or anything else, too tight, the recoil can be ferocious. As we said earlier when we're attacked, partisanship ends and we close ranks and fight back. Starting now.

Bigness or Goodness?

Editorial comment from newspapers with which we exchange frequently presents interesting controversial viewpoints. One of these is the following editorial from the Waseca Herald:

Has business and its desire to combine and merge carried its ideas into the church?

Everything today must be big. The bigger the better. Even the farmers find that big farming can survive where small farming cannot.

Now it has swept into the protestant churches. The proposal is to unite eight denominations into a single church with 23 million members.

Christ said "for where two or three are gathered in my name, there am I in the midst of them."

Now that phase of the Christian teaching seems to be entirely forgotten. Whether Christ is with the church or not is sacrificed for bigness. And why do the churches seek bigness? Surely not for power. Certainly not to produce more dedicated workers.

Leaders say that local churches would have wide freedom to continue their traditional worship practices. More freedom seldom if ever comes with bigness. Seldom does more freedom result from bigness, whether it be in business or religion.

Bigness is the thing that make it difficult for our big political parties to cope with the loyalty to a cause, determination and devotion which permeates the Communist party.

The proposed, huge merger did not originate at the grass roots. It was promoted from above by a committee of the World council of churches. A recent poll shows that less than half of the Protestants whose denominations would be involved knew anything about what was going on.

Those who favor the proposal take the position that there is "strength in unity." Will there be devotion and dedication? That is more important than "strength" which could be interpreted to imply power.

25,000 Returns Are Selected for Audit in State

Approximately 25,000 Minnesota funds, have been notified that their return will be examined before the refund check is issued, according to George O. Lethert, district director of Internal revenue.

In most of these cases, Lethert said, there are large amounts claimed in deductions or other items which appear to need verification before the refund check is issued.

IRS wants to make sure that the taxpayer actually made the contributions, or paid the doctor's bills, or suffered the casualty loss, or is entitled to the dependency exemption that is claimed. Good records, such as cancelled checks, paid bills or receipts, will expeditate the examination, Lethert indicated.

The total number of returns elected for prerefund audit exmamination represents approximately two per cent of the 1,300,000 individual income tax returns filed in the St. Paul District.

Taxpayers awaiting their refund checks were advised by Lethert that the examination program is under way and they will soon be requested to submit information by mail, or visit IRS offices to substantiate the items on their 1965 returns.

VA Hospital To Provide Jobs for Young Workers

Meaningful work for one young person for each 100 regular employees in the Veterans Administration hospital in Minneapolis is the goal of Dr. Edward Mandell, hospital director, in President Johnson's campaign to find summer jobs for the nation's youth.

"The 'one for every 100' aim is to provide opportunities for boys and girls 16 through 21 who need them most because of economic or educational disadvantages," Dr. Mandell said.

The White House has said that 1.8 million young people will look for summer work without being able to find it. Getting a job for many of them will mean the difference between going back to school, or becoming a "dropout" against their will.

Dr. Mandell added, "As the President says 'If we fail them it will mean we are failing our future.'"

The cooperation of private industry, labor unions, news media, state and local governments is being enlisted. Focal points for filling employer needs will be the state employment service offices. Information for interested youths and employers will be furnished at these offices.

Vehicle Condition Emphasized by Highway Patrol

Motorists who drive vehicles in bad repair will come in for some special attention from law enforcement officers during May, reports Minnesota Highway Patrol Chief Leo M. Smith.

Minnesota's "Operation Enforcement" program, which is a cooperative effort by all police agencies in the state, is placing emphasis during May on the condition of the motor vehicle as a major cause of accidents—so officers will be concentrating on enforcing the laws regarding safety equipment.

It is hoped that this will convince motorists to have their vehicles safety-checked periodically as a means of preventing vehicle failure accidents.

This is the third month the program has been in operation. Under the program, the Minnesota highway patrol acts as liaison. It publishes a bulletin each month that goes to all police agencies, and the bulletin sets forth a plan and requests all agencies to cooperate by concentrating on one violation for the month. The program is aimed at making drivers more aware of the major violations that cause accidents.

Cooperation of all agencies has been good, says Chief Smith.

Motor vehicle equipment failure as a cause of accidents is believed to be far greater than accident records show, which is about two and one half per cent of all accidents. Studies indicate that vehicle failure contributes to something like 15 per cent of all accidents.

There are many sections of the law governing vehicle equipment which are covered in the highway traffic laws under Sections 169.47 through 169.75.

Placing emphasis on violations in this way does not mean that other violations will come in for less attention than in the past, Smith said.

More Than 1,000 To Attend State 4-H Conference

Well over 1,000 4-H junior leaders and other 4-H members will have the opportunity to attend a leadership conference and 4-H week in Minnesota during June.

Approximately 750 Minnesota junior leaders will attend the State 4-H Junior Leadership conference from June 21-24 on the state fair grounds and the University of Minnesota's St. Paul campus. Delegates will participate in discussion sessions, tour the Minneapolis and St. Paul campuses, elect new state federation officers and enjoy free-time activities such as a party, banquet and outdoor barbecue. The University of Minnesota agricultural extension service staff will lead the discussion sessions.

Early Lawn Work Saves Money and Work in Future

Sound planning and a little effort at the beginning of lawn work will save money as well as hours of work and fustration in the future, says C. G. Hard, extension horticulturist at the University of Minnesota.

4-H'ers enrolled in horticulture, home improvement-family living, conservation, forestry and safety or other conscientious home managers can apply some lawn practices suggested by the university horticulturist.

As soon as spring weather permits, when the frost is out of the ground and the moisture has settled into the soil, rake up all leaves, trash, twigs and other debis that have accumulated on the turf over winter. A bamboo or broom-type lawn rake will do a satisfactory job. A steel rake may expose the grass roots and tear out some of the good grass. Brown grass remaining on the lawn will rot and form valuable organic matter for the growing green grass.

Early spring is also a good time to roll the lawn. Light rolling will press down the grass plants heaved out of the soil by freezing and thawing. Avoid rolling the lawn when the soil is wet or sticky as this will compact the soil. If the lawn is very compact or hard, loosen the soil mechanically with a potato fork or a commercial aerating device.

If some of the lawn is thin or has bare spots, determine the cause of poor growth. Before seeding thin areas, thoroughly rake the topsoil. For bare areas, rework the spots by spading or rototilling. Apply fertilizer according to the needs as shown by a soil test or by the general Minnesota recommendations.

Distribute the proper amount of seed evenly. Raking or dragging the area will work fertilizer and seed into the soil. Water well and keep moist at all times until the lawn is well established.

Lawn care is another aspect of the 4-H horticulture program. Extension 4-H Bulleton 60, "Lawn and Landscape Design", will give more information on spring and summer lawn practices. Or get a copy of Extension Folder 165, "The Home Lawn", from the county extension office.

The Library Corner

By Flora Allison

Pardon a first-time grandmother for a bit of prideful speculation: there are books at the library which are already being thought of as first books for a certain young man named Patrick Dean Shafer. Some are small enough for even tiny hands to grasp, pictures for eager young eyes to peer at and ponder; songs to be crooned to the young, nursery rhymes to learn. And what better person, or should I say, what more logical choice as the one to introduce Number-one grandson to the mysteries of the book world, than a librarian-grandmother?

As soon as little Pat becomes little-bit-older Pat, he shall have books, no doubt about that. And your little Pat or Patricia, your Janie or Jamie, can know the wonder of books as soon as he or she can handle them without tearing them. Why not? Parents can borrow books for the young'uns by presenting a library card, tother with the books they select for them, or help them find for themselves.

And the card, if you live in the county, is free. Won't you stop by at the desk and ask for yours? Don't deny the children the wonder world of the printed word. It's their "Open Sesame" to treasures beyond description. You owe it to them. It's that kind of world: no one can have too much information in this day and age. Get them started early.

Numerous interested persons stop by to inquire about the opening date of the new library. We are hopefully planning to operate there some time this summer. The furnishing of a place of this size and kind requires special thought and much time and planning. Hence the delay, if it can be called that. To say we are anxious is understating our eagerness. But the realization of our dream will be all the sweeter after a long wait. Call us patient.

We've received a number of replacements of lost books, and those that simply have worn out with prolonged use and popularity. You've been asking for these, and here they are: "Desiree," by Selinko; "A Treasury of Damon Runyon"; "Hannah Fowler," by Janice Giles; "Officers and Gentlemen" by the late Evelyn Waugh; "Oliver Wiswell" by Roberts; "No Time for Sergeants", Hyman; "King Solomon's Mines", Haggard; "The Hart is a Lonely Hunter", Carson McCullers.

New ones are arriving daily. The Teens are in for good reading if they pickup "Toys, Todders and Tantrms" by Emily Dow. As the title hints, this is a book for baby-sitters. It's crammed with everything the sitter should know in order to be capable of invalable service to the parents of the small charges with which they entrust her.

"Young Teens Pan Dates and Proms" will prove popular with his young crowd also. This is a guide to memorable social events with "how-tos" that will prevent heir becoming duds.

You really ought to read, "Twins, Twice the Trouble Twice the Fun"; it'll be doubly welcomed to the harried but lucky parents of a duo of the same age. Chapters cover twins in folklore, fiction and fancy; twins: what is your change of having them? And then come the practical chapters, with no fancy about them, just plain, old, perplexing problems which seem to come with the advent of twins.

This book offers real, down-to-earth advice on such head-scratchers as how to cope with their appetites, for they are always hungary at the same time, and always hungry; how to prepare yourselves for their coming, both psychologically and practically; how to keep from being harassed to death, or how to be adorable, though harried; how to teach them the dangers of their world; how to travel with twins; special problems when the twins are of different sexes.

What it really boils down to is organization. Mother's organizing her time seems to be the crux of the situation. But you need not have twins, or even be a parent, to appreciate and enjoy this novel and enchanting little book. It's by Betsy Holland Gehman, and right now is found on the non-fiction shelf new additions section.

We must not forget to mention that "Anne of Green Gables", Kopling's "Jungle Book" and Alcott's "An Old-Fashioned Girl" are also some other replacements just arrived. You've requested these too. We're happy to inform you that they've arrived.

For the kids, "The Birds and the Beasts Were There", a collection of animal poems selected by William Cole, will prove amusing and worthwhile at the same time, for there are many facts concerning animal life which are wound into these fantasy poems. One poem, by Ogden Nash (he naturally had to get into the act; this is his type of thing.) is on the ostrich: "The Ostrich roams the great Sahara. It's mouth is wide, its neck is narr'n. It has such long and lofte legs, I'm glad it sits to lay its eggs."

A fanciful tale is "Attic of the Wind," with explosions of bright and imaginative drawings to enhance the story. "What happens to things that blow away, like the bubbles you blow one sunny day—Where did they go, anyway? To the attic of the wind!" Can't you just imagine your child, carried away on the wings of fancy? It's an adult world entirely too soon, it seems. Let childhood weave its dreams while it can. By Lund, this is an entrancing book the kids will love.

"Fear in the Forest", by Cateau de Leeuw is for the young fellows mainly, the guys about nine or ten years old. And the girls who like adventure will find something in it to delight them also. "You can't enjoy anything if you let yourself be scairt all the time!" This challenge hurled at the book's hero by a GIRL could not be ignored and the boy, starting life on his own, joins up with a pack-horse train carrying supplies to a string of forts built at the very edge of Indian country by General Wayne. The trains faced danger that was real and ever-threatening on the trails which wound through the dense Ohio forests. And with the Indians growing bolder and more reckless with each passing day, the chills chasing each other down the boy's back were genuine and understandable.

Is there a youngster anywhere, a budding man of say nine or so who hasn't an interest in the worlds beyond our own? There's a junior book to feed that appetite, to stimulate that curiosity, and it's one of the best of its kind. "Discovering Aerospace," is its name, and it's authored by Pacilio. Written in simple language, it still calls a turboprop by its technical name; other terms used and explained include stabilizer, sonic boom, ramjet, liftoff, tachometer, radar and numerous others. With a host of simple experiments to illustrate the aws of science, and explain the mysetries of the modern world of space exploration and related subjects, this is a book, fellas, which will help you become a listener, and a member of discussion groups in which you can put your best statement forward, like a pro.

Another for this group is the new book, "You and Your Amazing Mind" by Lewellen. It answers so many questions which you may have wondered about: What makes you blush? Yow can one person hypnotize another? How is good mental health attained and maintained throughout a lifetime? How can you cure yourself of sitting around and moping? Do you think you're different from others just because you have problems?

Do you use the dodge, "This problem is too tough so I'll get a headache." the "I can't hit him so I'll hit you" trick is another one that is explained. There's the magic mirror trick, in which you look into the mirror and even though you're "homely as sin," imagine yourself just as attractive as a movie star, and you are helping yourself toward becoming happier.

There are so many things we want to tell you about, but they'll have to wait for another time and other colums. Keep reading these columes and we'll do your best to keep you informed and well-read.

Birth Defects to Strike 6,000 Babies This Year

An estimated 6,000 babies will be born in Minnesota this year with a significant birth defect, the statewide chairman of the National Foundation-March of Dimes said today.

Declaring that it is "every baby's birthright to be born healthy and to grow normally", Chairman George M. Scott of Minneapolis said that "risks can be minimized, lives saved and disability reduced by adequate prenatal care.

"Yet it is tragic to note that in many tax-supported hospitals across the nation, one-third to one-half of all women delivered see a doctor for the first time when they are in labor!" he said.

Scott, who is Hennepin county attorney, declared that the National Foundation has selected National Baby Week in May to focus attention both on the serious problem of birth defects, and the March of Dimes' intensive year-round prenatal care education program.

Using the theme "Be Good To Your Baby Before It Is Born", the Foundation urges that every mother-to-be receive medical care from the very first week of pregnancy to the last, the chairman added.

"Exhaustive studies made in Minnesota and elsewhere reveal that the rate of premature births is two to three times higher among women who have had little or no prenatal care, . .and furthermore that the incidence of major birth defects is from two to four times as high among the premature as among full-term babies.

"It is also tragic to note that an estimated 30 per cent of all pregnancies end in death of the unborn baby," Scott said.

The March of Dimes' stepped-up public education campaign, he concluded, is enlisting volunteers throughout the state to work with medical groups, civic organizations schools and other public service channels to bring the prenatal care message to every prospective mother in Minnesota.

Announce Tests For Academies

Congressman Odin Langen recently announced that July 11 has been selected as the date when young men from the Seventh district can take the Civil Service examination for admission to the air force, merchant marine, military and naval academies. Langen said the test scores would aid him in making his Congressional selections to the academies for the classes starting a year from now, in July of 1967.

Congressman Langen said that any young man is eligible if he is not less than 17 or over 22 years of age by July 1, 1967, the time he would enter the academy. Those interested are urged to contact Congressmn Langen's office at the earliest possible moment so that a Civil Service test center near the applicant's home can be alerted in time to prepare for the examinations. Langen can be contacted at 1112 Longworth House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

The Congressman said the examination consists of three tests, one on vocabulary and reading comprehension, one on spatial relations and the third on algebra. No special preparation is required by candidates who have a good knowledge of high school algebra, he said.

Cite Examples of Lives Saved by Auto Safety Belts

Defensive driving is the motorist's best protection in traffic, but accidents can happen to the best of drivers, and when they do happen the only factor between the driver and serious injury or death may be the safety belt says safety education officer Obert Lillo of the Minnesota highway patrol.

The safety belt is the mark of the expert driver, who is totally prepared for any emergency, he said. He knows the belt can save his life or prevent serious injury.

Officer Lillo cited two cases of fellow patrol officers who narrowly escaped death because they were wearing safety belts.

One officer was pursuing a drunk driver at high speed when suddenly the drunk driver's car rolled over directly in front of him. In attempting to avoid the car, the officer went over the embankment of the highway, rolling over and ending up some 40 feet below upside down on some large rocks. The officer was uninjured. The safety belt had saved his life.

Another officer was signalling a turn while going about 30 miles per hour when a car traveling about 80 miles per hour slammed into the rear of his car. The impact sent him sailing 100 feet through the air, the car turning over as it flew, and finally landed on its top. The officer was shaken up a bit and had a few bruises, but otherwise was unhurt.

These are not really unusual cases. Similar experiences happen every day throughout the nation, and each one of these experiences says one thing: safety belts save lives.

REMEMBER THE GOOD OLD DAYS"

Do you still remember how you'd have to "prime the pump" . . . and be sure a pan was sitting under the pump to catch the excess water? The teakettle had to be heated on the wood-burning stove . . . and remember the old boiler on wash days? It took a lot of muscle to wrestle with a boiler full of hot water, so small wonder that washday was "blue Monday". Even the dishwashing three times a day was a major chore, heating the water, setting the dishpans out on the table, wiping up the spills, rinsing in a pan . . . remember?
TODAY: Running water, hot water heaters, automatic washers and dryers, automatic dishwashers . . . what a far cry from the days of yesteryear! How the housewife in the picture above would have loved to turn on the tap for hot water! With today's marvelous detergents, instant hot water, double kitchen sinks . . . she'd probably be doing the dishes all day long! The "good old days" are fun to remember, but very few of us would trade the conveniences brought to us by dependable rural electricity.

Rotary Mower Safety Rules Prevent Injury

Before you go out and mow that lawn, warns the Minnesota department of health, remember that every year an estimated 80,000 Americans are injured, permanently maimed or killed in rotary lawn mower accidents.

The majority of injuries are caused by two types of accidents—objects picked up and thrown by the blades and direct injury to the hands and feet by blades.

Though the power mower adds greatly to the convenience of maintaining a lawn, it should be treated as a potentially dangerous machine. Care should always be taken in its operation. Mower manufacturers have made their products as safe as possible and most have built their machines to conform to the safety standard set by the American Standards association. A mower that meets this standard will display a triangular seal with the initials ASA in large letters and the words "Conforms to Safety Standards." Look for this seal when purchasing a new mower.

However, even with the new safety features on power mowers users should still observe certain safety rules when trimming their lawns.

1. Read and be sure you understand the operating procedure manual.

2. Inspect your yard and pick up stones, metal fragments, and debris before mowing.

3. Fill gasoline tank out-of-doors. Never fill it when engine and exhaust are hot.

4. Stand away from mower when starting, and be sure it is on level ground.

5. Never Permit children, young teenagers or any inexperienced person to start or operate your mower. Keep people away from the mowing area during the mowing operation.

35 YOUTHS from Redeemer Lutheran church attended a camping session during the past weekend at White Earth Lutheran camp located near Waubun. The boys and girls and their chaperones left Friday evening from the church in Thief River Falls and returned on Sunday afternoon. This is the third year that the brief camping session has been conducted by youth of the church, according to Rev. Dennis Rodin, pastor.

6. If mower is self-propelled, keep in step with it. Don't let it pull you along. Never take passengers on a riding mower.

7. Don't leave mower unattended if it is running; never attempt to clear blades or do any work on the mower until it is shut off and the spark wire or power cord is disconnected.

8. Never walk in front of a grass discharge when the mower is running.

9. When mowing an incline move along the face of the slope, never up and down.

10. After you mow, store both mower and fuel container where children cannot reach them. Make sure the mower cannot be started.

11. If your mower is electric powered, be sure the machine is properly grounded, that the cord is not frayed or damaged. Mow during daylight hours and when grass is dry.

Observation of these few simple rules and use of common sense in safe operation of power lawn equipment can reduce mowing injuries occurring in Minnesota.

SAILORS play a major role in the opera "The Lowland Sea" to be presented Thursday at the Lincoln high school auditorium by the Thief River Falls junior college choir. This salty-looking group is the crew of the Scarlet Sail, a clipper ship that leaves the harbor at Scarlettown, travels as far as Singapore and ends its voyage at the bottom of the ocean. The opera, directed by Bryant Ulseth, will commence at 8 p.m. Thursday. Admission is 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for students and children.

"The Lowland Sea"

Junior College Opera Will Be Presented on Thursday

Back in about 1850, before steam replaced wind as the principal means of propelling ocean-going ships, the speedy, streamlined clipper ships were the last word in cargo vessels. Towns and cities on the east coast of the United States were major shipping centers for the clippers. This phase of mid-19th century American life provides the theme of the opera, "The Lowland Sea" by Arnold Sundgaard and Alec Wilder, to be presented Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium by the Thief River Falls junior college choir. Length of the production is 55 minutes. Bryant Ulseth, vocal music instructor for the high school and junior college, is director of the opera. Admission is 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for children and students.

The opera opens in the Atlantic seaboard town of Scarlettown, where a crew of sailors are preparing to embark on a year-long voyage to the Orient. By doing so, of course, they must leave their wives and sweethearts behind. Two of the lovers who must separate, and the two leading characters in the production, are Johnny Dee, played by Ronald Hanson and Dorie Davis, played by Judy Spray.

Shortly after Johnny's departure, Dorie receives, and rejects, a proposal of marriage from Nathaniel Hazard (Neil Jensen), a local widower farmer who is the father of three children. She later marries Nathaniel, however, after hearing that Johnny's ship, the Scarlet Sail, has gone to the bottom with all aboard.

A tense and dramatic suitation develops, when Johnny returns, apparantly from the dead. Dorie learns that he was ill with malaria in Singapore at the time of the Scarlet Sail disaster.

Members of the cast not previously mentioned are as follows: Captain Jesse, Bruce Lunsten; Amos, David Gustafson; ship's doctor, Steve Perrault; Hannah, Pam Torkelson; Belinda, Sharyl Knudtson; Abraham, Peter Nelson; patience, Peggy Wold; and Delight, Cindy Langlie.

Members of the women's chorus include Sharyn Knudtson, Pam Torkelson, Carol M. Olson, Joyce Kriel, Mary Jo Walker, Judy Weltzin, Carol Hafdahl, Geri Thompson, Margo Pfeiffer, Junice Flattum, Sherri Mostue, Mary Rantanen, Maureen Netterland, Susan Finney, Naomi Trontvet, Myrna Weckwerth, Karen Kelley, Marlene Rolland, Cyndy Knudsen and Lorae Inman.

The sailors' chorus includes Curt Nordline, Jerome Hickman, Dave Anderson, Neil Johnson, Andy Adamson, Dave Gustafson, Chuck Lyche, Ron Hanson, Bruce Lunsten, Dennis Lee and John Vanyo. Making up a sailors' quartet are Dave Gustafson, Ron Hanson, Curt Nordline and Dave Anderson. Bryant Ulseth and Carol Paavola are the piano accompanists.

N., East Grand Forks, pleaded guilty to a charge of indecent exposure and was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail. School Patrols Here Cited by Safety Council

Northrop and Washington school patrols in Thief River Falls were winners of the Award of Merit in recognition of a meritorious safety program from the Minnesota Safety Council, Inc. The award was presented at the Governor's award presentation dinner of the safety council at the Hotel Radisson in Minneapolis on Thursday.

The award is determined through a written report on the school patrols procedures and activities along with an observation report.

William Desrocher, principal and supervisor of the Washington and Northrop school patrols, along with the patrol captains, accepted the award. The patrol captains making the trip were Daniel Harris and Thomas Kays from Northrop school and Lee Sorenson and Neil Nelson from Washington school.

Ray Bren of the Thief River Falls police department assists the patrols through training sessions and observations. One of the highlights of the trip was the Chicago White Sox and Minnesota Twins extra inning game.

American Legion Post 177, sponsors of the school patrol, furnished the boys with tickets to the banquet. Washington and Northrop school P.T.A.'s furnished $5 for each boy for expenses.

Other members of the Washington and Northrop patrols are: Shirley Seaverson, Sharon Anderson, Susan Dyrdal, Roberta DuChamp, Michael Looker, Peter Nelson, Christy Hendrickson, David Ranum, Jonathon Folkedahl, Michael Johnson, Candice Rude, Jeffrey Wendt, Dean Dahl, Kathryn Hillyer, Elchel Engelstad, Keith Carlson, Jeffrey Larson, Linda Olson, John Wangberg, Geraldine Paulson, Gregory Donarski, Gwen McFarland, Julie Sveum, Cheryl Martin, Van Sillerud, Rebecca Lee, Joyce Johnsen, Michael Lofberg, Brent Olson, Randy Carlson, Ross Gutterud, Rebecca Sisler, Lori Carlson, Noel Collver, Patricia Larson and Thomas Goddard.

CCC Grain Bins At MR, Newfolden Offered for Sale

On Tuesday, June 7, commencing at 2 p.m. at the Stephen bin site, Wednesday June 8, at 10 a.m. at the Newfolden binsite and at 2 p.m. at the Middle River binsite, 82 CCC grain bins will be offered at public auction, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the Marshall County ASC committee.

The offering consists of 22 bins at the Stephen binsite, 30 bins at the Newfolden binsite and 30 bins at the Middle River binsite. Dahl stated that the bins may be inspected the day before the sale from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and also on the date of sale.

Several reasons have developed which prompted sale of the bins, Dahl commented. The main reason, he indicated, was the willing acceptance and support of the food grain program by the farmers of this nation. Their acceptance of the program substantially reduced government holdings of feed grains and as a result, enabled the department to offer for sale these and other bins situated in the 14 binsite states.

The reduction in feed grain stocks, coupled with the increased on-farm storage and storage space in country warehouses, will undoubtedly allow the government to continue sales of CCC bins, Dahl stated. Sale of these bins will reduce county ASCS maintenance costs and will give farmers, and others in the community an opportunity to purchase additional storage space at a minimum of expense, he said.

According to county ASCS officials, there are certain types of CCC bins being offered throughout the state which may be partially financed by a farm storage facility loan. It was indicated that prospective purchasers should, prior to the sale, contact their local county offices for particulars regarding this matter. All purchases which are not partially financed by a farm storage facility loan must be paid by cash on the day of sale.

Dahl remarked that he hoped all persons interested in securing additional grain storage space for their needs would make an effort to attend this auction.

Farr Criticizes Legislators for Lengthy Session

"Minnesota Republican legislators ought to answer the $130,000 question," states George Farr, Minnesota DFL chairman. "This represents the estimated cost of the extra legislative session on reapportionment.

"Because of the unwillingness of the Republicans to meet with Governor Rolvaag and DFL legislative leaders in advance of a special session, it took 25 legislative days to accomplish what could have been done in two to three days.

"Most of the 135 representatives and 67 senators sat around St. Paul for more than three and one-half weeks doing absolutely nothing while the Republican dominated committees constructed partisan reapportionment bills.

"The bulk of these 135 representatives and 67 senators were forced to further cool their heels while an all Republican 10-man conference committee agreed on a bill they knew would be vetoed by Governor Rolvaag.

"When the Republican leaders finally decided to confer with Governor Rolvaag along with DFL legislators they were able to reach a compromise, pass a reapportionment bill and adjourn the legislature in less than three days.

"The $130,000 question for Republicans is really a series of questions:

"1. Why did the Republicans refuse to work out a compromise with Governor Rolvaag and DFL legislators before the session?

"2. Why were the Republican committees not prepared to submit reapportionment bills at the start of the special session? These committees supposedly had been activated last December.

"3. Why were no DFL legislators included on the 10-man conference committee?

"4. Why did the Republicans insist on passing a bill they knew would be vetoed?

"5. Why was it necessary for the legislature to be in session and all representatives and senators be summoned to St. Paul for three-one-half weeks when only the reapportionment committees were meeting and working?

"If your Republican legislator was not on that committee ask him to tell you frankly and honestly what he did in St. Paul for 3½ weeks" Farr concluded.

Greenbush Sheep Days scheduled for June 7, 8 and 9 at Greenbush promises to be an interesting event this year, according to Norman Haugen, Roseau county agricultural agent.

The shearing school, conducted by Ed Warner, will be held on June 7 and 8 with junior eliminations held the afternoon of June 8. Anyone who wishes to learn how to shear is welcome to attend this school. Inquiries on the shearing school from as far away as Iowa have been received.

Or June 9, at 9 a.m. entries for the 4-H and FFA lamb trio contest must be in place, as well as the pen of 10 market lambs contest which is open to all adults. At 9:30, the 4-H and FFA judging contest begins, followed by a blocking and grooming contest.

The educational program for men will begin at 1 p.m. on June 9 with feeding market lambs as the primary topic for discussion. The women's program will also begin at 1 p.m. with emphasis on wool fashions.

To round out the afternoon's program, the junior shearing contest will be held to choose a shearer to represent Minnesota in the national shearing contest at Indiana. The senior shearing contest will also be held at this time. This contest is open to anyone in the world and first prize is a $100 savings bond. Shearers from Ohio, Iowa, North Dakota and Minnesota are expected to enter this contest.

NW Council on Alcohol Problems Will Open Soon

Northwest Council on Alcohol Problems will operate an alcohol referral and counselling center in Crookston. The council purpose will be to operate facilities for the rehabilitation of the alcoholic and to promote education and disseminate knowledge with respect to problems arising from and related to alcoholism.

The work of the council and the center would be conducted and services rendered to patients and members of the family without regard to race, creed or ability to pay. Services of the center will also be available to all educational, correctional, health, welfare and religious groups, both public and private.

"With the establishment of a referral and counselling center employing an experienced counsler to offer advice and guidance, individuals can assisted in the proper way toward rehabilitation," states Dr. R. I. Williams, council president.

The council was first formed on October 8, 1964, after a meeting held in Crookston by 62 businessmen, key community leaders, members of the clergy, medical profession and others working in the area of rehabilitation of persons having problems due to use of alcohol. The council will service the five-county area of Polk, Norman, Marshall, Pennington and Red Lake

The council conducted a survey in the area to determine the needs of the community in this field. As a result of this survey, symposiums were held as a beginning of the educational program which the council felt was needed. It also decided that a referral and counselling center was needed.

February 7, Rev. Paul Munion, chairman of the temporary council, brought before the council the need for establishing the need for a permanent organization known as the Northwest Council on Alcohol Problems. The council was incorporated as a non-profit organization. The council then submitted a grant through the Tri-Valley Council OEO for its proposed referral and counseling center.

On April 26, Harold Johnson, director of the Tri-Valley council, notified the Northwest council that the Chicago office of OEO had accepted the grant and funds for the center were to be made available from Washington, D.C., on May 5. President Williams called for a meeting of this council for Monday, at which time members of the council interviewed applicants for the position of counselor. The center will be located in the Northwest Mental Health center building in Crookston.

Jaycee Vehicle Safety Check Slated Friday

Thief River Falls Jaycees will conduct their annual voluntary vehicle safety check Friday, Mayor Orin J. Green announced recently. He urged all area motorists to "Join the Circle of Safety: check your car, check your driving, check accidents. Even our best drivers are poor risks if they are driving cars with bad brakes, worn tires or other neglected items."

Mayor Green added: "This voluntary vehicle safety check gives every motorist a change to do his part in making our community a safer place to live." "Equally important in our safety check," he went on to say, "is the challenge to all drivers to check their conduct behind the wheel. Both safe cars and safe drivers are needed to check accidents."

Check lanes will be set up on West First st. between Main and Knight avenues. The lanes will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and will be operated by mechanics and Jaycees. Vehicles with all items in safe condition will receive a safety check windshield sticker. Anthony Kozojed, Jaycee project chairman, has asked that all available Jaycees be present at the checking lanes between the foregoing hours.

"Each year a half-million vehicles checked in the nationwide safety check are found to need immediate attention to one or more of the items affecting safe driving condition," Mayor Green reported. "The items checked are brakes, front and rear lights (turn signals, stop lights), steering, tires, exhaust system, glass, windshield wipers and washers, rearview mirror, horn and seat belts.

"Discovering unsafe vehicles now will permit owners to have dangerous conditions corrected before they become a factor in a traffic accident. Many motorists don't know they are driving cars that endanger themselves, their families and their community. A safety check is the best way to find out," he added.

USDA Says Wheat Future Is Bright

(Editor's Note: The following article was prepared by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and provided to the Times by the Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee office. Views expressed in the article are those of the USDA and not necessarily those of the Times.)

The American wheat farmer looks to the future with confidence.

His program has paid off and it will keep on paying off. Today, the 1967 wheat allotment was increased 15 per cent over 1966 assuring income even better than it will be this year. The 1967 allotment will be 55 million acres plus small farm increases for an effective allotment of 59.3 million acres.

Through teamwork with his government — both the Congress and the administration — he has achieved the best position he has had in more than a decade. His experience shows he can count on the continued cooperation of government in the best sense of democracy at work.

—Income is up and going higher.

—Exports are reaching new records, and demand is reaching new highs.

—Surplus is gone with the June 30 carryover down to an adequate reserve level of around 600 million bushels for the first time in 13 years.

Progress has not come easy. It has taken vigorous promotion of markets. It has taken wise use of our abundance to help the less fortunate around the world.

This battle could not have been fought without farm programs that really work.

Just five years ago the wheat farmer was tied to a whipping post on top of a mountain of surplus wheat — almost 1½ billion bushels. With the surplus gone, the wheat farmer is no longer the whipping boy. He is the respected producer of a needed food.

Income Up By $100 Million

While the supply situation was changing so dramatically, the farm programs of the Sixties made sure that farm income didn't skid out of sight. As a matter of fact, wheat farmers this year can expect at least $100 million more in income than they got in 1960. With more acres next year, income will be even higher.

Let's see how this near-miracle came about.

Record of a Near-Miracle

At the end of the marketing year which began on July 1, 1960, over 1.4 billion bushels of wheat were stored in every conceivable place including mothballed merchant ships tied up in harbors. The wheat program in effect that year made it necessary for farmers to produce more than would be used if they were to remain solvent.

In 1961 the new administration recommended and Congress enacted new legislation. It could not apply to the 1961 crop because the winter wheat crop was already in the ground. But when the 1962 crop was planted in the fall of 1961, it was reduced enough through acreage diversion to begin the job of using up a mountain of surplus wheat.

Each year since, the programs have made sure that more wheat would be used than was produced.

Each year, farmers, industry and government have worked together to find new markets and upgrade old ones.

And each year, the surplus has dwindled.

This action program was speeded in the past few months when the spectre of hunger caused by drought spread over India. When the call for help came, this nation opened its granaries and increased wheat shipments to India. As a result, instead of the early forecast of about 750 million bushels of wheat in the stockpile next July 1, the carryover will be in the range of 600 million bushels.

From 1,411 million bushels in 1960 to 600 million in 1966 — THIS is truly a near miracle.

This could have been done ruthlessly, without regard to the effect on the market, without regard to what might happen to the farmers, without regard to what might happen to the consumers of the nation.

But it wasn't.

The farm program, in effect, offered wheat farmers a contract which said, "If you will cut your production, your government will see to it that you aren't penalized. Together we'll work ourselves out of an intolerable situation."

In a period of stock reduction such as this unrestrained selling of government owned wheat could have ruined the market. Commodity Credit corporation could have put prices on a bobsled, but it didn't. Instead, CCC offered its wheat for unrestricted use only when a specific shortage appeared or to ease the market over the unsettled, uncertain time when the wheat program was shifted from a marketing quota concept to the present voluntary certificate program. Industry's interests were protected, farm income was protected and consumers were assured of the quality and quantity they need.

Full Parity for Domestic-Use Wheat

With the Food and Agriculture Ace of 1965, sponsored by the administration and producers' organizations and enacted by Congress, wheat farmers are now assured of full parity for wheat grown for the domestic market. This is something new in farm program legislation.

But just as important to the farmer, this program is truly flexible.

With it, American wheat can be truly competitive in the cash markets of the world.

With it, the nation can continue the worldwide war on hunger.

With it, the farmer can continue to adjust supply to demand so that as markets grow production can keep pace. He is no longer burdened with an unwieldy surplus that hung like a dark cloud over the market.

The wheat farmer's future is bright because of the vigorous farm programs of the Sixties.

Booklet Explains Wildlife Habitat Improvement Plan

A booklet explaining the proper method of establishing wildlife habitat practices on farm acres placed under the federal feed grain, wheat and cropland adjustment programs of the U. S. Department of Agriculture has been prepared by the Minnesota game and fish division.

The booklet is intended for the use of ASCS and conservation department personnel in advising land owners on the selection of programs which can provide improvement in wildlife habitat of their lands.

The best species of trees and shrubs for wildlife habitat and the proper land management for game bird nesting cover is described in the booklet.

The booklets have been distributed to local ASCS offices, according to Ted Shields, state game and fish director.

When Camp Courage at Maple Lake, opens this summer, the addition of new facilities and an expanded program will make possible the accommodation of 166 physically handicapped, blind and severe speech and hearing-impaired campers each session.

Applications for the various sessions are now being received by the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults (MISCCA), which owns and operates the camp.

The program for the physically handicapped and blind is operated for children and adults with six two-week sessions for different age groups. This summer's schedule will begin June 15 and end September 2. The new speech and hearing unit will offer two sessions of five weeks each, one beginning Jun 14, the other July 18. This program will be operated in conjunction with the University of Minnesota for youngsters between the ages of eight and 16.

Besides the new speech camp area, this summer's campers will be greeted by other new facilities. An indoor heated swimming pool, donated by the Harold W. Sweatt family, Wayzata, will enable Campers to swim every day, despite cool weather. Also available for the first time will be a camp library, situated in the new Veterans of Foreign Wars reception center.

Emphasis in both of Camp courage's camping units is placed on outdoor experience. Nature hikes, overnight camping and cookouts are just a few of the activities campers enjoy. Last summer, 588 campers from 80 counties in Minnesota stayed at Camp Courage. With the expanded facilities and new camp, even more campers will be served this year.

Camp Director Ronn Botko encourages handicapped children or adults who could benefit by the program at Camp Courage to send in their application. Parents are urged to pay whatever part of the tuition they can. For those who cannot do so, camperships are available from organizational or individual donations.

Camp Courage is one of the services offered to Minnesotans by MISCCA and is supported by United Funds or the Crippled Children's appeal.

Prowlers Win 2 for 13-1 Season Record

The baseball Prowlers closed out their pre-tournament schedule on Tuesday by sweeping a doubleheader from district conference foes. In an afternoon game played at Crookston, the Prowlers defeated the Pirates, 7-2; and in an evening game played at Warren, the Prowlers bested the Ponies, 6-1. The Prowlers are undefeated in district conference play, and have a record of 13 wins and one loss over all.

At a meeting to be held at Warren tonight, Wednesday, the pairings will be made for next week's District 31 tourney at Warren.

Playing at Crookston Tuesday afternoon the Prowlers spotted the Pirates a pair of runs in the second inning to give coach Lin Lehrer's club an early lead. Both runs were unearned, with a passed ball, an error and two sacrifices planting the Pirate scores.

The Prowlers knotted the game in the third on a walk to Nicky Drees and after Rocky Wilson had grounded out, a walk to Dale Erickson and singles by co-captains Tom Cummings and Wayne Smith. And three runs in the sixth broke up the 2-all tie and gave the locals command of the game.

Tom Cummings gave up but one hit, that a double by Ryan Brantl in the third inning, and righthander whiffed 11 batters.

Doubles by Wilson and Erickson and a single by Cummings, tallying one run, set the Prowlers on their way to their win over Warren on Tuesday night. In the second inning Bob Brodin poled out a double, Wilson drew a walk, Erickson singled, Cummings walked, and Sjith lofted a high pop fly that was misjudged for a hit, and coach Ralph Skay's squad had three more runs.

Lefty Pete Gilberg came on in relief of Warren's Bob Holmstrom, and while Gilbert was tagged for six hits and a pair of runs, it was Pony errors that contributed to the runs.

Billy Dicken pitched three-hit ball for the Prowlers in the five innings that he hurled. Billy Poole pitched the sixth and seventh, with a game-ending double play, Larry Peterson to Karl Poppenhagen, snuffing out a bases loaded threat by the Ponies.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

A Nod To East Side

The District 31 track and field meet will be held on Saturday, and the tournament shapes up into a two-team contest for squad honors. It will be East Grand Forks against the Crookston Pirates, with the Thief River Falls Prowlers and the Warren Ponies in the role of "spoilers".

In the dashes, Crookston's Dave Lysaker will be pressed by Pete Gilbert of Warren, Ward Johnson of the Prowlers and Darrell Fore of East Side.

In the hurdle events East Grand's Kim Krostue will be the favorite, but the Prowlers' John Olson will be pushing the Green Wave star all the way.

Jim Morturd and Don Thorson should provide East Side with some valuable points in the shot put and discus throw events. The Prowlers' Ross Hanson and Crookston's Dan Romuld could cause some touble for the East Siders in the discus.

While Dan Beck is the top-heavy favorite in the 440-yard dash, the Prowlers could come up with a strong second in Larry Bjerken. And the half-mile event is pretty much of toss-up with Crookston's Jim Bergum, East Side's Ron Hann and the Prowlers' Steve Nabben in contention.

The mile run could find Crookston scoring a one-two, with Mark Anderson and Roger Jung monopolizing the honors.

The broad jump will find the Prowlers' Dan Bacon, who won the event in the Jaycees meet at Crookston on Saturday, again facing Doug Sorenson of the Pirates and Al Gonsorowski of East Side.

The Prowlers' improving Dave Halvorson and Joe Fuller will be threats to Crookston's Gene Smith in the pole vault event. Halvorson, a junior, has been showing improvement in every meet, and with his speed and arm and shoulder strength, he could develop into a good one.

If the Prowlers' 880-yard relay team of Ward Johnson, Rod Collver, John Olson and Larry Bjerken shows the form that gave them a first in the Northwest conference meet, it will take a near-record performance to beat them.

And the mile relay event should be a shoo-in for the recordmaking quartet from East Grand Forks. With Darrell Fore, Kim Krostue, Mike Cieklinski and Dan Beck, coach Ron Thompson has a fast-running squad that will be taking aim at the district record.

It should be an interesting afternoon at Grand Forks on Saturday.

Happens Every Time

Well maybe not every time, but it doesn't miss by much. It was last Saturday that Ted Peterson, the knowledgeable high school sports authority of the Minneapolis Trib., issued his final rating of the state's high school baseball teams. Hastings was rated as number one, and coach Ralph Skay's Prowlers were rated as the state's number two team.

So what happened: That evening the Prowlers dropped their first game of the season, losing to Erskine, 8-7, in a game played on the fairgrounds diamond here. But it wasn't a case of over-confidence that caused the Prowler loss. Erskine parlayed a pair of home runs into five runs, and that proved to be the deciding factor.

And now it is on to the District 31 tourney starting at Warren on Monday. And the Prowlers can be certain that they will be facing the opposition's top-ranked pitcher in every game. And good pitching will cause the Prowlers, and all teams for that matter, trouble.

Fishing's Biggest Weekend

There's no doubt but that the approaching weekend, which will be a long one with Monday being a holiday, will draw the fishermen to the lakes and streams. The outpouring of anglers will be greater than that of the season's opener a couple of weeks ago.

Weather conditions are moderating, and the reports of walleye action have been encouraging. Len Brekke was at Morris Point last week, and made a limit catch in a short while. His party fished off Pine Island. And Editor Marv and his family were at Long Point on Sunday, braving the brisk winds, and in spite of the rough water the family caught a tubful of walleyes. And of course Marv was using the "Looey Lure".

The V. F. W. party will make its annual jaunt into Canada this weekend. Am Wysoski, Arnold Kelley, Squire Overum, George Glum and the others will be moving into the Red Lake area of Ontario. In previous years the boys have been fishing the Winnipeg river. The Vets should come back with some big fish, and bigger stories!

Bass Season To Open Saturday

Minnesota's bass season gets underway Saturday for the earliest opening in recent years, the conservation department reminded anglers today.

Both largemouth and smallmouth bass may be taken in all inland waters of the state on that date. The only area of the state which will not be open for bass is the St. Croix river north of the Stillwater bridge which opens June 4. In northeastern Minnesota, Canadian boundary waters and other boundary waters of the state, the season opened earlier.

The department's game and fish division said this is the first time in recent history that the season has opened on inland water in May.

Largemouth bass are found throughout most of Minnesota but are not common in the northeastern part of the state. This is the home of the smallmouth bass and some of the most famous smallmouth fishing waters in the country are found here.

Smallmouth bass are also found in suitable waters in north central Minnesota and are common in the St. Croix river and its tributaries. An angler is allowed to have six bass at any one time and both species are counted in the same limit.

District 31 Track Meet Slated Sat.

The District 31 track and field tournament will be held at Grand Forks on Saturday, May 28. The meet will be held in the Memorial stadium on the UND campus. Preliminary events will begin at 10 a.m., with the finals being slated to get under way at 1 p.m.

Based on their competitive records prior to the meet on Saturday, it appears that the East Grand Forks Green Wave and the Crookston Pirates will engage in a two-team contest for the district's track honors.

Given favorable weather and track conditions it is probable that several new records will be established. East Grand Forks' fine hurdler Kim Krostue will attempt to better the 120-yard high hurdle and the 180-yard low hurdle marks, both records that are held by the Prowlers' Jerry Forsberg.

And the East Grand Forks mile relay team of Darrell Fore, Krostue, Mike Cieklinski and Dan Beck will make a strong bid to better the mark set last year. The foursome set a new Northwest conference record of 3:36.6 a couple of weeks ago and this time betters the existing District 31 mark.

District 31 track and field records:

100-yard dash: Herschel Lysaker, Crox. 10.0. 1956.

220-yard dash: Paul Kungness, TRF. 2.9. 1962.

Enriched Bread and Flour Aid in Health

Enrichment of bread and flour with vitamins and iron, which formally started in this county 25 years ago next month, is regarded by many as one of the major public health achievements of recent times, the Nutrition Foundation reports.

In these 25 years, the vitamin deficiency diseases which crippled and killed many Americans before 1941 have virtually disappeared. Rising standards of living, better education and wider availability of wholesome foods have played a part in eliminating the vitamin deficiency diseases, particularly beriberi and pellagra, which plagued the nation before World War II. Enrichment of bread and flour are credited by many as a major factor in this remarkable achievement.

Thirty years ago, studies revealed that the American people were in shocking nutritional condition. It was found that more than one third of the population had poor diets. Those most serious nutritional problems were due to shortages of the B vitamins, thiamine, niacin and riboflavin, and shortages of iron.

These vitamins and iron (which in necessary to prevent one type of anemia) are present in the original wheat from which flour is made. The milling process necessary to produce the flour from which white bread is made removes most of the three B vitamins and iron along with the bran —the dark outer covering of the wheat berry.

People in this country prefer white bread to dark bread now as they did a quarter of a century ago. Then they were not getting in bread enough B-vitamins and iron. This was coupled with the fact that many people also lacked the leafy vegetables and meat that might have provided a properly balanced diet.

A number of medical and scientific organizations and agencies, private and federal, were responsible for the major effort necessary to gain acceptance of the addition of bread and flour. Flour millers and bakers were active, also.

Bread and flour enrichment could not be accomplished at all until dug companies were able to manufacture the essential vitamins in large quantities at low cost.

All the elements—the scientific knowledge, the industrial know-how—were favorable for the introduction of vitamin and iron enrichment of bread and flour shortly after the start of World War II. During the war, War Order Number One established enrichment. Now most states have laws regulating it.

The original decision to push for bread enrichment was based on practical considerations. People preferred white bread. It was an inexpensive element of most diets. The vitamins and iron were put into bread and flour because they would there do the most good for the most people.

Today in this country, enrichment has succeeded so well that medical students have difficulty finding cases of the dread B vitamin deficiency diseases that killed and crippled so many a few years ago.

Other countries are turning to enrichment. Cereal foods other than wheat flour and bread are being enriched. As scientific information warrants, enrichment programs may change in the future with new nutrients being added to widely-used foods.

Courses Offered Under Government Training Program

Two tuition-free training courses —for which some applicants may also qualify for weekly living-expense benefits—have been announced by Robert J. Brown, state employment security commissioner.

Both courses, one in farm implements parts merchandising and the other in mechanical drafting, will begin May 31 at the Alexandria area vocational technical school and are open to all residents of Minnesota. They are offered under the provisions of the Manpower Development and Training act to provide skilled workers for occupations where the need is high.

Farm and rural youth have been especially successful in farm implements parts merchandising, Brown said, because frequently they have prior understanding of the field. Graduates of the two previous farm implements classes at the Alexandria school are now successfully employed and the demand for additional workers remains high.

Applicants should be interested in public contact; high school graduation is desirable but not necessary. The course will continue for 42 weeks, providing extensive training in farm equipment assembly and disassembly, merchandising and salesmanship, accounting practice and inventory control system and basic clerical skills.

The Alexandria course is designed to develop technicans with high-level drafting skills. Persons who have high school mathematics and a special aptitude for this type of work can qualify, even though they are not high school graduates. Safety Program For Rural Roads Launched by 4-H

A rural road safety program to save lives by correcting road hazards in rural areas has been launched by the Minnesota Rural Letter Carriers' association in cooperation with the 4-H clubs in Minnesota.

Known as the 4-H RFD Rural Roads Safety program, it has set as its objective "to reduce the number of accidents on rural roads and thereby reduce the potential for fatalities, injuries and property damage," according to Earl Bergerud, assistant state 4-H leader at the University of Minnesota.

4-H clubs will work with the Minnesota Letter Carriers' association to eliminate danger spots on local county roads and to make people aware of the road hazards that cannot be eliminated. County safety officers of the Minnesota Rural Letter Carriers' association will present safety programs at 4-H meetings showing club members slides of danger spots on rural roads.

Since each Minnesota rural letter carrier maintains a "hazard sheet" for his route, the list of local road hazards will be submitted to the appropriate local 4-H club leader. Members of the local 4-H club will then attempt to correct the listed hazards wherever possible or call them to the attention of the community.

The new safety program was initiated because of the high rate of accidents on county and township roads. In 1965, 41 per cent of the fatal accidents were on rural trunk highways; 24 per cent occurred on rural county and township roads.

Most common rural road hazards which letter carriers list are blind curves, narrow single-lane roads, obscured vision at driveways for both passing and emerging drivers, dangerous hill crests and intersections obscured by crops, weeds or brush.

Raspberries and All Bush Fruits Should Be Pruned

If you haven't already pruned your raspberries and other bush fruits, don't delay any longer. That advice comes from Neil Miles, extension horticulturist at the University of Minnesota.

On raspberry bushes, remove all dead canes and those that are small or weak. Thin canes so that only three to four canes are left per foot of row if you use the hedgerow system, or six to ten per hill if you use the hill system. To give the canes support, tie them to a wire trellis or stake.

On currants, remove the stems that are three to four years old to allow development of new shoots. The oldest stems should always be removed each year, Miles says. It is best to have six to ten stems per bush. The most productive stems are those two to three years old.

On gooseberry bushes remove the stems that are five to six years old.

Maintaining an open bush on all these fruits will make picking easier and help prevent diseases.

Tax Return Questions Are Answered by IRS

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of Internal Revenue, St. Paul.

Q—I just received notice that my 1965 return will be audited before the refund is issued, and your office has asked that I bring in certain records. What should I take with me for examination?

A—Cancelled checks receipted bills and similar records will generally be sufficient to establish your claim for most deductions. The records you bring with you should prove two things: first, that the expense is deductible, and second, that it is paid during 1965.

Q—I have been paying the social security tax in cash tip income I receive as a waitress. Is my employer paying his share of this tax?

A—No. Only empoyee contributions for social security are required on tip income. Your employer is not the source of your tip income, and for that reason, he does not pay any tax on the tips you report to him.

Q—I did not report a social security number on my tax return. I just received notification of the number assigned to me. Should I report this number to your office now?

A—When your return is processed, the lack of a social security account number will be noticed, and you will be contaceed to report it. Send this information at that time.

Q—We hope to sell our residence this spring. What records should I keep for tax purposes?

A—You should keep records relating to the price you receive for the house as well as any expenses you incurred in making the sale. Records of the original cost of the property and the cost of improvements you made should be retained. Your gain or loss will be determined by the difference between the cost plus capital improvements and the net selling price.

Q—Who is required to pay the self-employment tax?

A—Those persons engaged in a trade, business or profession, who work for themselves rather than an employer, are liable for this tax. Public officials, clergymen, Christian Science practitioners and members of certain religious sects opposed to accepting private or public insurance benefits do not have to pay this tax. Clergymen and Christian Science practitioners may elect to be covered for social security benefits and pay the tax.

Q—My return was audited, some of the expenses claimed were disallowed, and I have a report showing I owe additional tax. Can I do anything about this determination? I believe the deductions claimed should be allowed.

A—You may request a conference in our district office to discuss the disallowed deductions. You will receive an independent review of the items questioned at this conference. Legal counsel is not necessary at this conference, but you can bring a lawyer or accountant if you wish. Procedures for requesting a conference are explained in the notice you received with the report or proposed adjustment on your return.

Q—I'm still worrying about my tax refund. When will I receive it?

A—Normally, you should receive your refund within 8 weeks after your return was filed. If you refund will be delayed because of examination of the return, or additional information is required to complete the processing, you will hear from our department within this period. Direct an inquiry if you do not have your refund or notice of delay by June 30.

Our Own Poll

While we question the value or accuracy of public opinon polls—particularly those of a selected number of people on a national basis—it is interesting to sample opinion on occasion. Last year our poll on daylight saving time brought in a large number of replies.

In recent weeks, the administration in Washington, D.C., has been getting some severe criticism from farm organizations and legislators from agricultural areas for its policies in regard to crops, livestock and their by-products. We are interested in whether or not the administration's policies have altered the thinking of people in our rural area of Minnesota.

While there are a number of questions which could be asked in an opinion survey, we would like our readers to reply to only two questions. They may clip the questions below or rewrite them on a postal card and send them to Times Opinion Poll, Thief River Falls Times, P.O. Box 100, Thief River Falls, Minn. 56701. Returns should not be signed but should indicate the name of the community from which the return is sent.

Perhaps from these returns we can draw some type of conclusion about this area's opinion of the administration's recent actions. The questions are as follows and should be returned to the Times by Saturday, June 4:

If a Presidential election was held today, would you vote for President Lyndon B. Johnson? ——Yes ——No.

Did you vote for President Johnson in the 1964 election ——Yes ?——No.

Time to Pay Tribute

As happens too frequently in observance of holidays, the meaning of the day is lost in the pursuit of personal pleasures that a day away from work can provide. This must be applied to Memorial Day which has been kept alive in our area only by the persons most concerned with its observance—the veterans' organizations and their auxiliaries.

Memorial Day ceremonies in Thief River Falls are impressive affairs—not because of any particular pomp and circumstance, but because of a sincere simplicity and the natural outdoor setting. The slope to the river at the rear of the National Guard armory provides a setting which makes any ceremony impressive.

Of course, we would encourage all people who possibly can to attend the Memorial Day services this year, either in Thief River Falls or any of the several neighboring communities planning observances. The supreme sacrifice given by our nation's war dead is certainly worthy of a few minutes of our time spent in reflection, reverence and gratitude.

As the nation is now deeply involved in a conflict in far-off Viet Nam where more American military men are being asked to give their lives, the thought of war, and valor, and duty, and death and patriotism becomes ever more real. We must take time to honor the brave who died to keep America the land of the free.

On Reapportionment

Minnesota is now officially reapportioned, whether we like it or not and whether the action taken is good for the state or not. It will now be necessary for us to unlearn whatever we knew of legislative House districts and start the learning process all over again—with the Senate thrown in to boot.

We are satisfied that the legislature did what it was ordered to do, but we are not satisfied that the Supreme Court has the authority to issue such an order. We rather agree with the Tucson (Arizona) American which stated editorially last fall the following:

"The first 10 amendments to the United States Constitution, known as the Bill of Rights were regarded as essential by the legislators in most of the original states before they would ratify the U. S. constitution.

"The 10th article of the Bill of Rights states: The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor pohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people!

"The Supreme Court decisions to force the states to reapportion both bodies of their legislatures to reflect a "one man — one vote" basis completely ignores the 10th amendment. Perhaps it is more proper to say that the Supreme Court decision is a completely improper and illegal action because it is contrary tot he clear statement in the Constitution that reserves authority over state legislative activities to the states themselves.

"Many people deplore these dictitorial actions of the Supreme Court but say that it is necessary to follow their decisions as the "law of the land". We would like to remind these fuzzy thinking victims of a regimented society that the Constitution of the United States is the "law of the land". The constitutional power given to the Supreme Court is to interpret, definitely not to legislate.

"What a ridiculous episode this reapportionment must be to an objective onlooker. In nightmarish fashion the states are obediently following the Supreme Court dictates and are meekly lining up to rearrange their state governments to please the federal, which was created by the states in the first place.

"It is past time that the states stop this rapid usurpation of their powers by the federal government while they still have some strength left.

"Soon the state will be nothing more than tax collectors and welfare dispensing subdivisions for the central government. Need we remind you that that will constitute the complete destruction of our historic system of constitutional government.

"The call for action is now and why not start in Arizona. The governor and the Legislature should reject the Supreme Court orders on the grounds of unconsitutionality and call on the other states to do the same. If they follow we will win easily. If they don't the fight will be longer and harder but if justice remains in this nation we will win.

"In the final analysis, freedom is only for those who are willing to fight for it. It is not deserved otherwise. Let's prove that Arizonians deserve it: Let us keep our Legislature like OUR CONSITUTION says it should be."

Valuable Advice

The following prayer by an unknown author contains some valuable advice for all of use:

Lord, Thou knowest that I am growing older.

Keep me from becoming talkative and possessed with the idea that I must express myself on every subject.

Release me from the craving to straighten out everyone's affairs.

Keep my mind free from the recital of endless detail. Give me wings to get to the point.

Seal my lips when I am inclined to tell my aches and pains. They are increasing with the years and love to speak of them grows sweeter as time goes by.

Teach me the glorious lesson that occasionally I may be wrong. Make me be thoughtful but not nosy—helpful but not bossy.

With my vast store of wisdom and experience it does seem a pity not to use it all. But thou knowest, Lord, that I want a few friends at the end.

Commission Government?

The following editorial from a Minnesota newspaper offers some thoughts on Gov. Rolvaag's proposal for a bipartisan commission on redistricting:

Gov. Karl Rolvaag now says he will present the state legislature with a plan for redistricting the state after future federal censuses. He will ask that a bipartisan commission be established for this purpose—and the commisson will apparently have near legislative authority.

The governor will undoubtedly have support from both political sides on this one, but we hope he doesn't succeed. He was quoted as saying that the events of the past three weeks have demonstrated "again the danger in relying completely on that body (the legislature) to do this vital job."

Maybe we should dispense with the legislature and let a "bipartisan commission" run the whole show. Maybe we should also dispense with the governor.

Members of the legislature are elected by the people of the state to cope with situations such as this. They are a capable, honorable group of citzens—well paid for their efforts. The people of the state can, and should, demand in the days preceding elections that the candidates for this high office make their attitudes known. On that basis lawmakers should be elected, and once elected on that same basis should they function.

We don't need any commission to redistrict our state. All we need is reasonable people in positions of leadership—in both the executive and legislative branches of government.

But above all, we don't need a "commoccracy." That would be a government of, by and for commissions of all descriptions. Our current bureaucracy is enough. As an example, were the governor's recommendations followed through to the ultimate we could soon have a "bipatisan commission" to handle many of the other responsibilites of the legislature. We could have one for conservation and another for highways. We could have one for agriculture and another for taxation. We could even have one to replace Gov. Rolvaag—which is a thought deserving of additional consideration.

Good Rules to Follow

The following "commandments", if followed by the nation's fathers, would serve to prevent much of the parental and juvenile delinquency in the nation today. They are food for thought with Father's Day fast approaching.

A FATHER'S TEN COMMANDMENTS BY MY EXAMPLE . . .

1. I shall teach my child respect for his fellow man.
2 I shall teach him good sportsmanship in work and play.
3 I shall instill in him an appreciation of religion and the family, the backbone of society.
4. I shall strive for companionship and mutual understanding.
5. I shall impart to him a desire to love and honor his country and obey its laws.
6 I shall encourage him to apply himself to difficult tasks.
7 I shall teach him the importance of participation in community affairs and local government.
8 I shall teach him selfreliance and help him develop an independent spirit.
9 I shall help him develop a sense of responsibility in planning for the future.
10 I shall, above all, parpare him for the duties and responsibilities of citizenship in a free society.

Combined Herbicides Help Weed Control

Combinations of herbicides may prove a good way to offset disadvantages that sometimes occur when certain herbicides are used alone. Weed control scientists are now carefully evaluating various herbicide combinations.

Compared with individual chemicals used alone, the combinations may control more kinds of weeds, with better control and more consistent performance. They may also produce less residues, be less costly and have better crop tolerance.

But before using any herbicide combinations, make sure they have passed field tests and are registered for crop use by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, according to Gerald Miller and Richard Behrens, University of Minnesota agronomists.

They say farmers using herbicide combinations should be sure to mix the chemicals uniformaly and in right proportions.

Miller and Behrens summarize some combinations of herbicides now approved for use on corn and soybeans.

CDAA and TCBC: Using CDAA will give only grass control, but a combination of CDAA with TCBC also controls many broadleaf weeds This mixture is a widely used herbicide combination to reduce weeds in corn.

Atrazine and linuron: This combination used as a preemergence application in corn gives effective weed control, almost as good as atrazine alone. The atrazine and linuron combination reduces the amounts of each chemical, compared to when each is used alone.

This decreases the chance of residues from atrazine and the danger of corn injury from linuron. The combination is not as effective on quackgrass as atrazine alone. Also, don't apply the mixture as an early postemergence treatment.

EPTC and 2,4-D: Applying EPTC can control annual grassy weeds and some broadleaf weeds in corn. The addition of 2,4-D improves control of broadleaf weeds.

Dalapon and 2,4-D: Using Dalapon gives good grass control and 2,4-D controls broadleaf weeds in corn. Use the combination for postemergence application when corn is 8-20 inches tall and direct herbicide spray at plant base. But don't use the combination on corn grown for seed.

NPA and CIPC: This is the only combination presently approved for use in soybeans. Combining CIPC and NPA gives better control of smartweeds. The mixture is used as a preemergence treatment.

Miller and Behrens say research programs are continuing to test the performance of these and many other herbicide combinations to find those that will contribute most to improved weed control.

Ask your county agent for information on herbicide performance in local areas. Also, read Extension Folder 212, "Cultural and Chemical Weed Control in Field Crops 1966," for results of recent herbicide performance trials. Your county agent will have copies of the publication, or write to the Bulletin Room, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minn. 55101.

More Margarine, Less Butter Used On U.S. Tables

Americans today are using less butter, more margarine and more salad oils than they did two decades ago. Consumption of all table spreads declined from 19.4 pounds in 1940 to 16.3 pounds in 1965, according to Jerome Hammond, research associate in agricultural economics at the University of Minnesota.

However, use of margarine has moved upward steadily, from 2.9 pounds in 1940 to 9.5 pounds in 1965. At the same time butter has lost ground—from 17 pounds eaten per capita in 1940 to 6.5 pounds in 1965. Now margarine is leading butter consumption by about three pounds per person annually.

Consumption trends for edible fats and oils are important to Minnesota's farm economy, Hammond points out. In recent years butterfat and soybeans together have contributed about 24 per cent of Minnesota's farm income. In 1964 Minnesota produced 26 per cent of the nation's butter. Soybeans, the most important source of margarine, shortening and cooking and salad oils, are produced abundantly in Minnesota.

Major cause for the shift from butter to margarine, Hammond explains, has been the price advantage of margarine. Nationally, the retail price for butter is about two and a half times the retail price for margarine. In addition, some consumers are concerned about the possible relationship between blood cholesterol-animal fat intake and heart disease.

As in the case of table spreads, the total consumption of lard and shortening has also dropped—from 23 pounds per person in the early 1940's to about 20 pounds in 1965. And a downward trend in the use of lard has occurred, just as it has in butter. On the other hand, shortening consumption has increased.

Hammond explains, however, that about 25 per cent of domestic lard consumption is now indirect use as an ingredient in shortening. The shift from lard to shortening seems to be more a matter of consumer preference than price. Fewer storage problems, more consistent quality and ease of use are among the advantages consumers see in shortening over lard.

But decreases in the total per capita consumption of table spreads and shortening have been offset by increases in the use of salad and cooking oils—all primarily vegetable oils.

Agriculture Task Force Condemns Farm Policies

Members of the House Republican Task Force on Agriculture have introduced in the House of Representatives a resolution calling on the administration to immediately stop its discriminatory activities against American farmers and ranchers, and instead, employ every facility within its power to advance the best economic interests of American agriculture.

"The administration has been using the farmer as a whipping boy for its own inflationary policies," said Odin Langen, chairman of the task force. "While the Secretary of Agriculture has been depressing grain and livstock prices by dumping government-owned commodities on the market, and expressing pleasure as prices drop, the administration's domestic fiscal politices have been pushing farm production costs to record heights," Langen said.

"While on one hand," continued Langen, "The administration sets a 3.2 per cent guideline for wage and price increases in the rest of the economy, on the other it increases cheese imports, restricts hide exports and sharply curtails purchases of pork and dairy products by the military, thus reducing the income of dairy, hog and cattle producers.

"This war on agriculture", Langen said, "is dangerous, inequitable and completely unjustified. The resolution which we introduced can and should be supported by every member of Congress. Farm prices are now at 80 per cent of parity, and the farmer is earning only about 60 per cent as much as his city cousin. The administration's wide-spread attack on American agriculture, if not stopped at once, will seriously endanger this country's future food supply.

State Landscape Arboretum Open To Public Visits

University of Minnesota landscape arboretum, now open to the public, is beginning to put on its annual display of spring bloom, according to Leon C. Snyder, head of the university's department of horticultural science and arboretum director.

Although variations in weather make it impossible to predict the exact date specific plants will blossom the following flower calendar will give visitors an approximate timing of bloom at the arboretum:

May 15-21—Flowering crabapples, lilacs, azzleas, Juneberries, showy trillium and Virginia bluebells;

May 22-28—Lilacs, spireas, ladyslippers, hawthorn, azaleas and flowering crabapples;

June 5-11—White fringe tree, catalpas and rhododendrons;

June 12-18—Peonies, roses, mockoranges and potentillas;

June 19-25—Mockoranges, Japanese tree lilac, daylilies and lilies;

June 26-July 2—Daylilies and clematis.

Snyder encourages visitors to check at the arboretum office to find out what is of special interest. The trail guide and map available will help in the location of various collections. The office will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

The 322-acre arboretum is located two miles east of Victoria or four miles west of Chanhassen on state highway 5. Planted in a natural setting, the arboretum provides an opportunity to study ornamentals in natural landscape groupings.

Young People May Be Hired During Summer Months

"Employers can hire teen-agers in many kinds of jobs during the summer months without violating the Fair Labor Standards act — the federal law containing child-labor provisions," according to Earl F. Halverson, regional director of the U. S. Labor department's wage and hour and public contracts divisions.

He said that boys and girls age 16 and 17 can work in any job except those which have been declared hazardous by the Secretary of Labor and require an 18-year age minimum.

"Youngsters 14 and 15 years of age may be employed in such jobs as office, clerical or sales work. In fact, they can work in most jobs that do not involve manufacturing, mining, processing or similar occupations," Halverson pointed out.

When schools are in session, tighter restrictions apply to the hours when youngsters may work. However, during summer vacation, the 14 or 15-year-old may work as many as eight hours a day or 40 hours a week, but all work must be performed between the hours of 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.

He explained that the 18-year age minimum applies to such hazardous occupations as elevator operator, truck driver or helper, logger, miner or sawmill worker. Also considered hazardous are certain jobs in roofing and excavating.

To be sure that the youngster he hires is old enough for a particular job, employers should ask for and obtain age certificates or work permits.

They serve as proof of age for purposes of the act and can usually be obtained from local school authorities.

Halverson also reminded employers that where state and federal child-labor laws differ, the higher standards prevail.

Plummer School Gets Book Funds

Examination for Game Warden Jobs Offered by State

Minnesota residents interested in a career in the out-of-doors and who don't mind long and irregular hours might consider applying for a job as game warden with the Minnesota Conservation department.

Duties of a game warden involve enforcement of state and federal laws dealing with fish and wildlife, gathering and presenting evidence, representing the department at local civic and sportsmen's club meetings, collecting information on game and fish populations and investigating complaints of damage being done by wildlife to public or private property.

Chief Game Warden F. W. Johnson emphasized that only men who are willing to work long and irregular hours should apply for a position as game warden.

During the fall when deer shining activities reach their peak and again in the spring during the fish spawning runs wardens are apt to spend most of their nights in the field tracking down violators. A game warden is on call any time, day or night, Johnson said.

Men between the ages of 21 and 35, who are at least five feet 10 inches tall and weigh at least 150 pounds will meet the physical requirements of a game warden providing they are in good health. However, applicants who will have reached the age of 20 prior to June 3 may take the exam.

Applicants must also have good driving records and not have been convicted of violations of the game and fish laws within the last two-year period.

Desirable qualifications include high school graduation with additional training in wildlife management and experience in conservation or law enforcement work.

Applications should be mailed to the Minnesota Civil Service Department, 180 State Office Building, St. Paul. Applications will be accepted until June 3.

Simulator Used For Training in Fire Fighting

A forest fire "simulator" — a new device developed to train foresters in fire fighting techniques—is now being used to train 164 Minnesota forestry employees, the Minnesota Conservation department announced today.

The simulator is operated by five men from a control booth. By using four movie projectors and a large screen they can simulate several different types of fire problems and forest fire behavior.

Along with the raging flames and billowing smoke, sound effects duplicate the sounds of the fire and noise of bulldozers and other equipment.

During the exercise the trainees are evaluated on their ability to analyze the fire situation and develop a plan of attack, their reaction to changing conditions, safety considerations and law enforcement. At the de-briefing session, suggestions are made on improvment of detected weak points.

An illustration of how the simulator works was explained by forestry officials recently following the first training session.

A trainee had the problem of halting the advance of a fire. He ordered a tractor to plow a fire break, but the control booth crew throught he had allowed his tractor too close to the flames in view of prevailing wind conditions.

Operators of the simulator caused the fire to overtake and destroy the tractor before the shocked gaze of the trainee. Mercilfully however they allowed the driver to escape with his life.

The simulator was first developed by the U. S. Forest service. The one being used in Minnesota is owned jointly by nine north central states and the forest service. It is being operated at the Grand Rapids forestry supply depot under the supervision of a selected staff of forestry officials.

Income Tax Questions Are Answered by IRS

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of Internal Revenue, St. Paul.

Q I notice that my employer is deducting more for income tax withholding from my wages. Is this correct?

A The new income tax withholding system was effective with payrolls beginning May 1. The purpose is to make the withholding tax on wages approximate closer the individual's actual tax. In most instances, the amount of tax withheld will be larger than before May 1, and if your employer is using the new revenue service table of deductions, this increase should be correct.

Q If my son gets a summer job and earns more than $600, will I lose his exemption on my tax return this year?

A As long as your son is a full-time student or is under 19 years of age, and your furnish more than one-half of his support, you may continue to claim his exemption on your return. He may be required to file his own tax return if he earns more than $600 during his summer employment.

Q Since filing my tax return, I have moved. Could this change of address be the reason my refund check has not been received?

A Your refund check was probably addressed to your old address. Write to our office, giving your old address and your new location, and report your social security number. If your refund check is being held as undeliverable, arrangements will be made to forward it to you at your new address.

Q I understand that I am supposed to withhold more income tax from wages paid to my employees. How can I get information about the correct tax withholding

A If you did not receive a new Employer's Tax Guide, Publication No. 15, you should write to our office, and you will be provided with the new tax withholding rates in effect as of May 1 under the new tax withholding system.

Q My wife and I plan to rent our house instead of selling it. What kind of records should we keep on rental income and expenses

A The tax laws do not specify what records you should keep but only that they be sufficient to prepare a complete and accurate income tax return. Cancelled checks, invoices or other records to clearly identify dates, amounts, nature and purpose of expense payments and the name of payee should be maintained, as well as a record of rents received.

If you are converting the house from your personal home to rental property you must know both the cost basis and the fair market value at the time of the conversion to establish a basis for depreciation.

Heat, light, repairs and normal maintenance which you pay for may be charged as expenses against rental income. Additions to the house, such as a porch or patio, that increase the value of the property or prolong its life should be added to the cost basis and depreciated over the remaining useful life of the building.

Q We have agreed to provide a home for a 10-year-old orphan this summer. Can we claim a deduction for this child?

A If you have the child with you only during the summer then no deduction may be claimed. To qualify as a dependent, the child must be a member of your household, live with you the entire year and obtain more than half his support from you.

Applications for GI Bill Benefits Now Available

Application blanks for educational benefits under the new GI Bill are now available at the VA center, Fargo, N.D., and at all major colleges, universities, high schools and educational centers.

John R. Parrish, center director, said that information pamphlets and personal assistance in filling out the applications can also be obtained at the VA center, Fargo, N. D., and at most educational institutions.

Earliest date for courses under VA payment has been set by law as June 1, with payment to be made the month following each month's study. There will be ample time for those who expect to enter the summer session to complete the necessary paperwork before the June 1 date, Parrish said.

A normal summer school enrollment is expected, according to parrish, with the big rush for enrollment coming in September for the fall semester.

This post-Korean educational program will be open to all veterans with more than 181 days active duty service, any part of which occurred on or after February 1, 1955. The veteran must have a discharge that is other than dishonorable of if less than 181 days, he must have been discharged or released for a service-connected disability.

These veterans will be eligible for one month of education for each month or fraction on a month that they were on active duty, Parrish said. Courses may be taken at approved colleges and universities, vocational schools, correspondence schools and at high school level. Approval of the institution will be made by state approving agencies. Foreign course approvals will be by VA. The VA will pay $100 a month to those veterans with no dependents who take full-time courses. Veterans with one dependent will receive $125 a month while those with more than one dependent will receive $150 a month. Proportionate rates will be paid, those taking part - time courses. Earned income of the veteran will not affect his monthly VA payment. Maximum education will be 36 months.

Parrish said there is no deadline as to when a veteran must enter upon his education. However, VA payment will be made only to the eighth annual anniversary of his discharge from active duty with the exception that all veterans will be able to participate in the program until May 31, 1974, regardless of their discharge date, he said.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A YOUNG MAN'S FANCY...
...and a girl's too

Spring is taking its romantic toll once again!

But there's more to be shared in life than a cup of cola.

So who knows whether this new-born affection will last — or, indeed, whether it should?

Where character and conviction are formed, there the foundations of true love are fashioned.

Perhaps then the Church makes a more significant contribution to romance than the warm breeze of May.

For with the help of the home and the support of the community, the Church is training the brides and grooms of some later June to realize in a deep affection their responsibilities to themselves, to one another, and to God.

Social Security In County Totals $110,704 a Month

Social security checks totaling $110,704 a month were going to 1,832 residents in Pennington county at the start of 1966, Clifford Kittelson, district manager for social security in Grand Forks, revealed today.

This is an increase of $14,004 monthly and 96 people compared with the start of 1965. The total includes 1,088 retired workers and 40 disabled workers. The rest are their dependents and the survivors of deceased workers.

Social security checks totaling $141,000 a month were going to 2,246 residents in Marshall county at the start of 1966. This is an increase of $17,511 monthly and 98 people compared with the start of 1965. The total includes 1,275 retired workers and 49 disabled workers.

A large part of the increase in payments resulted from changes made by the social security amendments of 1965. These changes, which were in addition to the new program of health insurance for the aged, included a 7 per cent increase in monthly benefits retroactive to January of 1965; Benefits for widows as early as 60; benefits for full-time students between 18 and 22; benefits for some divorced women; benefits for some people over 72 who hadn't worked long enough to get social security before; and the payment of disability insurance benefits to workers who are unable to work because of a disability that lasts 12 months or more.

Many people, on applying for medicare, also found that they had enough credits to receive monthly benefits.

"These figures," Kittelson said, "show how wide the protection of social security has become. Almost every man, woman and child has in social security the assurance that loss of income because of retirement, disability or death will not result in destitution. And now, with medicare, everyone has the assurance that the costs of illnesses in his later years will not wipe out his savings."

Warren Votes Wet In Special Election Tuesday

The city of Warren, dry for many years due to its location in Marshall county, was granted the right to vote wet or dry independently by a state supreme court decision of 1964 overruling the half-century-old county option law. The election was conducted Tuesday, and Warren voters gave approval to the sale of intoxicating liquor within the city by a majority of 61½ per cent.

The special election brought out 647 voters, including nine absentee voters whose ballots are included in the total. The votes favoring the sale totaled 398 while 249 votes were cast in opposition. Both city wards favored the measure with the first ward voting 200 "Yes" and 163 "No" and the second ward 198 "Yes" and 86 No".

Tuesday's vote was similar in result to the special election held March 15 when voters approved an amendment to the city charter which permitted holding the election to decide the liquor issue. The charter amendment carried by a 63 per cent majority.

The city council has taken no official action on what method shall be employed for the legal sale of liquor but will discuss the various proposals at an early meeting, members have indicated. The charter amendment gives the council sole responsibility of deciding what type of sale shall be instituted in the city.

Directors Make Plans for 17th Northwest Dairy Day

Final preliminary plans for the 17th annual Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls were made Thursday at a meeting of the board of directors held at the Rex cafe in Thief River Falls. The Northwest Dairy Improvement association will sponsor the dairy show and princess contest Tuesday, June 14.

Stuart McLeod, president of the organization since it was started 17 years ago, presided at the meeting. Among program changes noted this year was the extenion of the pricess contest to two days—June 13 and 14—to provide judges with more time and make the event a more relaxed and festive one for the candidates.

Thirty-three girls from 11 northwestern Minnesota counties are expected to be entered in the contest which will seek a successor to the 1965 Northwest Dairy Princess, Janice Swanson of Mentor. Judging will be done on Monday, June 13, and the contestants will be guests as special programs conducted by the Mrs. Jaycees on Tuesday, June 14.

Entries in the dairy show are coming in on schedule and another fine dairy show is anticipated, according to Richard Hamilton, secretary of the association. New chutes for unloading and loading cattle are being built for the 1966 show, and chain is to be purchased for holding cattle tied in the wash-up area as well as the show area.

Wood shavings are on order and will be delivered on the morning of Dairy Day, according to Evonne Olson, chairman of that phase of activity for the show. Again this year the show will be held at the city parking lot located west of Knight avenue between Second and Third streets.

Purchase of a purebred Holstein calf to be presented to the 1965 grade championship was announced by Andy Erickson of Badger. The heifer calf was purchased from the Paul Visser herd at Ada and is out of a dam with production records of more than 600 pounds of butterfat. Presentation of the calf will be made at Dairy Day this year.

Wallace Jordet, who is handling arrangements for the parade, noted that satisfactory progress was being made but that several more high school bands could be utilized. It was also decided by the directors to have a selection committee determine which animals will participate in the "parade of champions" so that only animals which have been adequately trained to lead will take part.

McLeod stated that the services of Harley Shurson, East Polk county agricultural agent, had been secured as master of ceremonies for the day. He added that Cliff Markuson manager of the American Dairy association of Minnesota, would attend the event as well as Mary Ann Titrud, Princess Kay of the Milky Way.

Northwest Dairy Day is the dairy observance for Minnesota's Region One, with the Northwest Dairy Princess to represent the region at the Princess Kay contest at the Minnesota state fair late this summer.

Closed Circuit TV Will Be Used for LHS Graduation

To permit an overflow crowd to witness commencement exercises at Lincoln senior high school Wednesday evening, closed circuit television will be installed for the event, according to Richard Edlund, senior high scool principal. Arrangements for the closed circuit TV were made through Ray Gordon of Dakota TV and Rental of Grand Forks, N. D.

According to Edlund, five or six 21-inch monitor sets will be installed at various spots in the school auditorium. Audio arrangements have also been made so that the speaking portion of the program and musical numbers can also be heard in the auditorium.

Edlund said the television arrangements were made due to the large request for tickets for gymnasium seating. The gymnasium will seat approximately 2,400 people including the graduating class of 211 students—and the requests for tickets far exceed that number. Admission to the gymnasium will be by ticket only while no tickets will be needed to watch the commencement exercises on closed circuit television in the auditorium. Seats in the auditorium will be on a first-come, first-served basis.

Dr. George W. Starcher, president of the University of North Dakota, will deliver the commencement address. Richard Stenberg has been selected by the top 10 scholastic students in the class to give the welcome from the class. Supt. M. R. Hankerson will introduce the speaker, Edlund will present the class and Rufus Olson, chairman of the board of education, will award the diplomas.

Under the direction of James Solsten, the Lincoln high school orchestra will play the processional and recessional as well as a concert number and the high school chorus, directed by Bryant Ulseth, will sing two selections.

FU Committee Asks Change in Dairy Measures

Executive committee of the Minnesota Farmers Union, meeting recently in St. Paul, warned that aggressive measures will have to be taken by the federal government to halt the continuing exodus of farmers out of dairying and the continuing drop in milk production Carl R. Anderson of Red Lake county is a member of the executive comittee.

"While there are several factors involved in the decisions of farmers to leave dairying, the principal one is the low return being received for milk in relation to what it costs to operate," stated Edwin Christianson, state Farmers Union president. Milk production each month in 1966 has been lower than the same month in 1965.

SCS Holds Black River Watershed Hearing May 19

Seventeen Minnesota watersheds most of which have a common problem of flooded land, are waiting to get on the priority list, according to Bob Kloubec of the Soil Conservation service. Among these is the Little Black River watershed located in southwest Pennington and northwest Red Lake counties.

The state soil conservation commission conducted an informal hearing in Crookston May 19, which was attended by the watershed steering committee from Red Lake and Pennington counties. Those in attendance were told that probably only four watersheds would be named to the priority list this year.

Steering comittee members attending the meeting from Pennington county were Warren Mosbeck and Arlo Scholin. Carl Lindblom, Pennington county soil conservation district supervisor, also attended, as did Kloubec.

Attending from Red Lake county was the steering committee composed of Irving Beyer and John Baird, Adrian Brule, county commissioner, and Elmo Skare, county agent, also attended.

Watersheds that gain approval will receive a feasibility survey made by the Soil Conservation service. This agency will give alternatives to local people on how to solve their flooding problems. Under the Small Watershed Act Congress provides cost-sharing assistance on watershed projects.

Research Project Growth Creates U of M Problems

Spiraling of sponsored research projects at the University of Minnesota has increased recruiting problems for the Civil Service staff, according to Frank Pieper, director of the University's department of Civil Service personnel.

The university has had increasing difficulty keeping clerical, technical and custodial jobs filled in recent months. The immediate cause is the Twin Cities' low unemployment rate. But the university's research boom has brought about a steady, long-term increase in the demand for new employees, Pieper said.

The last 18 years has seen a tenfold increase in grants for university research projects, from $2.5 million to $25 million, while the civil service staff has almost doubled. In 1948, about 3,300 persons were employed in nonteaching jobs; today there are 6,500. In the same period, however, collegiate enrollment increased one third, from 28,500 students in 1948 to 42,000 this year. The extension division and summer sessions have had similar increases.

Pieper estimates that about 25 per cent of the added employees were required by the larger teaching load and other enrollment-related services. The work of almost half of the 6,500 employees is connected with sponsored research projects.

"People don't realize," the personnel director said, "that research projects require more than just scientists and technicians. The day-to-day work requires the services of clerks, typists, secretaries, accountants, laboratory attendants and custodial workers."

Salaries of the scientific and supporting staff are paid primarily from federal government, foundation and corporation grants, Pieper pointed out.

Pieper noted another misunderstanding about university employment: "Some people may not know," he said, "that the university Civil Service personnel program is separate from the state Civil Service system." While many job classifications, salary ranges and fringe benefits are comparable, the university hiring process more closely resembles that of an industrial firm.

Applicants do not take state Civil Service examinations in applying for university jobs. They can apply directly to the university employment office, Room 4, Morrill hall, Minneapolis campus. Their qualifications are determined by interviews, school grades, reference checks and tests if necessary.

"The term 'civil service,' as used by the University of Minnesota, means equal opportunity and fair employment practices; it does not imply a direct connection with state Civil Service," Pieper said.

Sportsmen Club, Police Dept. Plan Shooting Range

Plans are under way for construction of a rifle and pistol range at the tract of land owned by the Pennington County Sportsmens club. At the club's regular meeting May 18, Police Patrolman Irving Swanson stated that city funds are available for construction of a revolver practice facility for the police department, which now does its practicing at the city gravel pit.

The proposed pistol range would be 25 yards long with a sheltered firing point and a high earthen bank for a backstop. The police department would have access to the recreation area, and the club members would be given range privileges. Methods of designing the range so that the same backstop could be used for a rifle range were discussed. A motion by Jim Wills that the club cooperate with the police department on the project, and that Newell Ueland prepare plans for the range based on NRA recommendations, was carried.

In other business, it was decided to send two delegates to the Minnesota Conservation Federation meeting scheduled for September 23, 24 and 25 in Hill City. Gay Warnecke and Vernon Scholin were selected as delegates, with Jim Wills and Newell Ueland named alternates.

Following the meeting, Claude Alexander, manager of the Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge, showed slides of a variety of birds found on the refuge.

Governor Gives Advantages of Wetland Program

"The 'subsidiarity' program to help Minnesota save our wetlands has proved a great help in our state's conservation timetable," states Gov. Karl F. Rolvang. "Game officials and authorities say that without this help many prime marshes in Minnesota would have been drained and destroyed before we were able to bring them under state ownership.

"Coordination and cooperation between the state section of game and the federal bureau of sport fisheries and wildlife has been excellent," the governor continued.

"Preservation of marshes and wetlands is necessary not only to provide habitat for a valued wildlife resource but also to maintain the supply ad the quality of the most essential of all resources—water. Even small wetlands play a role in stabilizing underground water levels and reducing fluctation of stream flow.

"Where these natural retention basins are missing, rainfall is sped from the land into ditches and smaller streams—and from these streams into the main streams of major rivers," Gov. Rolvant noted.

"These channels are not always adequate to accomodate this sudden and unnatural flood of water. Good water conservation practices will not prevent floods but assuredly will alleviate them.

"Of course, wetlands are important to pheasants and other upland game, as well. On many Minnesota farms, winter cover for the birds is gone that is why we need our public wetlands which are used for nesting, too, by mallards and puddle ducks, for example. Fortunately, many sportsmen's groups also help provide funds that state government lacks to get on with the job promptly," he concluded.

Wild Rice Seed Project Approved

Approval of a $185,000 project for the development of wild rice seed suitable for commercial use was announced today by Eugene P. Foley, assistant secretary of commerce for economic development. The two-year project will be conducted by Manomin Development company, St. Paul.

Wild rice grows in northern Minnesota, northern Wisconsin and northern Michigan. Much of the wild rice harvesting in Minnesota and Wisconsin is done by Indians, who handle about 25 per cent of the wild rice sold in the United States.

Wild rice grows in marshland areas and because of the harvesting problem represents a primitive form of agriculture. There are a few farmers who plant the rice and harvest mechanically, but to date these efforts have been impaired because of the shattering of the grain.

The project will seek to develop a non-shattering seed in quantities sufficient for commercial sale to growers. The seed in its wild state shatters which makes it impossible to harvest more than a small percentage of the rice. The rest drops into the water and is lost.

Manomin Development company thinks an improved non-shattering seed will result in commercial planting and once-over mechanical harvesting of wild rice. The project was recommended by the Bureau of Indian Affairs and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Should the project prove profitable, Manomin Development company will repay the cost of the program out of profits from the commercial seed operation.

The Library Corner

By Flora Allison

One of the outstanding books, according to the ratings earlier this year, is the novel, "Tony" by Patrick Dennis. The rise and fall of a ruthless social climber, this story exposes a man's merciless ambitions and his rough-shod ride over everyone who looms as a threat to his position at the top of the heap.

A sophisticate, and a scroundrel with a VIP designation, this Mr. Big's story reeks of such nefarious scandals as blackmail, narcotics peddling, sexual promiscuity and more, all parading under the guise of respectability, until the rope which he gives himself tightens into a noose. The average reader will find in his heart little pity for this wretch, even when there is no longer any place for him to hide, and will doubtless feel that since Tony has sown the wind, he should rightfully "reap the whirlwind".

It's summertime, and the days are a little more leisurely for many people, and definitely so for the children. When time grows heavy on their hands, what better way to lose themselves than in the pages of a good book? We have at the library the answer to summer doldrums: books by the thousands. And the kiddies haven't been slighted. . .We find that the older children prefer to find and select their own reading matter, but the younger readers often ask us for guidance in the matter of finding interesting books.

A letter containing an invitation to them to make wider use of the library this summer than ever before has been sent home with the pupils of the lower grades. We hope that the parents will take a lively interest in the summer reading program of their children, and that the list which we have compiled will enrich the summer days for many, many of our younger patrons.

With the conclusion of the formal educational program for the majority of the city's students, the time for annual awards has come, and worthy efforts in many fields of endeavor have been given well-deserved recognition in the schools. Among the students so recognized was one of our own library pages, Miss Kathy Wengeler, and naturally this is a source of pride to us. Her forte is in the artistic world, and recently she received first honors in the high school exhibit, with her ceramic sculpture, and honorable mention in two more categories, one for her charcoal drawing entitled, "Old Brushes" and one for her collage, "A Dream of Meadows." Our congratulations and a wish for a successful future in her chosen field.

Nicholas Monsarrat, author of "Something to Hide," projects the leading character of the suspenseful novel into a maze of bizarre circumstances that, though rarely encountered in one lifetime, could conceivably happen to any one of us up to a point. From the moment that he finds the hitch-hiker and takes pity on her plight, the good Samaritan finds a multitude of reasons to regret his magnanimous impulse. She is soon to have a child, an unwanted and illegitimate child, and her rescuer and benefactor realizes the implications for both of them if she is found out, and if he is found harboring her in his home along the widely-traveled river. You will have to read this one to its conclusion once you start it. But it's easy reading, and not too long, so this is no problem, especially since the suspense is sustained to the final, explosive climax.

Young adults will find in the story "Surfer!" by D. S. Halacy Jr. the thrill as new as today and today's youth. Not that surfing is a new sport, but it hasn't been too long since it has caught on wherever there is enough water to cause a wave. All of the excitement of this fast-paced sport is told in lively fashion by one who is "hip" on the subject, and he writes of it in the jargon of today.

Proof of this are a few selected quotations which we might mention: "You need a cast on your HEAD. . .With wake surfing you could stay on a board long enough to starve to death. . .Man, what a kick!" All facets of the sport come in for a fair share of attention. There is a clear-cut expose of the riff-raff element which spoil the beaches; called, by the legitimate surfers, the uncomplimentary name, "hodad", they are given the black eye they deserve.

A glossary of surfing terms is an appendage to the book and makes the terms used in the story come alive with real meaning. It's on the shelf, along with other fine selections that have a definite attraction for the young adult. We predict that it will have quite a splash this summer. Pick it up, guys and gals. You'll be missing something worthwhile if you don't read it.

"Seven Heroes", Medal of Honor stories of the war in the Pacific, is a two-fisted, fast-slugging account of seven men who won the nation's hightet wartime citation. The stories of all seven heroes are related vividly, with all the gore, the raw courage and love of country that led to their winning these will-deserved honors. Written in graphic terms, by Saul Braun, it's a chilling, thrilling tribute to a very few of the many men to whom America owes so much and whom we are remembering this week in special manner.

"Seven Heroes" is good reading for the young man wo is about to inherit the proud traditions of the valiant ones among whom he may one day be numbered, and alike for his father, for the locale might conceivably be one that he might well recall from his own years of involvement in the struggle of the '40s. There are pictures of the men whose heroism the book commemorate and some of the situations which brought them to the place reserved for heroes in the hearts of their fellow-countrymen.

Library hours for the summer are quite different from those of the school year. We are open during the week from Monday through Friday, from noon until 7 p.m. daily June 1 to September 1. For the summer, the library is closed on Saturday and Sunday. We hope to see all of you repeatedly throughout the warm-weather season. What better relaxation than stretching out on the chaise lounge, on the beach blanket, or in the hammock on the shady side of the house; and spending the time with a good book! And it costs you nothing. How's that for a summer-time (or anytime) bargain?

Scout Council Budget for 1967 Set at $69,499

Twelve new members of the Lake Agassiz Boy Scout council executive board were installed at the regular monthly meeting of the group this week. Presented with scouter's lapel pins as new members of the board were Don Black, East Grand Forks; Dr. Edwin Cramer, John McDonald and LeRoy Meier, Grand Forks; Ralph Eickhof, Dr. Stanley Sahlstrom and Lee Engen, Crookston; Norv Elbert, Grafton; A. B. Kegel, Larimore; Melvin Sunby, Hallock; and Dr. Vernon Otis, Devils Lake.

In other action the board gave approval to a $69,449 operating budget for the 1967 fiscal year. The budget provides for program services, field services and office services for scouting units throughout the 15-county area served by the Lake Agassiz council.

The most important new item in the budget, according to finance chairman Paul Olander, Grand Forks, is the addition of a district scout executive to the professional staff. When employed after Jan. 1, 1967, this man will join the other four members of the executive staff in working with volunteer leaders throughout the council.

Included in the services provided by the operating budget are training courses for adult leaders; the operation of Camp Waubaunaquat on White Earth lake in Minnesota; organization of various activities including camporees, scout expositions, and explorer events; the organization of new scouting units in communities throughout the area; the executive staff of the council that provides direct help to volunteer leaders; and the operation of the scout office in Grand Forks as a service center for all scouting units.

Funds for the budget, according to Olander, will be secured through participation in United Fund campaigns as well as a membership effort throughout the area.

In other action the board heard a report on the national council annual meeting, held the previous week in Dallas, Tex. In attendance at the event were Joe Thompson, Grafton and R. C. Hadlich, John Bakke, Frank Goeson and H. W. Oehler, all of Grand Forks.

Minnesota 4-H Dep't. Selects Club for Honors

Because of their 4-H members' interest in pheasant raising and tree planting, a 4-H club in Waseca county was named the 4-H Conservation Club of the Year.

The Waldorf Peppy Peppers raised 500 pheasant chicks for the conservation department's game and fish division to add to the pheasant breeding population of the local area. Members picked up field corn during the fall to feed the chicks. This year the club was allocated some 335 chicks to grow and release.

Two and one-half acres of wildlife area were donated to the club by the Armin Tesch family. Members transplanted on the land some 1,250 trees such as black walnut, white cedar, white spruce, Norway pine and Colorado blue spruce. Future plans for the donatd land include straightening the creek and making a wildlife pit for game birds.

The club will be recognized for its achievements at the Minnesota 4-H conservation camp, June 1-5, at Itasca state park.

First runner-up in the conservation club contest was the Watab 4-H club of Benton county. Members raised and released 500 pheasants, maintained a public access to Little Rock lake and built wood duck houses for use along the Mississippi River. Conservation was included in the Tri-County camp program.

Second runner-up in the conservation club contest was the Darfur North Star 4-H club of Watonwan county. Conservation activities included planting and caring for trees, maintaining a local park, erecting pheasant shelters and feeding stations for winter birds and participating in the "Keep Minnesota Green" poster contest.

Prevention Key To Pest Control In Home Garden

Prevention is the key to controlling the pests of the lawn, garden, flower border or foundation planting.

Most diseases and many insects cannot be eradicated after the symptoms are apparent, according to Neil Miles, extension horticulturist at the University of Minnesota. Therefore control procedures must emphasize preventing an infection of plants by disease or build-up of insects.

Pest control should begin with good cultural practices. Selecting recommended varieties for planting, spacing plants properly, good pruning practices, care in watering and fertilizing correctly are all cultural practices which serve to reduce pest problems or cause greater troubles—depending on how well or poorly they are done. It is surprising how many potential pests are controlled in our gardens by good cultural practices, Miles says.

However, garden pesticides are also needed, he adds. Only through a spray program planned for the entire growing season can pest control be completely successful.

As the first step in developing a spray program, evaluate potential problems, Miles suggests. Keep in mind the pests that were troublesome last year; consult publications that outline spray schedules; seek advice from professionals, garden store men or others who understand such problems; and obtain additional information about the plants treasured most in the yard. Select the chemicals needed to control the potential pests. Make the spray schedule, timing it so the chemical is on the plant at the time the pests can be most easily controlled.

Since the growing season has already begun, it is time to start the pest control program. Stick to the program during the season, the university horticulturist urges, but also remember that special problems will come up which may require a readjustment of the schedule.

Goodridge Sixth Grade Tours State

Twenty-nine sixth-graders of the Goodridge school returned May 20 from the annual sixth-grade tour of top points of interest in Minnesota. Most of the tour was spent in the Twin Cities, but stops to and from the cities were also included in the group's itinerary.

Chaperones who accompanied the youngsters, along with Gordon Henrickson, instructor, were Mrs. Lynn Hanson, Mrs. Ed Needham and Dr. David Brown, superintendent. Members of the class who made the trip were Dale Anderson, Ida Anderson, Julie Anderson, Jeffrey Dahlen, Elaine Halvorson, Daryl Hamm, Mike Hanson, Bob Heltne, Lanny Holen, Kenneth Hovet, Aldon Hyland, Jerry Jensen, Curtis Johnson, Jean Johnson and Martin Kotrba;

Also Jane Liedberg, Glenn Limesand, Richard Merrill, Freddy Parnow, Karyl Paulson, Timmy Prestebak, Joy Ann Sanders, David Sjulstad, Joy Syrsky, Valerie Wiseth, Vance Wiseth, Fred Zinter, Dennis Burke and Debra Needham.

Instructor Henrickson cited highlights of the two-day tour of the state. First stop was Itasca state park, where the children walked across the small stream flowing from the lake which is the source of the Mississippi. This great river flows 2,552 miles from this point to the Gulf of Mexico.

At the state historical building in St. Paul, the group viewed exhibits of artifacts and antiques dating back to pioneer, territorial and prehistoric times. Highlight of the tour of the arts and science center was viewing the huge dinosaur on display. Later the class was taken to the 32nd floor observation platform of the Foshay tower.

In the Minneapolis public library, the class visited the museum and the space planetarium. The planetarium instrument reproduces the celestial bodies and their movements in a way designed to excite interest in the field of space science.

The science museum presents the story of the universe in a series of black light murals depicting the history and tools of astronomy, which brought man to a better understanding of earth-space relationships. The museum contains collections of rocks and minerals, sea life and cultures of the world. A gallery of "human biology" is also a feature of the museum. Two Egyptian mummies are among the museum's treasurers.

The class also toured the state capitol, saw the Minnesota Twins defeat the Chicago White Sox and was conducted on a tour of the Wold Chamberlain airport by Andy Holen, a former Goodridge man.

Enroute home, the youngsters visited Lumbertown U.S.A., at Brainerd, and at Alexandria viewed the Kensington Runestone. This controversial slab of graywacke is inscribed with details of the voyage of Vikings to Kensington in 1326.

Translation of the writing on the stone: "Eight Goths and 22 Norwegians on exploration journey from Vinland over the West. We had camp by two skerries one day's journey north from this stone. We were and fished one day. After we came home (found) 10 red with blood and dead. Ave Maria save from evil." One edge of stone: "Have 10 of our party by the sea to look after our ships 14 days journey from this island year 1362.

Union Lake-Sarah Group Discusses Lake Improvement

Lake improvement plans were instigated at the annual meeting of the Union Lake-Sarah Development association held recently at Thief River Falls.

Ade Ness, Crookston president, conducted the meeting with an attendance of 50 cottage owners. In his opening remarks he stressed that our lakes are a heritage, the importance of leaving the lakes to the next generation in as good condition as possible and dedicated the improvement program to the "old timers" whose vision and foresight brought the Union Lake-Sarah association into being.

Jack Eickhof, weed control committee chairman, introduced a representative from a chemical company who promised to work with interested cottage owners in a spray program which had been tried successfully at Detroit Lakes.

A representative of the fisheries department in Detroit Lakes, along with a biologist, were introduced by Wilbur Hinkley, chairman of the fish committee, who offered help in balancing the fish population and also help on a cooperative rearing pond.

Littering the lakes was also discussed and it was brought out that a fine of $100 can be assessed for this infraction. Bottles and beer and pop cans are a hazard to swimmers, and it was noted that each boat should have a litter bag which can be conveniently emptied at any one of the boat landings.

Ade Ness was reelected president along with Wilbur Hinkley, vice-president; C. J. Collins, Thief River Falls, secretary; and Dave Hansen, Fertile, treasurer. Four new directors were named for two year terms. They include Otto Stenberg Thief River Falls; Ken Erie, Crookston; Dan Olen, Erskine; and Jess Halvorson, Fertile.

Roadside Mowing Delayed To Aid Pheasant Nesting

Nesting pheasants in southern and western Minnesota will get an assist again this year from the highway department. At the request of the conservation department's game and fish division, the highway department has agreed to ask maintenance engineers at Morris, Marshall, Windom, Mankato, Willmar, Detroit Lakes, Rochester, Owatonna and St. Cloud to delay roadside mowing operations until July 1 or later.

Game officials said that by that date, unless there are unusual weather conditions, the peak of the nesting period should be over. In most years hatching activity reaches its highest point about June 20-25.

Ted Shields, state game and fish director, said this will be the eighth consecutive year that the highway department has cooperated with the game and fish division in the program to encourage pheasant reproduction by avoiding destruction of nests and nesting birds. County and township officials in the pheasant range have also been cooperating by delaying mowing on roads under their jurisdiction.

Shields explained that nesting hen pheasants often will not leave their nests at the approach of the mower and are frequently maimed or killed at the same time the nest is destroyed.

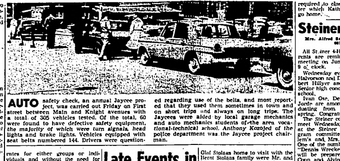
Roadside ditches presently provide the only remaining permanent nesting cover in some intensively farmed areas. Although they represent only 1-2 per cent of the land area, the ditches are readily used by nesting hens and about 20-25 per cent of the young birds are hatched there each season. Thus, delayed mowing of road ditches can contribute substantially to increasing the number of pheasants available to hunters in the fall.

Tower Soudan Tours Available

Minnesota division of state parks announced today that tours into the unique Tower Soudan mine and state park in northern St. Louis county are being scheduled now.

Tours are available to schools and other groups by advance registration and at reduced rates prior to the start of the summer season. Summer tours at regular rates for either groups or individuals and without the need for reservations will begin May 28.

Last year the tours attracted over 17,000 persons for the elevator trip down the mine's 2,400 foot shaft and by rail car through the 3,000 foot tunnel, site of the last mining operations.



AUTO safety check, an annual Jaycee project, was carried out Friday on First street between Main and Knight avenues with a total of 305 vehicles tested. Of the total, 60 were found to have defective safety equipment, the majority of which were turn signals, head lights and brake lights. Vehicles equipped with seat belts numbered 144. Drivers were questioned regarding use of the belts, and most reported that they used them sometimes in town and on short trips and always on long trips. The Jaycees were aided by local garage mechanics and auto mechanics students of the area vocational-technical school. Anthony Kozojed of the police department was the Jaycee project chairman.

Unnecessary Spending?

Rep. William H. Harsha (R. of Ohio) has made public a copy of a letter to President Johnson from a housewife who wasn't taken in by LBJ's homey little lecture on family economy. She asks some pointed questions, to wit:

DEAR MR. PRESIDENT:

I put on my glasses and got out my lead pencil as you advised.

We are on a salary and try to live within our means. We used to eat beef and pork and then beef, then chicken, and then tuna fish, and finally hamburger casserole. Milk prices have advanced so skim milk is now included in our diet as is oleomargarine.

We eat more canned vegetables than frozen and only fresh ones when in season and are cheaper.

We eat more cereals instead of eggs, and bacon is not included on our grocery list. Just what do you advise us to cut out? To stop eating seems to be the only answer to our problems if we follow your advice and say to ourselves, "This is out of our price range." Send me your recipe books, please.

It seems to me if you and your advisers would cut down on non-military spending it would help. It seems wrong for people to be told to do without while "the Government for the people" spends and spends and has a larger deficit budget every year. Practice what you preach.

If unemployment is at the lowest percentile in years, why do we have to be continually taxed to support more exorbitant welfare programs?

If you raise taxes, of course I will be able to buy less—less food, shoes, clothing and less saving for the education of my children.

I resent being told to cut out unnecessary spending (which I did, long ago) when the Government is spending my money as if it were going out of style.

I think it is about time that the wastefulness of spending programs compounded by inefficiency be stopped. You are wasting my hard earned tax money while inviting inflation and national ruin. Joyce H. McGee

Conservation Spreads Out

Time was when the chief problems confronting those occupied with the preservation of natural resources were those of forest fires, water pollution, destructive logging, flood prevention and the enactment and enforcement of wildlife laws. While there is still considerable effort devoted to these causes, a noticeable shift in emphasis has taken place in recent years. Conservationists are becoming increasingly concerned with things which earlier were not thought to fall within the boundaries of a rather well defined area posted with signs labeled "Natural Resources".

Today we hear more and more about such programs as the preservation of open space, roadside beautification, littering and the vital need (every desire is a vital need these days) for more outdoor recreation opportunities. Is it true that these new problems are more pressing than the old ones?

Certainly it is a fact that the destruction of natural beauty is making many of our cities increasingly unpleasant places to live. In countless cases this destruction has progressed to the point where no one willingly lives in such areas when they have the financial resources to escape from them. Hence the post-war flight to the suburbs. But in many cases of course, lack of values and poor planning are rapidly creating in the suburbs the same conditions people thought they were escaping. Or, to put it another way, unwise use of the land is destroying those values the city dweller thought he was going to gain by becoming a surbabnite.

The shift in the population which finds increasing numbers of people living in the cities and their suburbs is perhaps responsible for the preoccupation with these later-day problems. But while more and more attention is being focused on these problems, is less and less being devoted to the old causes? This is a question which at the persent time is disturbing many persons concerned with the vitality of the nation's resources.

There seems to be a growing feeling among many that in the rush to establish campgrounds, riding trails, small boat harbors and similar outdoor recreation facilities we are attempting to reap the benefits of a victory before the enemy has been defeated. The enjoyment of outdoor recreation represented by parks and campgrounds, in fishing, hunting, boating and swimming or the quiet relaxation of lake shore and forest—none of these things are possible without the basic natural resources on which they depend. These resources are—as they always have been—clean water, fertile soil, flourishing grasslands and forests. The quality and quantity of these resources and how they are managed will determine not only the opportunities for outdoor recreation but the future existence of all living things including wildlife and man.

Ernest Swift of the National Wildlife Federation put the case a little more strongly recently when he wrote that he has "for years been attempting to point out the folly of face-lifting programs whose only excuse for existence is to hide the ugly cesspools of human indolence."

This may be an overly bitter indictment of some socalled "conservation projects", but Ernie Swift has never been known to mince words. The fact remains that there is a strong argument for the assertion that a conservation program is badly out of balance which assigns more effort and funds to recreation than to such gut issues as water pollution, soil conservation, forest and watershed management, game law enforcement and fish and wildlife habitat.

The other side of the argument is that the creation of outdoor recreation facilities attracts people to the out-of-doors and thus makes more and more persons aware of the irreplaceable values of our natural heritage and the need for conserving the nation's resources.

This is a strong argument too, and it doesn't make things any easier for conservation administrators who are trying to allocate available funds to several different programs.

Placing the Blame

Inflation is making itself felt. The cost of living increased at an annual rate of six per cent in February and only slightly less in March. Administration spokesmen point out that an important part of this increase was due to higher food costs, which included higher prices paid farmers. The official figure of blame is being pointed everywhere except at the major cause of the problem—unprecedented, nonmilitary and nonessential federal spending.

For over 30 years, the government has poured billions of dollars into price support programs and other schemes aimed at raising the prices of farm commodities. An American Farm Bureau federation spokesman points out: "Now that prices of farm products are rising naturally in response to stronger demand, the administration has set about the job of not only trying to lower them, but of trying to use the farmer as a scapegoat for government-induced inflation."

Like most of the rest of us, farmers have not caused inflation. They are the victims of it. Farm production costs have increased $4.1 billion since 1960, while net income in the same period has risen only $2.4 billion.

In a recent address at a Cornell university forum, Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, put the case in strong terms when he said: "Now we are getting the double whammy from the administration as it pushes for an increase in the minimum wage, spelling higher prices for production items farmers buy, and at the same time using various devices to beat down farm prices."

Shuman cites five instances of farm price-depressing actions. 1. Sharply increased sales of surplus corn at cut-rate prices. 2. Increased support prices on soybeans for 1966, the purpose—to artificially stimulate production and so, lower prices. 3. Steps have been taken to lower prices on dairy products—eliminating butter from the armed services menu, increasing the cheese import quota by one-third, raising dairy price supports—all to artificially boost supplies and weaken prices. 4. The use of prime pork products by the military services was decreased. 5. Recently imposed quotas on hide exports are intended to drive down domestic prices.

The farmers are not in a unique position. Other industries—aluminum, copper, steel—have felt the pinch of "unofficial price control." As long as it can, government will seek to make the people pay for its own mistakes—the inflationary, monetary, fiscal and labor policies chiefly responsible for rising prices.

Smoking Jitters

From the Wall Street Journal:

A young man we know who is not old enough to smoke but old enough to read the newspapers says he is a little confused about whose side of the cigaret-smoking-and-health controversy the Government is really on.

It's plain from cigaret sales figures, our friend reasons, that the cigaret smoking may - be - hazardous - to - your health warning printed on every pack now sold hasn't cut down on smoking. However, a cigaret price increase, he says, is something that gives smokers pause, at least for a while.

And yet when cigaret makers the other day announced a wholesale price boost costing the smoker an added cent a pack at retail, President Johnson persuaded the biggest of them to roll back the increase. Is it true, asks the young man, that the White House thinks inflation is a greater peril than cigaret smoking?

What, he wants to know, does the Surgeon General think about this? Why did the President get so steamed up about a penny increase in the price of a luxury like tobacco? What is he going to do about those brewers who have raised the price of beer about a cent a bottle?

It would be nice if young people who are not old enough to realize how essential cigarets are to the economy and to smokers with inflation jitters (but who are old enough to read the newspapers) wouldn't ask so many questions.

A woman went to see a plastic surgeon about changing the shape of her nose. "How much will it cost for you to change the shape of my nose?" "Five hundred dollars, lady," said the doctor. "Five hundred dollars?" she exclaimed. "Isn't there something less expensive"? "Well," said the surgeon, "you might try walking into a telephone pole."

Conservation Education Is Proposed by Commissioner

Conservation Commissioner Wayne Olson today proposed a new conservation education program for Minnesota. Olson made the proposal in his request for funds under the Natural Resources act to cover the two-year fiscal period extending from July 1, 1967, to June 30, 1969.

Key feature of the program would be the hiring of five education specialists with backgrounds in conservation to work with local school boards, school administrators and youth groups throughout the state to assist in the incorporation of conservation education into their programs.

"Over the years," said Olson, "conservation education has been proclaimed without dissent as the mainstay of natural resource conservation progress. Yet little has been done in Minnesota to give this education endeavor real financial support.

"Man is dependent on natural resources for his very existence and it is essential for the citizen to realize the importance of these resource and the necessity for their wise use."

Olson requested $150,000 from the natural resources fund to start the program. Regular conservation department personnel would be used extensively in the schools under the plan.

Largest single items in the appropriations request are for the acquisition and development of state park lands ($2,235,000) and for the acquisition and development of wildlife lands ($2,100,000).

Approximately 22,000 acres of additional wildlife habitat needed to maintain populations of waterfowl and other wildlife species can be acquired with the requested appropriation, said Olson.

Also included in the request for funds to be used for game and fish purposes are $350,000 for acquiring and developig fish spawning areas and $50,000 for public access site development.

"Hunting and fishing are two of our most important outdoor recreational activities," said Olson, "a fact which has not been adequately reflected in the natural resource fund appropriation for the first two bienniums.

"The importance of hunting and fishing to Minnesota can be understood when it is realized that there are approximately 1,500,000 licensed anglers in the state each year, including 300,000 non-residents. There are also nearly 500,000 licensed hunters. These figures do not include youngsters who are entitled to hunt or fish without a license."

It is estimated that 25 million pounds of fish are taken by anglers from Minnesota waters each year and about 100 million dollars are spent annually on sport fishing in the state.

Approximately 3,500,000 game birds and animals are taken in Minnesota annually and it is estimated that hunters expend nearly $50,000,000 on their sport each year.

"These figures make hunting and fishing the two most popular outdoor sports in the state in addition to being extremely important contributors to Minnesota's economy," said Olson.

In pointing out the need for continued acquisition of wildlife habitat, Olson explained that marshes and adjacent uplands essential for the production of waterfowl, pheasants and other wildlife species are continually being lost through drainage and filling and are converted to agriculture or other use.

At the same time, he said, other marsh areas adjacent to lakes — which provide the spawning habitat for northern pike and other fishes—are being drained and filled for lake shore home site development.

"If we do not act quickly to acquire these areas before they are lost forever," he said, "we must expect to see a continual decline in two of our finest outdoor sports".

The spending propoal includes a request for $980,000 to be used for reforestation and development, forest roads, acquisition of lands in the Memorial Hardwood Forest in southeastern Minnesota and development of recreation areas within state forests.

Other major items include a request for $600,000 for topographic mapping and funds for geologic mapping of state lands to determine their mineral potential. The request also asks for $100,000 to begin comprehensive planning for the development of water resources

Lesser amounts are requested for development of recreation areas on streams and rivers ($50,000) long distance hiking trails ($25,000) Red River basin study ($35,000) and an aerial photo library ($25,000).

Olson said work on the present biennium's program is progressing satisfactorialy, but he urged the commission to consider several changes in the fiscal management of the program to promote efficiency and streamlineing of operations.

Olson submitted the proposed budget to the Minnesota Outdoor Recraton Resource commission, commission. The legislative commission recommends appropriation from the natural resources fund which accrues from a one cent per pack tax on cigarettes.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

The Squad to Watch

The trap shoot league season has progressed through two weeks of the double round-robin schedule, and three teams—Times, Wilson Bros., and Jensen Fur Farms—are undefeated, having two wins apiece.

The Times are the defending league champions, but the team hasn't strengthened its lineup during the off season, and it's a question whether or not the champions can continue the pressure shooting that gave the boys the title last season.

Wilson Bros., also one of the unbeaten squads to date, will be in contention all the way, but the squad, which is the lowest handicap team in the league, will have trouble against the high handicap squads. The Jensen Fur Farms, a new team to league competition this season, may be rated as the "dark horse" squad. Al Jensen's team has a fine mixture of youth and experience. On Wednesday the team posted the best score of the evening, a 121.

But the squad that may be the league champion when the final matches are shot on August 17, could be the Ekeren Pharmacy team. They haven't been "standing idly by" during the off season. The team has been bolstered by the presence of Sandy Wilson and George Schlieff. And Sandy and George, along with Tony Dorn, Floyd Ball, Ray Thyren (who is building up his handicap) and Bob and Tommy Ekeren, are in position to make a move. On Wednesday the Pharmacy will meet up against the Wilson Bros., and the result of that match could a harbinger of the Ekeren's championship hopes.

Curt Bottem's L. B. Hartz squad, it is agreed by the experts in the club house, are a year or two away. They do have a couple of shooters who will be contending for the "rookie of the year" award.

Back to Warren

Howie Emerson, who had resigned his position as football coach and assistant basketball coach at Warren to accept the athletic directorship at Wahpeton, reconsidered his resignation and has decided to remain at Warren. Howie will be the varsity football coach and in addition he will take over the varsity basketball coaching duties relinquished by Irv St. John.

Gophers Get a New Hockey Coach

It was announced on Thursday that Glen Sonmor, who had been coaching hockey at Ohio State, will take over the hockey coaching duties at Minnesota. Sonmor will replace John Mariucci who resigned earlier in the week. Mariucci, always a colorful character and onetime professional with the Chicago Black Hawks, stated that the press of business made it impossible for him to put in full time at the Gopher job. Particularly onerous was the recruiting problem that confronts a college hockey coach.

And, too, it was reported that there was some friction between Marsh Ryman, the Minnesota athletic director, and Mariucci. Ryman is reported having been disenchanted with Mariucci's coaching, and the "image" that was presented of Minnesota hockey.

Sonmor, a Canadian, may do a fine job for the Gophers, but he may have difficulty in persuading northern Minnesota high school hockey prospects to enter Minnesota. Fact is, In think that Sergio Gambucci, the successful coach of the Grand Forks Central Redskins for the past number of years, would have been an ideal coach for the Gophers. And his contacts with North Dakota and northern Minnesota would have been invaluable in recruiting hockey prospects.

Wardens Arrest 230 for Game, Fish Violations

Fishing during closed season resulted in 41 of the 230 arrests made by state game wardens during the month of April, the Minnesota conservation department reported this week.

Other fishing infractions observed by wardens included fishing without a license (15 arrests) using artificial light to take fish (10 arrests) and illegal possession of a spear near public waters between February 16 and April 30 (10 arrests).

Miscellaneous violations accounted for the balance of 117 fishing arrests made during the month.

Transporting loaded or uncased firearms in motor vehicle or tractor brought 34 arrests and three persons were apprehended for depositing litter on the ice of public waters or on public lands.

There were five prosecutions for shining deer with a motor vehicle, five small game violations and five arrests for taking waterfowl in a closed season. Eight persons were arrested for trapping violations incuding six persons found in possession of improperly tagged beaver.

Eight persons were arrested for leaving their fishing shelter or darkhouse on the ice after the February 28 deadline and there were five arrests for leaving shelters on the ice after 7 p.m. following the February 28 cut off.

Arrests for miscellaneous offenses accounted for the balance of violations for the month.

The Region Eight high school baseball tournament is also scheduled for the Warren field, being slated for Tuesday and Wednesday, June 7-8.

Crookston Edged By Prowlers in District 31 Golf

Coach Jack Boyer's Prowler golf squad, by a three-stroke margin, 234 to 237, edged out the Crookston Pirates to win the District 31 golf title in the tournament played over the Thief River Golf club course on Friday afternoon. Following the Prowlers and the Pirates in the standings was Red Lake Falls with 255 strokes, and Warren with 264 strokes.

The three-man Prowler squad will now enter the Region Eight tourney at Crookston on Friday. Also entering the regional tourney, but competing in the individual event, will be Greg Anderson and Greg Klein of Crookston and David Knutson of Warren. The Prowler squad will consist of Dave Wegge, Ron Olson and Billy Olson.

Judy Foss Becomes Bride At Inglewood, California

Miss Judy Louann Foss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Foss of Mentor, and Joseph Robert Straughn of Inglewood, Calif., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Straughn, Bowling Green, Fla., exchanged marriage vows at 2 p.m. Saturday, April 2, in the First Lutheran church at Inglewood Calif.

The Rev. T. E. Schroeder officiated at the double ring ceremony and Mrs. Gordon Robertson provided an organ prelude of nuptial music. Bouquets of white gladioli accented with pink carnations graced the altar.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. For her wedding, she chose an empire styled floor-length gown of chantilly lace and mirror-mist taffeta. The fitted lace bodice was fashioned with a scalloped neckline and featured long sleeves that tapered to a point over the wrists. Enhancing the A-line skirt was a detachable chapel length train of matching taffeta, bordered in wide Chantilly lace and attached at the empire waistline with a small bow. Her diamond necklace was a gift from the groom and she carried a cascade bouquet of white bridal roses, centered with a white orchid.

Her sister, Elaine Foss of Mentor, was chosen by the bride as her only attendant. She was attired in a floor-length gown of pink georgette over crepe designed in empire style with a rounded neckline and short ruffled bell sleeves. A matching bow headpiece held her short scalloped veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and pink roses. Her cultured pearl sweetheart necklace was a gift from the bride.

William Cromartie of Redondo Beach, Calif., attended the groom as best man, and Marvin Gunderson of Inglewood, Calif., served as usher. The men of the wedding party wore dark business suits with white boutonnieres.

Following the wedding a reception was given at the couple's apartment by the parents of the bride. Mrs. Ardell Bjorge of Buxton, N. D., aunt of the bride, cut and served the three-tiered wedding cake, decorated with miniature white doves and topped by a miniature bride and groom. Karlyn Gunderson, cousin of the bride, poured.

For traveling on a wedding trip to Laguna Beach, Calif., the bride wore a blue knit dress with black patent accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid taken from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of the Mentor high school and the Thief River Falls area vocational - technical school. She was employed by Boyd D. Holcomb, CPA., of this city, prior to leaving for Inglewood Calif., were she is employed as Coast Accountant with the Swanson Engineering and Manufacturing company. The groom, a graduate of the Hardy county high school at Wauchula, Fla., is employed as a laboratory technician by the Cemare corporation at Inglewood.

Mr. and Mrs. Straughn are at home at 800 North Eucalyptus, Apartment 21, Inglewood, Calif. Photo Seeman Studio, Torrance, Calif.

Passa is among approximately 600 Minnesota high school seniors to whom scholarships and scholarship commendations of U of M have been awarded this spring. Some 2,300 applications were awarded this year, according to George B. Risty, director of the University's Bureau of Loans and Scholarships. This is an increase of about 400 applications over last year, he reported.

To be eligible for a freshman scholarship or scholarship commendation at the University, a student must rank in the upper one-fourth of his high school class.

About 30 individuals, business firms, alumni organizations and various business and professional groups have made the financial contributions which make these scholarships possible, Risty stated.

Odd Fellows Get Friendship Gavel In Canada Visit

Presentation of a "friendship gavel" from North Star Lodge No. 2 of Winnipeg was made at a joint meeting of Young Pine Lodge No. 221 of the Odd Fellows and local Rebekahs Thursday in Thief River Falls. The local lodge is to bring the gavel back to Canada on a presentation visit to a Canadian lodge in the near future.

Bellingham Bay Lodge No. 31 of Bellingham, Wash., started the gavel on its way on Nov. 13, 1956, when it delivered it to Excelsior Lodge No. 7 in British Columbia. It has been making its way eastward since that time by visitation presentations across the Canadian border. When it reaches the east coast it will be returned to Bellingham.

Presenting the gavel here Thursday were M. J. Thorpe, A. J. Ross and J. Jackson of Winnipeg. Accepting it were O. A. Lindland, noble grand of the Odd Fellows, and Verna Sjolsvold, acting noble grand of the Rebekahs. E. J. Adey, grand master of the Manitoba jurisdiction, and Herbert Stoddard, grand warden, accompanied the delegation from Winnipeg. Lunch was served following the ceremonies.

LHS Is District 31 Baseball Champion

Coach Ralph Skay's Prowlers won the District 31 baseball title on Tuesday night when they defeated the Oslo Bobcats, 9-0, in the finals of the tourney played on Warren's Emory Johnson field. The Prowlers will now enter the Region Eight tourney, also scheduled for the Warren diamond, and will play the Roseau Rams of District 32 in a regional first-round game on Tuesday, June 7. Roseau won the District 32 title on Tuesday afternoon by scoring a 3-0 win over Baudette.

In District 31 tournament play at Warren, in first-round games on Saturday, the Prowlers trounced Alvarado, 21 to 4; Crookston defeated Climax, 10-2; Oslo Sidelined the defending champion Red Lake Falls club, winning by a 5-4 score; and Warren defeated Fisher, 5-3.

In semi-finals games on Monday afternoon the Prowlers defeated Crookston, 16 to 3; and Oslo edged out the Warren Ponies, 6 to 5. The Prowler victories over Alvarado and Crookston were five-inning games, with the ten-run rule being in force.

In the championship finals on Tuesday evening the Prowlers had some anxious innings before they gained command of the game. The locals held a 1 to 0 lead going into the last half of the fifth inning when the Prowlers rolled up a four-run cluster.

Righthander Tommy Cummings limited Oslo to four hits and whiffed 13 batsmen, but the lanky hurler was struggling to keep his control. In the opening inning Oslo's Roger Farder beat out an infield hit. A fielder's choice on Don Nordling's sacrifice found Farder safe at second and Nordling safe at first. Dick Dahlstrom forced Farder at third, but Greg Farder was hit by a pitched ball and Oslo had the bases loaded with one out. Cummings struck out Steve Mozinski and Larry Grabanski to end the threat.

In the Prowlers' half of the first, Rocky Wilson sliced a single to left field; Dale Erickson laid down a fine sacrifice, moving Wilson to second. Cummings poled a drive to the fence in left-center, scoring Wilson, and the Prowlers had the run that held up for the balance of the game.

Oslo made a bid in the fifth when Dan Michalski led off with a single. Doug Farder rapped a double to left field but Michalski overran third base and was erased Gary Lavalley to Nicky Drees to Bob Brodin. passed ball moved Doug Farder to third base, and when Roger Farder was hit by pitched ball, Oslo had two men on and one out. Cummings struck out Nordling, and Dahlstrom grounded out, second to first.

The two four-run clusters by the Prowlers in the fifth and sixth innings, with several misplays by Oslo and bases on balls and wild pitches contributing to the scoring, put the game beyond the reach of the ever-trying Oslo club.

If a commercial airliner with 118 passengers aboard crashed every day for an entire year the annual death toll would be less than the highway death toll in the United States last year.

Three Teachers Hired by Board

Contracts were approved for three teachers in the Thief River Falls school system and discussion was held in regard to the proposed vocational - technical school at a meeting of the board of education held last week.

Richard Whiteman, representing the architectural firm of Jyring and Whiteman, presented initial plans for the vocational - technical school building. Further discussion was held on what the structure should contain and what additional courses may be offered here.

Teachers hired were Miss Gretchen Stroebel, Mapleton, 1966 graduate of Mankato state college, junior high school music; Billie Blankenfeld, former instructor at Goodridge, junior high school science; and Miss Diane Lovly, Goodridge, 1966 graduate of Bemidji state college, junior high school English.

The board approved an application for funds to the Economic Development administration for federal participation in the vocational building program.

Inventor Exhibit Will Be Held in Redwood Falls

There is still time to enter an exhibit in the Ninth Annual Minnesota Inventors congress to be held June 10, 11 and 12 at the fairgrounds at Redwood Falls, according to Bob Starr, president of the board of directors. About one-third of the booth space has been reserved to date.

Inventions now registered range from a spill-proof pet feeder to a ski-track attachment for cycles and carts, which the inventor calls a "Sidewinder".

Experienced men from the Small Business administration, Department of Commerce, Business Development and the Minnesota Patent Law association will be on hand to give advice to the inventors.

Manufacturers who visit this exhibition often contract for new products to make the market. They may also show their latest products, items produced for less than a year. They are housed in a separate building and not in competition for awards. For exhibit application blanks, write Box 71, Redwood Falls, Minn.

RECORDS tumbled last week as Kim Krostue of East Grand Forks skimmed the high and low hurdles in the District 31 track meet at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks. Krostue, a junior, is shown at right with a one-stride lead over John Olson of the Prowlers. The East Grand Forks hurdler won the high hurdles in record time of 15.1 (clipping .1 second off the previous mark) and also set a new record in the lows at 19.5—chopping 1.3 seconds off the old record. Both previous marks has been established by Jerry Forsberg of the Prowlers in 1965.

Two Hurdle Marks Set As EGF Wins District

East Grand Forks, paced by the record-breaking performances of hurdler Kim Krostue, won the District 31 track and field meet at Grand Forks on Saturday, rolling up a total of 66 points. In second place was Crookston with 55 points, and in third place was the defending champion Thief River Falls squad with 47 points. Other team totals were Warren, 26; Red Lake Falls 18; Climax, 8; and Plummer, 4.

At the conclusion of the first nine events on the 14-event program the Crookston Central Pirates held a 43 to 40 lead over East Grand Forks. But coach Ron Thomson's East Siders finished one-two in the 440-yard dash, to take over the lead, the Krostue followed with a win in the 180-yard hurdles to move the Green Wave into a commanding position.

Krostue set new standards in the hurdling events, setting a mark of 15.1 in the high hurdles, and skimming over the low hurdles in 19.5. Both of these new records better the old records set by the Prowlers' Jerry Forsberg in 1964.

Coach Roger Solheim's Prowlers scored a pair of firsts in the tournament. Jerry Engen, a sophomore, finished first in the 220-yard dash; and the Prowler 440-yard relay team of Rod Collver, John Olson, Jerry Engen and Larry Bjerken, won that event in 1:36.3.

Other Prowler point-winners were John Olson, with a second in the high hurdles; Sheldon Joppru, a freshman, with a second in the high jump; Dan Bacon, with a second in the broad jump; Jerry Droppo, with a fourth in the shot put; Dave Rodahl, a fifth in the high hurdles and a fourth in the high jump; Joe Fuller, a second in the pole vault; and Larry Bjerken, a third in the 440-yard dash.

Dave Halvorson socred a fourth had a fourth in the mile run, Terry Stelmaschuk had a fifth in the broad jump and John Olson had a third in the low hurdles. The Prowlers' mile relay team gained a third.

The first and second place winners are eligible to compete in the Regin Eight tourney at Bemidji on Saturday.

Peace Corps Placement Test Slated June 11

Thie River Falls area residents interested in putting their skills to use in developing nations around the world are invited to take the Peace Corps placement test Saturday, June 11 at the post office.

The Peace Corps uses the placement test to determine how an applicant can best be utilized overseas. The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, not education or achievement. The test requires no preparation and is non-competitive; an applicant can neither pass nor fail.

The application form, not the placement test, is the most important factor in the section of volunteers. Persons interested in serving in the Peace Corps must fill out an application. If they have not already done so, and present it to the tester before taking the test. Applications may be obtained from the post office or from the Peace Corps, Washington, D. C. 20525.

Prowler Tennis Team Wins Dist. 31 Championship

With Paul Ihle pulling a strong upset in a match against top-seeded Norm Newell of Crookston, the Lincoln high school Prowler tennis team won District 31 honors Friday. The Prowlers tallied 10 points while Crookston had vive and East Grand Forks was shut out.

Crookston picked up its five points in doubles competition with the team of Gary Martin and Boyd Boyum defeating the Thief River Falls duo of Jon Ihle and Steve Waale 6-3, 6-0.

Paul Ihle defeated Dave Knoff of East Grand Forks 6-0, 6-1 in the first round singles while Art Selseth of Crookston beat Rick Anderson of East Side 6-3, 6-3. Newel of the Pirates and Wayne Liden of the Prowlers had first round byes.

In the second round, Liden defeated Selseth 6-0, 6-3 and Paul Ihle upset the favored Newell 6-1, 8-6. Championship finals were played on the Lincoln high school courts Saturday morning with Liden defeating Ihle 6-1, 6-2 for the District 31 championship. Both boys will enter the regional tournament at Bemidji Saturday, as will the champion Crookston doubles team.

Ten Confirmed at St. John Lutheran

Ten eighth-graders were received into communing membership at St. John Lutheran church on Sunday. The rite of confirmation was performed by Rev. Paul R. Biegner, pastor, after the youth had completed a two-year course of study in the Bible and Luther's Small Catechism. The young-people had previously given evidence of their faith and understanding in a service of witness and examination on Ascension Day, May 19. After the confirmation they received the sacrament of Holy Communion for the first time.

Members of the class were Darla Bjerke, Leland Eckert, Wade Harbott, May Jo Klesow, Verla Mehrkens, Laurel Onken, Jillyn Olson, Timothy Olson, Lyndon Pream and Randall Wentzel.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Bakke and girls were in Babbitt visiting relatives and friends during the long Memorial day weekend.

One Club Tournament

Dick Bjorkman is chairman of the one club golf tournament that will be played over the local golf course on Sunday, June 5.

Players participating in the tournament (and it is open to all eligible club members, 14 years of age and older) will be limited to the use of one club, and one club only, during the playing of a round of golf. Tee-off time for the tourney has been scheduled for 2 p.m.

There are several players, senior champion Stan Cockrell among them, who would be threats in a one club tournament. And Wally DuChamp, that veteran one-iron player, can score as well with one club as with a full set.

So don't forget, Dick Bjorkman's one club tourney will be on Sunday, June 5.

And Senior Baseball

The Thief River Falls Merchants, a recently-organized senior baseball team, will meet the Gatzke team on the fairgrounds diamond on Thursday evening.

It's been several years since senior baseball has been in action in town, and fans should make it a point to drive out to the fairgrounds and have a look at the local squad. It's Thursday evening, the Merchants vs. Gatzke.

Hockey Summer Session

The oldest continuously-operated hockey school in western Canada opens an abbreviated six-day semester August 22 at the Winnipeg arena.

Billy Robinson, veteran hockey coach, and who played several games with the local senior hockey Thieves, will be in charge of the school. Tuition fees for the week of hockey schooling will be $30.

Says Robinson: "We'll put our school up against any in Canada, bar none. In fact, let's get something straight. Our's is a school, not a clinic. There's a difference."

Adds Bill: "Like this, besides a grounding in the basic fundamental, we teach kids discipline. They also learn how to care for their equipment, respect for authority and how to tape a stick properly. These are only three of the things which make this a school rather than a clinic."

This program has attracted hockey-minded youths from as far away as Minneapolis and Seattle.

And assisting Robinson with the school are such familiar hockey names as Sugar Jim Henry, a former goalie with the New York Rangers, and Bill Juzda, a former defenseman with the Toronto Maple Leafs and the New York Rangers, and the Thieves.

It was worth a chuckle to read that Juzda was termed "that noted Professor of Paralysis". That's an apt phrase. And for local senior hockey fans who can recall Juzda's play with the Thieves, especially in the tilts against the Grand Forks Amerks, "Professor of Paralysis" is descriptive of the body checks that Bill would Deliver.

A Pleasant Surprise

Prowler track coaches Roger Solheim and Quent Jones were plenty pleased with the performance of sophomore Jerry Engen in the 220-yard dash event in the District 31 track and field meet at Grand Forks on Saturday. Jerry Ran the event in 23.1 to defeat such sprinters as Warren's Peter Gilbert and Crookston's Dave Lysaker, both of whom are seniors.

Jerry, who is six-feet three-inches in height and well-proportioned, is a promising all-round athlete for the Prowlers. In the 220-yard dash event, Jerry didn't come off of the blocks very well, but he is a real strong runner and he held off the challenges of Gilbert and Lysaker. And that 23.1 is just a bit off the record of 20.9 set by Paul Klungness in 1962. And don't wager that Jerry won't beat that mark before he finishes his Prowler career.

And another future Prowler track star is freshman Sheldon Joppru. Sheldon, who is six-feet two-inches in height, gained a second place in the high jump event. And when this rangy youngster matures, there is no telling what high jump or hurdle marks he will set.

And speaking of hurdlers, the Prowlers have a fine sophomore in David Rodahl. Dave, who also participates in the high jump event, had a fifth in the 120-yard high hurdles. In the high jump he scored a fourth.

These three boys—Jerry, Sheldon and Dave—will provide coach Solheim with a solid nucleus for his track squads for the next two or three years. And, too, there is sophomore Jerry Droppo in the weight events.

IRS Answers Queries Asked by Taxpayers

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of Internal revenue, St. Paul.

Q—I read that some new regulations will make employers pay their tax monies to the Federal Reserve bank every two weeks, instead of monthly as at present. Will I be affected by this change?

A—Employees who will be subject to the new requirements for semimonthly deposits are those who have $4,000 or more of social security and income taxes during any month. The special deposit rules will apply to wages paid during June and subsequent calendar quarters.

Semimonthly deposits are required to be made within three banking days after the close of the half-month period. Unless you withhold and deduct $4,000 monthly from your employees' wages, you will not be affected by the change in the regulations.

Q—I received a notice from your department telling me I made a mathematical error on my tax return. What shall I do about this notice?

A—If the error reduced your expected refund, the corrected check will be sent to you soon after the notice was received. If you owe additional tax you may visit one of our offices for an explanation of the error and a recomputation showing how the additional tax was determined. If 1965 tax is owing, you should pay the balance as soon as possible to avoid accumulation of statutory interest.

Q—As an employer, I have been filing quarterly returns for several years. Recently, I purchased another business, which I intend to operate as a branch of my present factory. Will I need to apply for a new identification number?

A—If the nature of your business operations did not change in adding a new branch—that is, you still operate as an individual, partnership or corporation—a new identification number is not required. Just add the wages to your regular quarterly report and list the new employees on one consolidated tax return for the three-month period.

Q—I won $100 prize in an essay contest in school. Who has to pay the tax on the prize—me or my parents. I'm 17 years old.

A—A prize won in an essay contest is taxable to the winner. It should be counted when you add up your income for the year. If you total $600 or more in earned income then you will have to file a tax return.

Your family is not liable for any income earned by you.

Q—I didn't file a new W-4 withholding exemption certificate last month and I think too much is being withheld from my paycheck. Is it too late to file a new W-4?

A—No. You may still file a new withholding exemption certificate with your employer. If you are married and did not file a new W-4 before May 1, your tax is being withheld at the higher rate for single persons. You may have the correct rate applied by filing a new Form W-4. If you are single, your withholding may be correct because the new rates are higher for single persons. Also, you may not be claiming all the exemptons to which you are entitled. You should check with your employer to determine whether or not this is so.

Q—I got a letter from the service center about my return. Should I send the information requested to the service center or the district office?

A—In most cases, your reply should be sent to the service center. If the letter does not indicate where the information should be sent then look at the top of the notice. Send your reply to the office listed on the letterhead or masthead. If a return envelope was sent too, it should be used for your reply.

Prospects Bright For Duck Crop on Canada Prairies

Habitat conditions for breeding waterfowl are generally good in western Canada. Runoff was heavy in some areas and in others a lighter run-off was aided by good carry-over from last year. Some small areas will need rains to keep ponds going until young can fly. Overall, there is an abundance of high quality habitat for returning birds, according to a recent report from Ducks Unlimited.

Citing conditions in the parklands as "particularly good", General Manager Angus Gavin reports waterfowl returned to the prairies on schedule the third week of March. Return was good with mallard and pintail numbers especially gratifying. Main migration of of blue-winged teal arrived May 7 and 8.

Some loss to nesting waterfowl occurred in the last half of April when snow and sub-normal temperatures swept the prairie region. Canada geese, nesting in southern prairie areas, persisted and outlasted the storms. Little loss is expected there.

In the parklands, goose nesting was still in the laying stage and females were off nests for long periods. Examination of these nests indicates two to three cracked eggs in most clutches. Broods here will be under normal numbers. Ducks have not been seriously affected because only a few were incubating when the storm struck. There has been widespread nesting and renesting since the storm.

Considering the known factors, Gaven concludes that with warm weather in May and June—and no late snowstorms—prospects for the 1966 duck crop are bright.

Do Not Release Unused Minnows In State Lakes

Minnesota Game and Fish Director Ted Shields urged fishermen to refrain from dumping the unused contents of minnow pails into Minnesota lakes and streams.

Game and fish regulations prohibit the placing of fish into any public waters except under special permit. The law further prohibits the sale or possession of carp for bait purposes.

Releasing the contents of minnow buckets into state waters could easily result in the introduction of an undesirable species, thus damaging sport fishing, Shield said. Many species of fish, in addition to the usual bait minnows, have a habit of finding their way into minnow buckets.

"The soft-hearted angler who wishes to save the lives of a few unused fish in his minnow bucket could be doing tremendous harm to the state's sport fisheries resources," he said. Shields cited the many cases where carp have been introduced into good sport fishing lakes as one reason behind the law.

Another reason, he said, is to protect approximately 100 reclaimed trout lakes now planted with rainbow or brook trout. The introduction of any other species could destroy the efforts to supply additional trout fishing in these lakes.

Shields called attention to the recent discovery of smelt in a few lakes and a northeastern Minnesota stream and said it is possible this species may adversely affect populations of both lake and stream trout in these waters.

He urged fishermen to trap or buy only the minnows they intend to use, but if the trip ends with a few minnows left in the bait bucket, under no circumstances should they be released in lakes or streams.

Who Wants to Farm?

The following editorial from the Wayne (Neb.) Herald can well be applied to this area by substituting any of our local county names for the name "Wayne":

"Who wants to be a farmer in this day and age? Probably more men than there are actually farming. Some have taken other occupations because they can no longer make a living tilling the soil.

"In the earlier lifetime of most Wayne county residents, farms were self-sufficient. Flour, yeast and a few staples were purchased in town but the soil produced many other items.

"Milk, cream and butter came from the cows; pigs were kept for the lard, bacon, ham and pork they provided; chickens were good for eggs or for eating; orchards supplied fruit; gardens furnished vegetables; bread was home-baked; and a farm family could live on the products of the soil.

"Gone are those days. Now it takes more land, more fertilizing, more machinery, more investment and more faith than ever before to be a farmer.

"One has to be a gambler to farm. The weather can be just right or it can be too hot, too dry, too wet, too cold or too changeable. Rains can wash away crops, drought can burn them up, frost can set them back, hail can pound them down, grasshoppers can eat them up, worms can halt their development, disease can cut the yields, wind can shatter the grain or other acts of nature can demolish in minutes what it has taken months to develop.

"Then there's the government. If food prices are up, farm commodities get the blame. No one is around to help keep the cost of farm labor and equipment down but the cost of living is pegged to the cost of food and it's always traced back to the farmer not to the many middlemen involved.

"Get up in the morning before the sun does and you'll see lights burning on Wayne county farms. Get off your job at 5 p.m. and clean up for supper. An hour or two later farmers will still be working in the fields. When they come in, there are chores to be done. Before you retire at night, drive through rural Wayne county and you'll find lights on equipment, still being operated in fields. A five-day week at eight-hours-a-day is more than enough for you? Farmers often work seven days a week and from 12 to 18 hours a day. In the winter they do their own work and often take on other jobs in order to earn a decent living.

"A neighbor is sick, those busy men still find time to take off from their own work to get the neighbor's work done. Don't make a big fuss over it, they tell you. After all, the neighbor would do as much for them if they were laid up.

"They're a remarkable breed, these sun and-win-burned men of rural Wayne county. They don't ask for credit, they just want to be given a chance to work the soil, to make a good living and to provide better things for their family than they have had.

"American farmers are the salt of the earth, the best farmers in the world, out producing farmers of any other nation and dwindling in numbers yearly as more and more are forced to leave the land and the work they love in order to seek employment elsewhere.

"May the small farmers never be replaced by the big outfits that have taken over in other lines of endeavor. May there always be men like our Wayne county farmers, men whose first love is the soil and working in it. They are tops."

Tragic Headlines

The tragic headlines which announce the loss of American lives in Viet Nam make us constantly aware of the senselessness of war. The only consolation—if, indeed, there is any consolation—is that this fight in a steaming far-away land is being waged in the name of freedom and decency.

But there are other tragic headlines. Too many, in fact, and we manage to turn away from them without compassion. These are the headlines dealing with the loss of life on U. S. highways.

Yet when we use these editorial columns to discuss highway safety (there, we've said it!), we can almost sense the curtain of callousness being drawn down—an invisible barrier between the printed page and the thinking mind.

This fails to alter the fact that our highway casualty list is tragic. Perhaps even more tragic than our losses in Viet Nam. In Viet Nam the losses are suffered in the name of a worthy cause. On our highways, the atrocities are committed for the worst possible causes.

Such causes as "Get - there - before - the other-guy". . .and "Hurry up and wait" . . .and "I'll - take - my - share of the road-anyway."

Last year, according to a report by a major insurance company, 48,500 men, women and children were killed on the nation's roadways. That represents approximately the entire population of a city such as Coral Gales, Fla. . . .or Beverly Hills, Calif. . . . or Hoboken, N. J. . . .or Fargo, N. D.

Doesn't that merit your attention for a few moments?

Last year 4,100,000 persons were hurt in traffic accidents. That represents nearly half the population of New York City.

Doesn't that make you stop and think?

As a responsible newspaper, we are frustrated as we attempt to help alleviate this gruesome problem. We can put it on the printed page for all to read, but who's to read it? And who will take it to heart enough to do his part?

How do we convince our citizens that they should stop murdering themselves on the highway?

Editorial columns do not really provide the solution, but you do. We all do—as good citizens—every time we get behind the wheel.

Hoover Speaks

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, makes some timely observations in a recent law enforcement bulletin. He doesn't waste words in making his point, and his point is a good one. The comments follow:

"One concept which is wholly inconsistent with democratic processes is the totalitarian idea that the end justifies the means. In a free society sustained by respect for procedural as well as substantive rights, the "end," however noble, can never excuse unlawful 'means'.

"A current move in this country advocating unlawful means has been labeled civil disobedience. This doctrine is based on the startling theory that if one does not agree with a law and believes it to be morally unjust, he may disregard it to achieve a particular objective.

"I think society, by and large, is unaware of the long-term implications of this creed, primarily because those who seek immediate and temporary solutions have obscured the future by a smokescreen of slogans and high-sounding cliches. No matter what the goal, the fact remains that a peaceful, healthy, orderly society cannot exist now or ever, if each individual may determine which laws he is going to obey and which he is not.

"The basic question is respect for law and due process and whether dispassionate justice is to be rendered.

"To my mind, there are two frightening aspects to civil disobedience. One, sowing contempt for law and order and promoting pride in lawbreaking among the Nation's youth can only result in an acceleration of our serious crime problem. In some quarters, it already appears that the social stigma formerly attached to lawbreakers is being replaced by sympathy for their actions and an irrational hostility to law enforcement.

"Secondly, where is the line to be drawn against the snowball effect of civil disobedience? Willfully disobeying misdemeanor statutes today and committing felonies tomorrow is a logical regression from a government of law to an anarchic society."

Take Me to Your Leader

We got a chuckle out of this commentary by Margery Burns in the Becker County Record at Detroit Lakes recently:

A recent Gallup poll shows that 57 per cent of the people in this country do not know who their Representative in Congress is, and 70 per cent do not know when he comes up for election. This startling lack of knowledge of our government places our freedom in a shaky position. In a few years, we might "out-grow" politics completely.

To show you what this ignorance and apathy could lead to, let's say that you take a new pill which puts you to sleep for a few years, and when you wake up, you naturally want to know what is happening.

You hunt up a smart looking man and you say, "What's going on around here these days?"

He says, "My six month vacation is over and I gotta go back to work for a couple of weeks again. It's a tough life."

You say, "Yeah, but how's politics?"

He says, "Politics? Say, where've you been? In orbit?"

"Not exactly, but who's running for office these days?"

"Nobody's running for office, stupid. Elections were abolished years ago."

"Then who's running the government?"

"Why, the same ones. Or their sons. Or daughters."

"You mean the President is still in office . . .?"

"Yeah, the same ones are in all the offices in the country. They keep telling us how it saves a lot of time for us citizens. We don't have to vote, we don't have to hear political speeches, and we don't have to kick in to fund-raising campaigns. It's great."

"But what if you don't want the same people in office all the time?"

"I don't even know who's in office. So how could I know if I want 'em or not? All I gotta do is follow orders and I'm all right."

"But what if you don't like the orders? What can you do about it?"

"If I don't follow orders, I got to move to the moon. So why shouldn't I like the orders? Say, what are you some kind of nut?"

"You mean we have a dictator?"

"Not so loud, stupid. That word was taken out of our vocabulary a couple of years ago. All I gotta know is that our leaders are working hard for us all the time. They've taken the worry out of our lives."

"But you don't have any freedom any more."

"Freedom? That's out of date today. We got all we want to eat, a nice place to sleep, and plenty of vacations. What more do you want, stupid?"

"How is it on the moon?"

"Tough. You're on your own up there. There aren't any leaders on the moon."

THE WORLD IS WAITING...

In ancient times the world waited breathlessly for every new king. It was always man's crying hope, man's fervent expectation — that under a new king the world would be different.

Today we no longer put our faith in kings — nor in any government that does not represent the people. We believe that tomorrow will be determined by the hopes and ideals of the young men and women who today prepare for their role in life.

There aren't any Christmas bells at graduation time. But it would be well for us to remember those learned men — the Wise Men — who came across the desert to Bethlehem. They came to pay homage to a new-born King . . . One who did change this world.

And the sons and daughters upon whom we look with fond hopes today must find their foundation of faith in the same Lord.

With its ministry of teaching, its inspiration to service and sacrifice, the Church points their path to tomorrow — and ours!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Effective June 1, all general office files and records of Bridgeman creameries were moved to Grand Forks and will be located at the Bridgeman plant, where Mossefin will make his office.

Mossefin is a native of Crookston and joined the Bridgeman-Russell company in 1931. After working in both Crookston and Grand Forks, he became associated with Bridgeman creameries, Inc. in 1939, and has been in the Duluth office since 1941.

Bridgeman creameries operates from Duluth and Minneapolis in eastern Minnesota to Minot and Williston in western North Dakota, and the transfer of the general office operation to Grand Forks was to provide a more centrally located headquarters, according to Keeley.

Several Groups Study Situation At Area Meeting

Persons interested in flood control along the Thief river met Wednesday evening at the Julian Rodahl farm home to discuss some of the problems involved. Rep. Richard Fitzsimons of Argyle served as chairman for the meeting, introduced the speakers and summarized the flooding situation which has plagued farmers on both sides of the Thief river below the Agassiz National Wildlife refuge.

Myron Tiemens of the U. S. Corps of Engineers reviewed the preliminary study made of the river in the fall of 1961. He agreed that improvement was needed in the Thief river drainage system and adding that the Soil Conservation service had made a study of benefits and costs. Tiemens also added that the Corps of Engineers can not participate in the drainage program unless flood control is the major reason for the imporvement project.

Claude Alexander, manager of the Agassiz National Wildlife refuge, pledged the cooperation of refuge resources and personnel to the fullest extent possible. He said the refuge retained as much water as it could hold during the floods this spring, although it would be preferable to have the water pass through the refuge.

Alexander expressed the opinion that water had been a problem since 1961, primarily due to improved drainage above the refuge which has increased the flow of water into the Thief river.

Erling M. Weiberg, administrative secretary of the Minnesota Water Resources board and former Marshall county agent, said that the situation was a "farmer problem". While it would cost money to improve the river channel so that it would carry more water, it is also costly to the farmers along the river to have floods which damage farm land, endanger buildings and livestock and result in late seeding and poor crops.

Weiberg recommended that farmers in the area cooperate in solving the problem, and that the Red Lake Drainage and Conservancy district be changed to a watershed district. He emphasized that local people must cooperate to the fullest extent with the various agencies which can offer them help in river improvement.

Speaking for the Red Lake Drainage and Conservancy district, Delmar Hagen of Gatzke also pledged the assistance of that group. He also noted that help would be needed from farmers in the area. Hagen expressed the opinion that the dam at Thief lake should be improved so that the water level on the refuge could be drawn down in the fall to provide more reservoir area in the spring flood season.

Daughter of Former Grygla Couple Marries

Miss Janet Olstad and Thomas Kostick exchanged marriage vows April 2 at 11 a.m. at St. Lawrence's Catholic church in Minneapolis. The Rev. Wilhelm officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Olstad of Minneapolis and formerly of Grygla. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kostick of Minneapolis.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor length gown of ivory linen textured silk fashioned in empire style with elbow length sleeves and a detachable chapel length train. Her veil of silk illusion fell from a headpiece of lace roses and she carried a cascade arrangement of white roses and stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Miss Diane Pawloski, friend of the bride, attended as maid of honor. Bridal attendants were Cathy Olstad and Linda Moore, sister-in-law and friend of the bride, respectively. They wore mint green floor length gowns in empire fashion with matching headpieces and each carried an arrangement of gold carnations in cascade design.

The flower girl, Lisa Schroeder, niece of the bride, wore a floor-length gown of ivory linen-textured silk, also in empire fashion. She carried gold colored carnations in a basket trimmed with green ribbons. Carrying a white satin pillow, Kent Harmer, nephew of the bride, served as ring bearer.

The groom chose his friend, John Baron as best man. Groomsmen were; Curtis Olstad, brother of the bride and Jim Hanson, a friend of the groom. All were of Minneapolis.

Serving as ushers are Arlen Ellingson, brother-in-law of the bride and Richard Huar, friend of the groom. The men of the wedding party and the ring bearer wore black tuxedos with white carnation boutonnieres. The groom's boutonniere was a white rose.

The mother of the bride wore an off-white two piece suit accented with pink and silver accessories. The mother of the groom was attired in a blue suit with matching accessories. Both wore identical corsages of white baby orchids.

Special guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Christ Anserud, grandparents of the bride.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to the wedding party and members of the immediate families. In the afternoon a reception was held in the Polish White Eagle hall for approximately 150 guests. Centering the buffet table was a three tiered wedding cake surrounded by green and topped with satin wedding bells.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Ted Nymoen of Rothsay who poured, Donna Powell serving punch; Judy Thuleen, registering guests and Pat Pouliot and Carol Rochat who opened and arranged the gifts.

For her going away attire, the bride chose a knit two piece ensemble in antique white with brown leather accessories.

The groom is presently serving in the United States Army at Fort Gordon, Ga., and upon completion of his training period, expects to be joined by his bride.

The Library Corner

By Flora Allison

As the newspaper article indicates, there are new books at the library for those whose poor vision has kept them from reading in the past. We have these books in every category, most of them long favorites with readers everywhere. A list of the complete titles available is to follow. We advise you to clip the list so that you may refer to it from time to time.

Remember, this service costs you nothing. All you need is a library card, and you may obtain that by registering at the desk. Just ask for one, and it's yours for as long as you want it. And free! You don't pay a cent, if you live in this county. We hope to see these books enjoy wide popularity and are certain that they will, once word gets around that they're here. Tell your family, friends and neighbors. Send them in, or bring them in. This is too good to miss.

Here at your fingertips are the titles:

"Travels With Charley-In Search of America". . .Steinbeck.
"The Yearling". . .Marjorie Rawlings.
"Treasure Island". . .Robert Louis Stevenson.
"The Arizona Clan". . .Zane Grey.
"Audobon". . .Constance Rourke.
"Call of the Wild". . .Jack London.
"Ethan Frome". . .Edith Wharton.
"Gift From the Sea". . .Anne Morrow Lindberg.
"Life With Father". . .Clarence Day.
"Let the Hurricane Roar". .Rose Wilder Lane
"Huckleberry Finn". .Mark Twain.
"A Midsummer Night's Dream". . Shakespeare.
"Mozart". . .Marcia Davenport.
"The Mature Mind". . .Overstreet.
"Mama's Bank Account". . . Forbes.

For travelers, there's Leahy's "Hotel and Motel Guide and Travel Atlas", 1966 version, so it's strictly up-to-date. Included is information on and location of national parks, complete with maps; individual maps of states and provinces; motor, fish and game law information; a U.S. mileage chart, and a complete listing of motels and their location and rates. Mexico, Canada and the U. S. are all covered in this handy guide, which is amazing in its completeness.

Along with travel time, it's also housecleaning time, and who knows what may turn up, even, we hope, some long-overdue library books. Some of these are being requested frequently. We hope that if you have this property to which you have no claim beyond the borrowing period, you'll return it to us without further delay so that your neighbor may have the book he's long been requesting and which you have enjoyed and surely want others to enjoy also.

We know how it is, books can be misplaced. But if you bring them in during the next few weeks, you'll find us more lenient with the fines than you might expect. Our main objective is to get the books back. Please, won't you cooperate?

Some of the most lyric and treasured lines in all of poetry, "Sonnets from the Portugese" and other love poems by Elizabeth Barrett Browning, are in a new book we've just acquired to replace a volume which was worn out with use. Did you know that the title was selected in tribute to Robert Browning, to acknowledge his playful habit of calling his wife his "own little Portugese", a habit stemming from her olive coloring? Illustrations are in shadowy pastels and are apt complements to this book which is the story of a beautiful love that has stood as a classic example of devotion for many, many generations and will probably never go out of style.

It's encouraging and rewarding to see the response to our invitation for more children to become summertime readers. The selection of books is at its most complete state in summer, when school is out, so if you youngsters didn't get the book you wanted last winter, try now. You're very likely to find it. Many parents are coming in with the kiddies, and we like to see this. It shows an interest in that keen and receptive mind which is in your trust, and it establishes early in life good reading habits which will carry on and live throughout the life of that child. Its good foundations rest so much with you!

You will very likely find on the adult shelves something you've been wanting to read for a long while and just didn't get around to getting before, parents. Many of you have fine home libraries, but there are undoubtedly many books here, especially in the non-fiction category, that you just don't have. Why not ask for it here? We are quite likely to have it. In fact, we are very proud of our non-fiction section which is swelling with the best available material in these fields and deserves even greater readership than it has been getting.

Hunger, the most persistent enemy of man, is discussed with heart and warmth in "War Against Want," a book about America's food for peace program; the author is Sen. McGovern, and the forward is by President Johnson. Whether you are for it or against it, and the way the program is being handled, this book is worth your reading. There aren't many pictures, but those that are included will touch your heart, and place you on a people-to-people basis with the hurt and the unrest that hunger breeds, and make you more aware that America is indeed blessed beyond measure in her abundance.

Anyway, come on in. Look around; probe; examine. Shop for what you want, in the sense that the looking is free, and if you like what you see, it's available for your home-reading pleasure; It won't cost you a cent, either, if you live here. And you people with slight difficulties, be sure you make use of our new large-type books. You'll love them.

Avoid Let-Down In Caution After Memorial Weekend

"Beware of post-holiday letdown" was a caution issued to motorists today by new Minnesota Highway Patrol Chief John Harbinson.

The chief stated that even though more people are on the highways during the Memorial day three-day weekend, they may be more safety conscious because of stepped up patrolling, heavy news coverage and the knowledge that the highways will be crowded.

But some tend to relax after the first big weekend even though the pleasure trips are concentrated in two days instead of three.

Last year six traffic fatilities were recorded in Minnesota over the three-day Memorial day weekend, but eight, seven and eight were killed on the three weekends following.

Harbinson observed that there is a natural tendency for drivers from the northern states to tromp down on the accelerator at this time of year after being shackled to local driving during the long winter period. The heavy emphasis placed on safety for the Memorial day weekend may keep them cautious on their first trip of the vacation season, but many lose their caution after this weekend.

The new chief urged that motorists use extra caution to avoid two serious mistakes: attempting to cover too many miles over a two-day weekend and failure to put the car in shape for summer driving.

June Dairy Month Activity Includes Dairy Day Here

Minnesota's June Dairy Month bandwagon has started to roll through Minnesota for the 30th time after an official send-off in the Twin Cities.

More than 1,600 dairy farmers and processors from throughout the state bought tickets for the "Dairy Night at the Met" state June Dairy Month kickoff with the Minnesota Twins. Dairy people were joined by some 20,000 "city folks" for the Twins-Detroit Tigers ballgame and pre-game dairy fun program.

With the last of the county dairy days being wound up around the state, attention turned toward the round of 11 regional Dairy Days which begin June 7. Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls will be held June 14.

Booked for the busiest month of her life is Mary Ann Titrud of Clarissa, Princess Kay of the Milky Way, who will make most of her June Dairy Month appearances clad in a special "All Minnesota" butter carton dress of her own design. The novel frock was fashioned from some 500 butter cartons collected from American Dairy association participating creameries throughout the state.

Princess Kay's principal Dairy Month assignments involve participation in the regional dairy days at which 11 finalists for the state Princess Kay contest are chosen. She also is scheduled to represent Minnesota in the 12th annual American Dairy Princess contest in Chicago June 21-24.

Arrangements are virtually complete for the 17th annual Dairy Day to be held Tuesday, June 14, according to Stuart McLeod, president of the Northwest Dairy Improvement association. The princess contest has been increased to two days this year to give the judges more time for judging and allow the candidates to participate in a less hurried atmosphere.

Several improvements in the operation of Dairy Day were made by the board of directors at a recent meeting held in Thief River Falls. The parade which concludes the day's activities is expected to be larger than ever, and a large number of high quality dairy cattle is expected to be entered in competition.

Again this year a purebred dairy calf of the breed of the winner's choice will be offered to the showman of the grand champion grade animal of the show. Showman of the champion purebred will be awarded an expense-paid trip to the International Dairy Cattle Congress at Waterloo, Ia. A large number of participation prizes will also be awarded.

Appearing at the Northwest Dairy Princess coronation ceremony Tuesday afternoon will be Princess Kay of the Milky Way, Mary Ann Titrud of Clarissa. Princess Kay will model the dress made from butter cartons collected from the state's creameries and which was designed by Mary Ann herself.

Flooding Along Thief River Is Discussion Topic

commented on flooding along the Red Lake and Red rivers, stating that concern has been expressed about increased drainage from the farming area. Agreeing that the Thief river situation was serious and in need of considerable study, Sen. Sinclair added that he believed much drainage had been undertaken in the state without sufficient consideration of the outlets.

Les Borning, game warden supervisor stationed in Thief River Falls, also promised assistance from the conservation department in river improvement.

Rep. Andrew Skaar, Thief River Falls, noted that flood damage this year had been severe and that the situation should be given top priority. He also emphasized the need for cooperation by farmers and all agencies in solving the problem.

Stanley Mortenson, Thief River Falls attorney and secretary of the Red Lake Drainage and Conservancy district, outlined the legal procedure involved in initiating improvements. He said a request for assistance should be signed by most of the farmers along the river and that it would be helpful to have endorsement by the county boards of commissioners in the area affected.
